The Sydney Morning Herald.

No. 23,868. { Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a Newspaper. SYDNEY, THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1914. 18 PAGES. PRICE, 1d.

SUMMARY.

The King and the Queen have visited Edinburgh, and are now in Glasgow. Their Majesties were accorded a great welcome.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain has resigned his seat for Worcestershire East, and will contest West Birmingham, his late father's seat.

The Government narrowly escaped defeat in the House of Commons on a resolution in reference to the Finance Bill.

Sir Thomas Brock's statue of Captain Cook, which has been placed in the Mall, has been unveiled.

The Ministerial Council in Vienna discussed measures to uproot the Servian agitation in Bosnia.

It is reported that Austrian troops are being concentrated on the Servian frontier.

The French loan of £32,000,000 has been subscribed forty-four fold.

The Hindus aboard the Komagata Maru have abandoned their attempt to enter Canada.

They are without funds to enable them to return home, and are asking the Dominion Government to help them.

The most powerful battleship in the world is being built on the Tyne for an unnamed foreign nation.

At the Naval Architects' Congress the question of the battleship versus the submarine was discussed.

It was declared that the battleship did not possess effective defence against an underwater attack.

Mrs. Pethick Lawrence states that she left the Women's Social and Political Union because Mrs. Pankhurst could not brook a rival.

Troops have been mobilised to combat the great forest fires raging in North-east Russia.

The House of Lords has rejected the Council of India Bill, designed to reorganise the council at Whitehall.

The British Isles and Belgium met in the preliminary round of the Davis Cup contests at Folkestone.

Mavrogordato and J. C. Parke defeated the Belgian representatives.

Paddon has recovered from his accident, and is now sculling twice daily.

English critics consider that he is rowing with better length than any colonial who has met Barry on the Thames.

The French open golf championship was won by J. D. Edgar (Northumberland).

The Parliament of South Africa has been prorogued.

The bill providing for the settlement of industrial disputes was passed by the Assembly but blocked in the Senate.

Freddy Welsh (England) defeated Willie Ritchie (America) at Olympia for the world's lightweight supremacy.

In the Assembly yesterday the debate on the Address in Reply was resumed.

Mr. Wade criticised the Government programme, and concluded by moving what is practically a vote of censure.

His amendment to the address set out that the charges in the Holman-Meagher episode should be inquired into, or withdrawn.

Notice of motion was given for a select committee to inquire into matters relating to the associated racing clubs.

Mr. Hall told a deputation that he had little hope of securing much in the way of liquor reform from the present Parliament.

A collision took place between 16 runaway trucks and some other trucks at Sydenham (Vic.). Three men were injured.

At the annual meeting of the Pastoralists' Union, high prices were predicted for wool and station products.

The opening rounds of the Adrian Knox Cup, for beaten teams in the Dudley Cup, were contested at Kensington yesterday.

It is reported that a large meat company in America has secured land in Brisbane for the erection of meat works.

The Prime Minister delivered an address to business men yesterday, at a luncheon tendered to him by the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Cook entered a plea for a study of national needs rather than the wants of individual sections of the community.

Sir George Reid says the prospects for Australian trade are far more favourable in Germany than in Austria.

The annual conference of the Liberal Association was commenced yesterday. There was a record attendance of delegates.

Mr. Wade referred to the necessity for complete organisation, to guard against a repetition of the Liberal failure in December.

It was reported that the committee was not prepared to recommend the abolition of the system of local selection.

It was decided by a good majority that women should be eligible for Parliamentary honours.

An agreement governing wages and conditions in the boot trade in Australia has been signed.

The minimum rate for male adult labour is fixed at 1s 3d per hour.

New South Wales has adopted the agreement, which comes into force on December 3.

Trouble is threatened by the engineers at the sugar works at Pyrmont.

The New South Wales master bakers have determined to oppose day-baking being included in the new award.

Unionists, on the other hand, are determined to fight the principle to the bitter end.

A variation has been made in the Demarcation Board's award dealing with boilermakers, shipwrights, and engineers.

"An appeal to unionists," signed by the New South Wales section of the Federal Labour party, has been issued.

"It is a fight to the death. Unionism should realise this," says the appeal.

Mr. W. M. Hughes addressed a meeting in the Federation Hall last night on the main issues of the Federal campaign.

A Victorian deputation asked that the railway from Bairnsdale to Orbost be extended to the New South Wales border.

A conference discussed the position in the Maitland coalfields in connection with the afternoon shift.

A suggestion that the trouble at each mine should be dealt with as local conditions warranted was accepted.

A constable was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour yesterday on a serious charge of assault.

A tender has been accepted for the erection of the new General Post Office at Perth. The contract price is £232,000.

The Public Service Commissioners' report in New Zealand recommends the abolition of needless red-tape formalities.

An application for registration by the Sydney Wharf Clerks' Union was refused by the Industrial Registrar.

William Garlick, 54, was killed by electricity through touching a live wire at the Government quarry at Maroubra.

A tragedy occurred on board the German steamer Oberhausen during her passage from Fremantle to Port Adelaide.

The third steward is alleged to have been murdered, and his body thrown overboard.

At the stud sheep sales there was an active demand for merinos at prices in advance of last year.

F. S. Falkiner and Sons, Ltd., of Boonoke, topped the market with 1500 guineas for an exhibition ram.

The ram was bought privately on behalf of Mr. Lachlan McBean, a South Australian breeder.

The Premier of New Zealand predicts a boom in the trade of the Dominion.

Snow fell on the southern and western highlands yesterday.

A good volume of business was transacted on 'Change yesterday. There was a substantial advance in a number of cases.

Trade in most produce lines was brisk, eggs especially being in strong demand.

There was a fairly active market in wheat, sales being reported from 3/10 to 3/10½.

The oversea wheat markets were cabled as steady and unchanged.

Forecast.—Fine and cold generally except for some showers along the southern and central slopes; snow on the highlands.

LONDON "EXPRESS"—
"We sat with bated breath and watched the horror of it. We watched the brutal, violent drama, and never for an instant through the evening was the strained intensity relaxed. It was hideous, it was tremendous. . . had the greatest of all essentials of theatrical success—suspense, dread, an interest which never slackened. . . It is primitive, crude, and so physically appalling that it is beyond the region of art. But it holds the imagination in a vice. It enthralls while it shocks."

THE VERY LAST WORD IN SPECTACLE STAGING, ACTING, COSTUMING, AND PHOTOGRAPHIC EXCELLENCE.

"I would give the Empire for a kiss from such lips as yours." These words signified the completeness of Cleopatra's conquest of Marc Antony and the depth of that infatuation which led to his fatal surrender to the blandishments of the Serpent of the Nile, causing him to become faithless to his country, to sacrifice his honour, and, finally, to die by his own hand as conquering legions of Rome entered the Palace of the Ptolemies to enforce the decrees of the Roman Senate.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR BUILDERS AND OTHERS.

RHODES, Uhr's Point.—Tremendous activity is being manifested in this progressive district. Hoskins Bros. Pipe Works, Ellis' Timber Yards, the Government Timber Yards, and several other large firms are employing a great number of men, and these employees would live on the spot if Cottages were erected and sold on terms. The building covenant for the estate is only £250, and the price of the land is now cheap, but values are increasing daily.
At present we have a number of Allotments for Sale, but we wish particularly to draw your attention to Lots 104 to 110, facing Cropley-street, opposite Denham-street, and near Refreshment Shop. Each has a frontage of 50 feet by a depth of 150 feet; Torrens Title. Price, £2 per foot, or best offer. Easy terms to suit. Will sell one or more lots. Inquire about this at once. Greatest Bargain on the market.

A MYSTERY.

CHAPTER VIII.
REMAINS AN ENIGMA.

Six days had gone by.

The funeral of the unfortunate Edward Craig had taken place, and locally the sensation caused by the tragic discovery had died down.

The weather was beautifully warm, the sea calm, and gradually a few holiday-makers were appearing in the streets; women in summer blouses, knitted golf coats and cotton skirts, with flannelled-trousered men. They were of the class who are compelled to take their holidays early, before their employers; with them came delighted children carrying spades and buckets.

Fearing recognition by the notorious Frenchman, I was greatly handicapped, for I was compelled to remain in the hotel all day, and go forth only at night.

Frayne and his men had locked and sealed the rooms which had been occupied by old Gregory and Craig, and had returned to Norwich. In their place had come a plain-clothes man who, as far as I could gather, lounged about the corners of the streets, and chatted idly with the constables in uniform.

The plain-clothes man in our county constabulary system is not an overwhelming success. His only real use seems to be mostly that of a catcher of small boys who go out stealing fruit.

By dint of judicious inquiry, made by my man-servant, Rayner, whom I had summoned from London, I had discovered something regarding the foreign gentleman, who had taken apartments in the Overstrand-road two days prior to the date of the tragic discovery.

In my man Rayner I had implicit confidence. He could always keep a secret. He was a fair-haired, bullet-headed chap of thirty-two, whom I had found, eight years before the date of this story, wandering penniless in the streets of Constantinople. I had taken him into my service, and never once had occasion to regret having done so. He was a model of discretion, and to a man constantly travelling, like myself, a veritable treasure.

Sometimes upon my erratic journeys on the Continent I took him with me, at others he remained home in my little flat off Berkeley-square. If I ever called upon him to make inquiries for me, to watch, or to follow a suspected person, he obeyed with an intelligence that would, I believe, have done credit to any member of that remarkable combination of brains—the Council of Seven, of New Scotland Yard.

Living an adventurous life, as he had done, his wits had been sharpened, and his perception had become as keen as that of any detective. Therefore, I had called upon him, under seal of secrecy, to assist me in the investigation of many a mystery.

Knowing his value, I had wired to him to come to Cromer. He arrived when I was out. First, he looked through my traps, folded my trousers and coats, arranged my shirts and ties in order with professional precision, and when I returned, entered my room saying briefly:—

"I'm here, Sir."

I threw myself into a chair and told him all that had occurred, of course, under strictest secrecy.

Then I gave him minute instructions as to making inquiries of the servants at the house in the Overstrand-road. A servant can always get useful information from other servants, for there is a freemasonry among all who are employed in domestic capacities.

Therefore, it was with interest that I sat in my room, overlooking the sea, on the following day, and listened to Rayner's report.

In his straw hat, and well-cut grey tweed suit, my man made a very presentable appearance. It was the same suit in which he went out to Richmond with his "young lady" on Sundays.

"Well, sir," he said, standing by the window, "I've managed to get to know something. The gentleman is a Belgian doctor named Paul Arendt. He has the two best rooms in the house, and is the only visitor staying there at present. They say he's a bit eccentric; goes out at all hours, but gives lots of money in tips. Seemingly, he's pretty rich."

"Has he had any visitors?" I asked quickly.

"One. Another foreigner. An Italian named Bertini, who rides a motor cycle."

"Has he been there often?"

"He came last Monday afternoon—three days ago," my man replied.

"Anything else?"

"Well, Sir, I managed to make friends with the maidservant, and then, on pretence of wanting apartments myself, got her to show me several rooms in the house in the absence of her mistress. Doctor Arendt was out, too, therefore I took the opportunity of looking around his bedroom. I'd given the girl a sovereign, so she didn't make any objection to my prying about a bit. Arendt is a rather suspicious character, isn't he, Sir?" asked Rayner, looking at me curiously.

"That's for you to find out," I replied.

"Well, Sir, I have found out," was his quick answer. "In the small top left-hand drawer of the chest of drawers in his room I found a small false moustache and some grease-paint; while in the righthand drawer was a Browning revolver in a brown leather case, a bottle of strong ammonia, and a small steel tube, about an inch across, with an india-rubber bulb attached to one end."

"Ah," I said. "I thought as much. You know what the ammonia and rubber ball are for, eh?"

The man grinned.

"Well, Sir, I can guess," was his reply. "It's for blinding dogs—eh?"

"Exactly. We must keep a sharp eye upon that Belgian, Rayner."

"Yes, Sir. I took the opportunity to have a chat with the maid about the recent affair on the East Cliff, and she told me she believed that the dead man and Doctor Arendt were friends."

"Friends," I echoed, starting forward at his words.

"Yes, Sir. The girl was not quite certain, but believes she saw the Belgian doctor and young Mr. Craig walking together over the golf links one evening. It was her Sunday out, and she was strolling that way just at dusk with her sweetheart."

"She is not quite positive, eh?" I asked.

"No, Sir, not quite positive. She only thinks it was young Mr. Craig."

"Did Craig or Gregory ever go to that house while our friend has been there?"

"No, Sir. She was quite positive on that point."

"What does the doctor do with himself all day?" I asked.

"Sits reading novels, or the French papers, greater part of the day. Sometimes he writes letters, but very seldom. According to the books I noticed in his room, he delights in stories of mystery and crime."

I smiled. Too well I knew the literary tastes of Jules Jeanjean, the man who was fearless, and being so, was eminently dangerous, and who was passing as a Belgian doctor. He, who had once distinguished himself by holding the whole of the forces of the Paris police at arms' length, and defying them—committing crimes under their very noses out of sheer anarchical bravado—was actually living there as a quiet, studious, steady-going man of literary tastes and refinement—Doctor Paul Arendt, of Liege, Belgium.

Ah. Some further evil was intended without a doubt. Yet so clever were Jeanjean's methods, and so entirely unsuspicious his actions, that I confess I failed to see what piece of chicanery was now in progress.

My next inquiry was in the direction of establishing the identity of the motor cyclist.

That night Rayner kept watchful vigil instead of myself, for I had been up five nights in succession, and required sleep. But though he waited near the house in the Overstrand-road from 10 o'clock until 4 in the morning, nothing occurred. Jeanjean had evidently retired to rest and to sleep.

After that we took it in turns to watch, I having made it right with the night porter of the hotel, for a pecuniary consideration, to take no notice of our going or coming.

For a whole week the notorious Frenchman did not emerge after he entered the house at dinner-time. I was sorely puzzled regarding the identity of that motor-cyclist. Would he return, or had he left the neighbourhood?

Early one morning Rayner, having taken his turn of watching, returned to say that Bertini, with his motor-cycle, had again met the "foreign gentleman" at the railway bridge—the same spot at which I had seen them meet.

They had remained about half an hour in conversation, after which the stranger had mounted and rode away again on the Norwich road, while Jeanjean had returned to his lodgings.

My mind was then made up. That same morning I took train to Norwich, where I hired a motor-car for a fortnight, and paying down a substantial deposit, drove the car—an open "forty," though a trifle old-fashioned—as far as Aylsham, a distance of ten miles, or half-way between Norwich and Cromer. There I put up at a small hotel, where I spent the rest of the day in idleness, and afterwards dined.

MATRONS' BALL.

The town and country matrons' dance, which was held on Tuesday night in the Imperial Salon, was a particularly brilliant affair. Timed to entertain country visitors, including the members of the polo teams now in Sydney, the ball had all the elements of success, and all the guests joined in catching the spirit of enjoyment which was the prevailing note of the evening. The hostesses were:—Lady Gould, Mesdames Kater, Ronald Campbell, Airey, Gidley King, Billyard-Leake, John Anderson, Reginald White, Jack Campbell, Charles Ross, Reginald Davies, Edward Jenkins, Reginald Allen, Allison, Prosper-Williams, Alison, Campbell-Galbraith, Shard, Forrest, Herbert Kendall, Armstrong, Cornish, James M'Master, Watt, Macneill Simpson, Coldham, Sheppard, G. Gordon, Wilkinson, Herbert Marks, Frank White, Harold White, Mackay, Macfarlane, Austin-Austen, E. Smith, F. King, Pickburn, Victor White, Spencer-Brunton, Halliday, Craig, A. L. Davies, Tess Levigg, Tom Watson, Rossiter, M Morran, Irving Keys, Charles Hotham.

The hall was decorated in the Japanese scheme of colour and flowers, and the supper tables were done in jonquils and sweet peas. Many beautiful gowns were worn. Mrs. Reginald White wore a gown of creme satin, with a tunic of Persian blue brocaded ninon, edged with a tiny ruching, corsage finished with point lace. Mrs. J. Campbell (Goorianawa) was in flame-coloured satin, with a tunic of Limerick lace. Mrs. F. M'Master, emerald green satin draped stripe, with a white tulle bodice. Mrs. W. Dunlop, royal blue satin, embroidered with sapphire trimming. Mrs. N. Falkiner, royal blue stamped velvet with touches of pale pink, on a corsage of white lace and tulle. Miss Watt (Ulinda), cherry ninon over white satin. Miss E. Holdship, maize satin with a lampshade tunic of aerophane, finished with ruched edge. Mrs. Stephen Osborne, black velvet robe, beautifully finished with white lace bodice, and a single pink rose. Miss Ina Cornish, pale orchid charmeuse with a rose-pink chiffon sash. Miss Dorothy Galbraith in pale yellow satin. Mrs. Kenna wore a frock of nattier blue satin, with a puffed tunic, finished with silver brocade. Miss Brookman (Adelaide), fuchsia-red ninon over satin, with a broad band of gold embroidery, finished with a velvet sash of the same colour. Mrs. R. Marks was in emerald green satin, finished with a tulle bodice. Mrs. Irving Keys grey satin, and chiffon, with diamante trimming. Mrs. Spencer Brunton, grey ninon over charmeuse, with point lace. Miss Enid Bayly was in black. Miss Cherie Gordon in blue satin and ninon. Mrs. Hotham royal blue chiffon over white satin, with diamante trimming. Mrs. F. MacDonald, black satin trained skirt with white tulle bodice, bird of Paradise plume. Mrs. Harvey was in grey satin and ninon. Mrs. Ritchie (N.Z.), white satin, finished with a Honiton lace trimming, and tango sash, veiled with white ninon. Mrs. V. White wore black velvet. Mrs. A. S. Littlejohn, white lace over satin. Miss Teece, pale blue brocade, with white lace bodice. Miss Marjorie Mort, cherry ninon over satin. Miss Joyce Allen, white, with mauve sash.

Also present were General and Mrs. Finn, the Misses Spencer Brunton, Misses Campbell, Miss Billyard-Leake, Miss Robertson, Miss Grubb (Tas.), Dr. and Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. Douglas Bell, Miss Atherton, Capt. Wallis, Capt. d'Apice, Messrs. Tom Watson, Withycombe, N. Bell, F. Bell, Bruce Campbell, A. Munro, H. Robertson, Ryrie, Osborne, F. M'Master, A. Davies, W. Dunlop, N. Falkiner, Dr. Kenna, Prof. Barraclough, Dr. Chapman, Messrs. Gerald Cooper, D. Allen, Lockhart, Jacques, C. Macarthur, MacCarthy, F. Rutledge, F. Shepherd, F. M'Donald, F. and H. White, Alison, J. Spencer Brunton, Reg. White, Wilkinson, Pickburn, and Dr. Herbert Kendall.

THE HOSPITALS.

FIRST DISTRICT INSTITUTION.

The Minister of Public Health has made a tour of inspection of the cottage hospitals in the western suburbs district, accompanied by the various hospital presidents and others interested.

The main object of the tour was to decide upon a site for the first district hospital, which the Minister proposes to erect under his policy. It was agreed that Canterbury was the best place for the purpose. At St. George it was found that the cottage hospital was a long way behind requirements. The Western Suburbs Cottage Hospital at Ashfield was also found to be unable to meet the demands made upon it. Mr. Flowers came to the conclusion that it would be necessary probably largely to increase the accommodation for patients at both these hospitals, besides erecting a district hospital at Canterbury. He would consider the whole question upon this basis.

DEBATERS' CONGRESS.

The various literary and debating societies of Sydney and suburbs have formed a debaters's congress or model parliament. Mr. T. S. Richardson was appointed returning officer for the first election of congressmen to the Debaters' Congress, and issued writs for nomination and election. The first meeting of congressmen was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday night, when the following appointments were made:—President, Mr. T. Richardson; prime minister, Mr. B. Addison; ministers and clerks of congress, etc., Messrs. A. C. Elliott, L. Jacobs, O. D. Zieman, R. P. Edwards, E. O. Prosser, J. J. Owen, L. R. Enge, E. T. Ryan, A. R. Dadswell, P. E. Coleman, V. G. Campbell, and the Rev. H. Tivey. The period has been extended a further three months for debating societies to affiliate with the congress by sending up to six members for each society.

SECONDARY EDUCATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your article of June 22 dealing with "The New Education" there are certain assumptions which can hardly be justified. The hypothesis upon which the articles appears to be founded is that educational reform was sorely needed, and that "the new system" was the result of an attempt to keep our schools in the van of progress," in which desirable position they would not otherwise be, not, at least, if they could help it. Readers would also gather that, though details of the new scheme might here and there be open to criticism, the principles of it were altogether admirable.

With regard to principles. Previously two public examinations, the senior and the junior, have been conducted by the University. Schools have appreciated the opportunity of entering their pupils for them, and the results have in the main been a satisfactory test of a school's efficiency. Two points are to be noticed—the examinations have been voluntary, and they have been entirely under the direction of the University. So far, the novelty of the new model lies mainly in the registration and inspection of schools, the compulsory nature of the intermediate examination, and the substitution, in place of the University, of the department or the Bursaries Board or the Board of Examiners or the Director of Education. To registration, on equitable lines, and inspection, no one can object; the wonder is that we have not had them amongst us long ago; but the other changes are less welcome. It should not need to be argued that the University is the right body to decide what course shall be followed by persons seeking admission to the University; nor can many parents or schoolmasters believe that a compulsory examination, between the ages of 14 and 16, is likely to do away with the evils of cramming, for which the Director of Education and the schools have so righteous a hatred.

With regard to details of the scheme, your article states that these are accidental; the adjective is fortunate, but it is curiously unfortunate that there should have been so many accidents in a system, which schools either are forced to accept, or, in default, they must advertise themselves as "unregistered," and must cut off their pupils from their chances of free education at the University. Some of these accidents have been already amended; but the struggle to obtain such relief has been a long and desperate one, and we have often felt that we were living under a despotism, to which it was waste of time to send in any appeal. For example, the number of subjects required at the intermediate examination has only been reduced to reasonable limits within the last few days; but it is a very long time since the flood of protests began to reach the authorities; in the meantime, as Miss Badham feels, incalculable damage has been done, time-tables have been disorganised in a despairing attempt to meet impossible requirements, important subjects have been robbed of their due allowance of time, pupils and teachers have been discouraged, and many weeks have been partially wasted.

Apart from every other argument, one fact alone makes it clear that the position is not so simple as is assumed by your essayist; the very school, which he justly takes as an example of those needing no repentance, is the first of all schools to express publicly its mature decision that the new education is unsatisfactory.

Since the above was written, there has appeared Mr. Prescott's article on "The Slighted Humanities," a timely protest, for which many other headmasters will join me in giving thanks. But his "correction" in your issue of July 6 has plunged me into further exasperating doubt. He says that he has been informed "privately, but on the best authority" that "a mathematical pass, in the leaving certificate examination, at a standard but slightly differing from the old junior pass, stands as the minimum of mathematical attainment, much as before."

Now who or what is that "best authority?" Is it the Director of Education, or the Bursaries Board, or the Leaving Certificates Board—or, perchance, Professor Carslaw, who has often spoken publicly for all of those powers, and may do so privately, too? It certainly cannot be the university, whence we hear nothing nowadays, but from which Mr. Prescott, not yet discouraged, asks an official statement. How are headmasters to know the real authority, when not even Mr. Prescott, who is fortunate, can feel sure that his private message from "the best authority" is valid, without something added from another source?

But this "best authority" speaks with yet more confusing effect. It declares that there is in the leaving certificate examination one mathematical paper, which is definitely below leaving certificate standard, being just about that of the junior. Now it has been stated that in mathematics the junior and intermediate certificate standards are much the same. Hence we have one leaving certificate paper equal only to an intermediate certificate paper. But no word of this had been breathed to the schools until Mr. Prescott received that mysterious message last Saturday. Meanwhile, the schools that have been preparing for a leaving certificate standard, in a mathematical paper, that now is alleged to be of a vastly lower standard, will be asking themselves, as I ask myself, what does all this manipulation of standards mean? And further, if one leaving certificate paper is only equal to an intermediate certificate paper, why should it count the same number of marks towards the total for a State exhibition, as, for example, a Latin paper, of a standard very much higher indeed than any paper of the intermediate certificate grade.

Next, our "best authority" says, "the demands as regards languages are made somewhat more stringent." May I ask how or by whom? I have had no news of the change. All I know is that the arrangements of the syllabus are just the same as ever—too much time being assigned to some subjects, and too little to others, and a false equality of value being ascribed to the work done in languages, and that done in many other subjects of less difficulty, and needing less time for study.

When someone can tell us openly, and with unimpeachable authority, that we shall no longer be afflicted with daily varying interpretations of the mathematical requirements for the Leaving Certificate, and that a fair distribution of time and marks has been made, according to the work required in preparing boys up to a fair leaving certificate standard in languages, and that we are not to be degraded into so many musterers of school stock with a view to an intermediate branding of all boys of examinable age in our schools, we shall be free once more to attend properly to our schools, whose credit is our chief concern, and was not low, even before all these "authorities" began to flash in and out around them.

[We should be sorry to think that our article of the 22nd conveyed the impression that the secondary schools were in an unsatisfactory condition. But once the policy is adopted of linking up the State primary schools with the University by State high schools, justice required some provision to take in the existing secondary schools, and it is in the effort to standardise public education of the several grades that the real difficulties arise.]

GERMANY AND THE DUTCH INDIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I find in your issue of July 4 Professor Macmillan Brown's book, "The Dutch East," reviewed, and the following statement quoted: "The real danger lies in quite another direction. One of the first steps that Germany would take if her war party succeeded in embroiling her with England or France, would be to seize Holland and Belgium. If she succeeded in retaining Holland, Java would fall into her hands, and thereafter there would be no peace for Australia and her unoccupied Northern Territory." Your contributor then goes on to say that be the menace German or Japanese, the moral is indicated with equal clearness, to fill the land, and to prepare for self-defence.

I would like to ask you kindly to give the most formal dementi as to the possibility of a German attack on Holland or the Dutch Indies. I don't know from where the author of the book has taken his information; I only know that it is without any foundation whatever. Germany has proved now for more than 40 years her peacefulness, and it is hardly to be understood, and at any rate very regrettable, that people should come to the front with these silly rumours. This all the more in that part of the world where so many ten-thousands of Germans are settled, and are liked and esteemed as good settlers and orderly citizens, and where the economic and friendly relations between the two countries are increasing every day.

Memories of Dickens have been recalled by the proposal to repair Grant's Tower at the entrance to the Rossendale Valley. The popular story is that the tower was built by the Grant brothers, immortalised by the novelist as the Cheerybles, to mark the spot which ended their arduous journey from the north of Scotland.

PAPUA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In the issues of the "Sydney Morning Herald" of March 10 appeared a sub-leader dealing with the administration of Papua. Part of the criticism depended upon an interview with myself of the same date. In the issue of May 2 appeared a reply in the form of extracts from a memorandum signed by Mr. Staniforth Smith, Commissioner for Lands, Mr. A. M. Campbell, Government Secretary, and Mr. C. E. Herbert, Deputy Chief Judicial Officer of Papua. Whilst very disinclined to take publicly a different point of view to that of the most prominent officials of the country, I cannot remain silent under the assumption that I, as a white settler here, gave erroneous information when interviewed by the press, or that such information resulted from ignorance, temporary disappointment, illwill, or personal feeling—terms used by his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor of Papua in an interview of 23rd May to express his opinion of most of the criticisms concerning Papua.

In my interview with your paper I laid stress on the difficulty of acquiring lands from the natives, and on the fact that this difficulty was becoming greater every year. I also stated that I considered the most important problem in Papua to be the acquirement of lands by the Crown that were not used or likely to be used by the natives, except for an occasional day's hunting.

It is useless for me again to express my opinions in opposition to such authorities, but I think the matter can be tested in another way. For the information of himself and those of the public who are interested, I would suggest that the Minister for External Affairs should obtain from the lands office in Port Moresby the following details of land applied for for each of the last five years, including this year:—The name of the applicant, locality, and amount of land applied for, amount agranted, amount refused because the natives would not sell, and the amount refused for other reasons. Applications by settlers for small areas not to be massed with applications for large areas further away from the centres of white population, but each application dealt with separately. While I am confident that the result would verify my statements concerning the difficulty of acquiring lands from the natives, it will very much underestimate the real condition of things. It is customary for the prospective holder to visit the land he wants, and to ascertain whether the natives will sell. Needless to say, he does not send in an application unless he hopes that the natives will sell.

The following statements appear in the memorandum:—"No difficulty has arisen, or we believe is likely to arise in purchasing all the land we require from the natives. Certainly the natives have refused to sell certain lands, but the instances are not numerous, and other lands the Government have refused to permit them to sell, as it was believed that they required, or might require it in the future." It is difficult to reconcile these statements with numerous unsuccessful applications for land, in which the applicant has been told that the natives would not sell to the Government, and I believe such unsuccessful applicants have been numerous. Among recent unsuccessful applicants is a son of Judge Herbert, requiring some 300 acres about 25 miles from Port Moresby. The application was unsuccessful because the natives would not sell. Judge Herbert is one of the gentlemen responsible for the memorandum. The memorandum states that "259,600 acres have been alienated to white settlers, 983,858 acres of Crown lands have been purchased, and await alienation." The whole area of Papua amounts to fifty-eight million acres. The mere mention of a million acres conveys nothing to one without information as to the nature of the country, the quality of the land, its accessibility, and distance from the centres of white population. What is one million or two million acres of land to the small settler if not suited to his purpose, accessible, or within reasonable distance of the centres of white population?

There is another land difficulty which has been in evidence for the last year or two, that is the difficulty in acquiring small areas of land required for a special purpose in the vicinity of Port Moresby. It was brought to my notice a few days ago that an effort had been made to enlarge the area occupied by the European cemetery for Port Moresby. This area consists of a few acres situated in grass and gum tree country, three-quarters of a mile behind Hannabada village. I am informed that the natives declined to sell any land here at all. I am also informed, on authority which I cannot doubt, that certain natives were interviewed by Mr. A. M. Campbell, and that it was ascertained by him that they were unwilling to sell some waste land between Port Moresby and Pari village, which land it was thought would be suitable for a racecourse. Subsequently land was secured for a racecourse in another direction. Mr. Campbell is another of the gentlemen responsible for the memorandum.

I contend that the Government should purchase whenever possible all lands not used, and not likely to be used by the native except for an occasional day's hunting. This would give the prospective settler a better chance of obtaining suitable land, and would be a wise policy when one remembers that no one can tell what land will be required by the Government in the future. According to the memorandum, it should be an easy matter to purchase these lands, judging from the following extract:—"No difficulty has arisen, or we believe is likely to, in purchasing all the land we require from the natives." Why should the memorandum state, "It would, we believe, be a mistaken and unjustifiable policy for the Government to purchase very large additional areas of land from the natives, which would prohibit them from using it, and which might never be required by the Government or the settler." Why should the Government prohibit the natives from using land not required by the Government or the settler? Surely this land is better in the hands of the Crown.

In writing this letter, I have been at a great disadvantage in putting forward my point of view, having to confine myself to such information as I know to be reliable without access to official documents for verification. It is with great reluctance that I have written at all. I am told that my interview with your paper was adversely commented upon by his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor in another interview with the press, and I feel that if I remain silent the press will have the opinion that the white settler here is an irresponsible romancer, and, as the press is practically the only means the white settler possesses of publicly expressing his views or of influencing the policy of the country of his adoption, I feel that silence on my part would be prejudicial to his interests.

I am, etc., C. C. SIMSON.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your reference to teachers' salaries in your educational notes this morning will be welcomed by the 7000 members of the teaching profession in the State service, if only to show that they are not forgotten. The high cost of living to-day in this State places 80 per cent. of its teachers always on the rocks. Thousands of these men and women have charge of schools on the miserable salary of a little over £2 a week. Hundreds of women with 20 years' service, and classified, too, holding most important positions, are in receipt of a trifle over £2 8s a week, and there are similarly highly-qualified men living on £174 a year. It is not a bit too strong to say that the great majority of teachers are being sweated, and that it is impossible for them to live lives that go to make ideal teachers. Right from the director downwards to the teacher leaving the training college there is a parsimony that cannot be seen in any other branch of the Public Service. On every hand it is admitted that in modern life the teacher performs the most important duties of citizenship, and in this State it is generally claimed that the work entrusted to its teachers is done well, placing the system on a level with any in the world. The inducements to enter the service are so small that the department has had to go to Great Britain for teachers, and, if report be true, these have had to be placed in a higher grade (carrying fair salaries) than they occupied in Great Britain before even these could be obtained. Of those children who have passed the Q.C. examination it would be interesting to learn the percentage who propose taking up teaching as a profession. From inquiries I have made I fancy it will be found to be very small. If a youth go into the Lands, the Justice, the Mines, Railway, Customs, in fact, in any other branch of the Public Service, there is an attractive salary ahead of him; but in the Education Department he will be fortunate if he can obtain a decent living. The average teacher is the worst dressed person in the community; his family are, of course, as bad; and his home-life conducted on the most meagre lines. Outside his text books he is without a library, and as a patron of the arts he is unknown, for he has all he can do to provide the necessaries of life. Recently the State Parliament was asked to include its State teachers in the schedule of the Industrial Disputes Act, and 17 voted for the inclusion. Even Labour members thought it would be undignified for teachers to have a wages board to secure something better than a sweater's dole, but not one rose up and asked for justice for the teacher. My union wants £132 a year as a minimum wage, £200 for classified teachers of five years' experience, and a general uplifting of the whole service, so as to put it on a level, at least, with other branches of the Public Service. Daily I am in receipt of letters asking what is the Government going to do for these underpaid men and women, and the only reply I can give is "wait until we get a wages board, who will take the case out of the Government's hands, compelling it to pay a decent wage."

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

FARM LABOUR.

One of the problems of agriculture is to provide labour for the harvesting of the wheat crop. At present, farming in the wheat belt is conducted on a limited system, which provides work for few hands during the greater part of the year. Then, at harvest time, when the crop must be taken off quickly, and time means money, there is a demand for a large quantity of labour for a limited period. To a great extent, therefore, the harvesting of our most important crop largely depends upon chance, for there is no guarantee that sufficient labour will be forthcoming. In addition, there is a palpable weakness in depending upon this nomadic labour, and the lack of permanency about the business is hardly a good thing for the State. Until farming operations in the wheat country become more diversified, and rotation and fodder crops are grown, it is difficult to see how the position will be remedied. A combination of stockraising on intensive lines with wheatgrowing, which would mean growing fodder crops and feeding the stock, would give permanent employment probably to sufficient labour to carry through the wheat harvest, and the increasing value of stock may turn attention in this direction. The difficulty referred to has been a great trouble in America, and it is interesting to note that "the experience of years has gradually provided somewhat of a system for manning the harvest fields, the adoption of which has been made possible by the upward reach of the season of maturity. Beginning in Texas, a small army of harvest hands, increasing in number as the season waxes and moves northward, brings to the grain growers of the west the brawn essential to supplement the machines in the transfer of the standing grain to the shock. This army moves with the harvest." In this country, of course, a similar development would mean that the army would move southward. But climatic conditions are too similar here to promote hope that the difficulty will thus be met.

SHEEP AND WOOL.

We have received from the publishers, Messrs. Whitcombe and Tombs, Ltd., Melbourne, a copy of "The Sheep and Wool Industry of Australia," by H. B. Smith. It is intended as a handbook for the farmer and woolclasser, and contains a lot of useful information, but more attention is given to wool and its handling than to the sheep on the farm. What information is given, however is practical and sound. Some useful advice is given regarding the breeding of a crossbred flock, such as most farmers go in for. The various breeds of sheep and the class of [illegible] are briefly referred to. A chapter [illegible] some points to work on in selecting sheep; the subject of shearing is covered, and a chapter tells the reader how to kill, skin, and dress a sheep, all of which advice should be serviceable to the man starting to handle sheep on the farm. The greater part of the balance of the book is devoted to wool-classing, manufacturing, pressing, scouring, selling, buying, and fellmongering, which would be of more service to the woolclasser than to the farmer, although the latter is interested in these matters. There are many daily phases of sheep-farming which confront the beginner that might have been profitably explained in such a work, but most writers upon these subjects always take certain knowledge—bedrock simple facts—for granted in the case of the reader, when in truth it is all unknown ground to the beginner, the man who requires assistance.

MILK OF TUBERCULOUS COWS.

As there have been several prosecutions recently against dairymen for selling milk of cows which were suffering from tuberculosis, a short account of the law making this an offence, may prove of value to those concerned. In one of these prosecutions, it was contended that there was no evidence that the defendant was a person who sold milk, and that any milk was sold from the cow that was said to be suffering from tuberculosis. Under the Dairies Supervision Act, 1901, it is provided that any person who sells or supplies milk produced by any diseased animal, is liable, on conviction, to a penalty of £30. Further, under the Pure Food Act, 1908, it is provided that no person shall sell for the food of man the milk of a cow in his milking herd which is suffering from any disease. It is important to note, that a diseased cow found in the milking herd of a person who sells milk is to be deemed prima facie evidence that the milk of such cow has been sold for the food of man. The diseases so far proclaimed are, actinomycosis, anthrax, cancer, red water, contagious pleuro-pneumonia, purperal fever, or puerperal septic conditions, tuberculosis, and inflammations, eruptions, and abscesses of the udder. The Board of Health, in its directions for the guidance of the dairymen, gives some useful information in relation to tuberculosis in cattle, and the farmers should make themselves familiar with it.

THE BANANA INDUSTRY.

The process of converting the banana industry in North Queensland into a white man's industry is proceeding steadily. There is an increasing number of white growers. Heretofore, practically all the bananas in North Queensland were grown by Chinese, who exhausted the soil, and then passed on to fresh areas every few years. The abandoned areas are taken generally by men who entered upon the growing of sugar. The Queensland Government is endeavouring to get the banana industry into white hands. It is found almost impossible to do anything with Chinese growers, who persist in picking fruit in an immature state and sending it forward. In the southern part of Queensland, and especially around Brisbane, the industry is entirely in the hands of white growers, and some splendid fruit is grown. The returns from bananas are quick, once the heavy scrub country in which the plants do best has been cleared. With fair prices splendid returns can be secured.

ITEMS.

Factories excel most farms as profit-makers, because under factory methods waste and leaks are avoided.

The Gleniffer Co-operative Dairy Company, Limited, reports another successful year and states that the average overrun for the 12 months ended April 30 was .81 per cent.

Texas, U.S.A., is said to have gone silo mad. On one holding a deal was made for the erection of 44 silos. The silo is considered an important factor in the raising of young live stock.

Every endeavour is being made by the Department of Agriculture to increase the supply of "wood" in order to cope with the demand for grafted vines. To this end, arrangements have been made for the grafting of a few acres of European vines at Yanco with American "wood," in order to produce cuttings rapidly for grafting purposes.

It is not desired to use "wood" from the Howlong Viticultural Station, which must be disinfected as a safeguard against the possible spread of phylloxera.

A meeting of settlers on the Yanco irrigation area appeared unanimous in the view that the introduction of paspalum on the area should not be allowed.

It was pointed out that both paspalum and couch grasses had proved veritable curses to fruitgrowers in other parts of the State, and there was no reason to suppose that the same thing would not occur here. There was no question whatever that the grass would be blown about by the wind and sown in a short time all over the areas.

Farmers who keep their horses steadily at work produce their crops economically, but this requires good management and planning. Idle horses on the farm represent unproductive capital.

Vignerons of the Murray Valley and people around Walla Walla interested in viticulture have been waiting many months for a visit by a Minister for Agriculture. Mr. Ashford, together with Mr. Valder, Under-Secretary, Messrs. R. T. Ball and J. J. Cusack, Ms.L.A., proposes to visit Walla Walla, Howlong, Corowa, and Albury on Friday and Saturday.

It saves time and is more profitable to put farming machinery under cover, and give it an oiling, than to have to clean it up and put it in order when it should be working in the paddock. Yet it is common to see expensive machines left exposed in the paddock during the off season, and delays at harvest time are also too numerous.

In the Albury district the impetus given to the Cumberoona weir proposal by the agreement drawn up, at the Premiers' Conference, between the States concerned and the Commonwealth, has awakened interest in viticulture by the prospect that the industry will expand considerably by the aid of irrigation. There is a feeling that vignerons should be given an idea as to what assistance the State can give during the next year or two in the reconstitution of vineyards, and the planting of new and additional areas under vines.

DRAUGHT HORSE QUESTION.

(BY H. M. SOMER.)

The draught horsemen of New South Wales may be very desirous of opportunities of registering their stock in stud books, but so far they have not exhibited any eagerness to proceed in this direction. Everybody concerned has drifted on from year to year, taking anything offered in the shape of pedigrees for granted, and passing these on cheerfully to the next men, who have as cheerfully accepted them. For years our people have been buying stallions and mares from dealers who have picked these animals up in New Zealand and Victoria.

The mother State has been a dumping ground for the culls of these two places, and we have always taken the breeding by the card, and no questions asked. It has, indeed, been a characteristic of the draught horse business that pedigree was of little account, the main object of the seller being to persuade the often gullible buyer that the animal was the horse for his money. Price has completely overshadowed lineage, and once a man secures a stallion his only use for the pedigree is to publish it on the service card.

It may be true, half-true, or wholly false. That is no concern of the new owner. His trouble is not to doubt the particulars, but to convince the next man that they are as good as they read. No man can question a pedigree when no reference to a stud book is provided, and there having been no recognised book in Australia no man could be asked to give references to that which did not exist.

So no man knows, and very few seem to care, from whence 90 per cent. of the stud draught horses in New South Wales sprang, and apparently very few men care how they came into being. It might be said that, despite this chaotic condition, our horses have improved somewhat in recent years, and there is some truth in the statement. But it cannot be sensibly asserted that the improvement is in the least degree due to the fact that none of our horses could be traced back a couple of generations or so. If there is improvement, it has been promoted in the teeth of the opposing circumstances, by the demand of men who have been called upon to pay more for their horses, for a better animal in exchange for the cash. An improvement in prices is almost solely responsible for any gain in respect to the class of draughts which has been foaled in this State. The rest is the outcome of the better ideas of men who came from other States with a fairly high standard for draughts in their minds.

It is just possible that the apathetic attitude of the draught horse men in New South Wales may be due to a feeling that, as breeding has gone on so long without any particular regard to lines of breeding or pedigree, it is not worth while to undertake to establish a register aimed at essentially providing for certified pedigrees. In that case, it might be asked how they expect the stock to be kept even nearly pure, and what is to prevent degeneration from steadily eating into quality and true draught characteristics? Such an attitude ignores the history of the breeds, and the long persistent effort of the breeders who made that history, and also the breeds. Are the breeders of this progressive age going to throw down the edifices so laboriously raised by the enthusiasts who established the foundation stock, and those which have carried on the good work to this day?

Perhaps the easy-going opportunist who buys a stallion to sell it to the next man can afford to laugh at the ancients who, about 120 years ago in Lanarkshire, began to breed the active, high-spirited draught horse which was their ideal. He may even wax scornful at the plodding accuracy with which the best characteristics of the English cart horse have been preserved and brought boldly out in the present-day Shire. But the horse-breeders of a new country cannot safely allow these wonderful horses to lose their identity, to become so graded and mixed with each other and with foreign stock that no good class of animal can be bred with any certainty from the best selected mating.

The flippant horseman when discussing the question of the mixing of Clydesdale and Shire types will say that it is of no consequence. Shire stallions, he says, have been used in Clydesdale studs, and Clydesdales in Shire studs, and the effects are noticeable even in stock registered in the accredited stud books. This statement has foundation in fact, but it has no weight as an argument that no trouble should be taken to preserve the breeds in their established forms.

After the Lanarkshire men began to follow up the progeny of the famous black stallion they found their horses, while active enough, were inclined to be light, and it is admitted that cart-horse or Shire blood was introduced to make weight. Similarly, after the splendid free-stepping, clean-boned Clydesdale was evolved the English breeders undoubtedly used sires from time to time to impart activity and fire to their horses.

This has been a practice in the making of all breeds, and yet each stands out distinctly from its fellows. If in Australia we are to merge the shire into the Clydesdale and the Clydesdale into the shire, without any regard for the distinct purpose, then there is only one hope for the Australian draught horse, and that is the evolving of a new type of horse better suited to the country than either. But if this hope is to be realised it will surely be necessary to define that type and breed to it. While an indiscriminate mixing of the two goes on, how are breeders to rely upon the progeny of any stock?

So we come to the clear conclusion that, even if, as some draught men maintain, it will prove impossible by the aid of registration, to preserve the Clydesdale distinct from the shire, it is still necessary for the preservation of [illegible] character in the horses that a stud [illegible] should be established. It is by no means certain, however, that the many Australian horses cannot be returned to the true Clydesdale on the one hand and the few to the shire on the other. The position of the breeds now makes the task of the stud book makers extremely difficult. It may be hoped that no place will be found in any book for animals which cannot show strong evidence of either Clydesdale or shire, and that as a matter of course the registrations of these will bear separate numbers.

Just now the question most prominently before breeders in New South Wales is whether a book for the State will be established, or whether one of the books in Victoria shall be recognised and our horses be registered there. Every new society and every new book is open to severe criticism, because it is practically impossible at the beginning to trace the many curious combinations that appear on the forms of the applicants. The several books which have been referred to recently have their critics, and it is possible that breeders in this State may hold the opinion that if anything is to be done it should be in the direction of adding a new one to the collection.

A new association in New Zealand has issued a volume. The promoters of this new association have, it is understood, established the body because the records kept for 30 years by the Canterbury Agricultural Association have been said to be carelessly compiled. On the other side of this dispute Mr. W. P. Archibald, of Hastings, N.Z., wrote in these columns the other day a very severe condemnation of the records in the book of the new association.

The R.A.S. of Victoria has issued seven volumes of the "Draught Horse Stud Book of Australia," yet a new body has recently sprung into existence on the assumption that this book is unsatisfactory. The new society is called the Clydesdale Horse Society of Australia, and it is said to be well supported. The R.A.S. of Victoria in the compilations for entry in its book calls simply for two crosses on the sire's side and one on the dam's of any animal proposed to be registered. The new society proposes a kind of grade scheme, by which horses of different degrees of breeding will be registered in various classes.

There is a choice for the New South Wales breeder or owner who may desire to register stock, while the combined breeders have the alternative of starting a book for this State. At the horsebreeders' conference at Easter the "Draught Horse Stud Book of Australia" was objected to because the conditions were held to be too easy. It was said that there were many pure draught mares in New South Wales, and it would be ridiculous to register these with crossbreds.

The state of the case, however, is that, although there are pure mares here, no man can prove that their pedigrees are correct. If anything from which a useful register may be evolved is to be done it will be necessary first to admit that our horses can only claim to be registered as foundation stock. That being admitted the conditions of the book of the R.A.S. of Victoria are just what would have to be concerned if a book were inaugurated in New South Wales. Therefore, the question for our draught horse men is, whether to recognise this book and register under its rules, or to begin a new book in this State? In any case the matter is entirely in the hands of the horse men, and unless they join and take concerted action, the present rather disgraceful mixed breeding from horses, pedigree unknown, must continue.

PASTORALISTS' UNION.

REASSURING OUTLOOK.

WOOL AND STATION PRODUCTS.

HIGH PRICES PREDICTED.

Many matters of importance were touched upon in the address of Mr. Philip Oakden, the president of the Pastoralists' Union, at the 24th annual meeting of that body, held at the Employers' Federation rooms, Hunter-street, last night.

After remarking that the industry had enjoyed continued prosperity, and that there were prospects of remunerative prices for wool and station products in the near future, Mr. Oakden said that the world's consumption of meat continued to expand, while the supply was stationary or decreasing. The United States of America, which, as recently as three years ago, was an exporter, was now importing. During the first four months of this year the Australian exports of meat to that country amounted to 13,658,990lb of beef, 1,966,175lb of mutton, and 264,783lb of lamb, of a total value of £224,000.

DECREASE OF FLOCKS.

In Australia as a whole there had, during recent years, been little increase of sheep and cattle, while, as far as this State was concerned, the flocks had decreased from nearly sixty-two millions in 1892 to just under forty millions last year, the fall during the past five years, which had mostly been favourable, having been over six millions. A shortage was being experienced in the Argentine Republic, where, according to reports, sheep were on the decrease, and stock owners were finding it a hard matter to stock up with cattle. All the indications pointed to a world-wide scarcity in the near future, with high prices as the natural result.

CARRYING QUESTION.

The president objected to the proposal of the A.W.U. that all in and out loading should be arranged through the union's secretaries. It interfered, he said, with the free control by the employer of his own business, without which it would be impossible for him to carry it on successfully. The employer's right to freedom from restraint in the conduct of his business had been fully recognised by Mr. Justice Higgins, who had frequently laid it down that as long as the employee got fair rates and proper conditions the employer should be left free to make his own arrangements in all other respects. The unjustifiable demands would be strenuously resisted. Members would maintain independence of action in all carriage arrangements. The almost incredible length to which the Carriers' Union would go in interfering with the rights of employers was manifested by their insisting that station teams must, after taking the first load of wool, wait their turn with any outside teams arriving, thus preventing the station owner making full use of his teams or of the services of the drivers he was paying.

BLOW-FLY PEST.

A departmental committee, consisting of the Under-Secretary for Agriculture, the Government Entomologist, the Chief Inspector of Stock, and the Government Sheep Expert, had been appointed for the purpose of scientifically investigating the habits and life history of the sheep-fly, with the object of ascertaining whether anything could be done in the way of dealing with the pest at its place of origin. A Government experimental camp was formed at Yarrawin Station in the Brewarrina district, under the immediate charge of Mr. J. L. Froggatt, B.Sc., and supervised by the Government Entomologist, Mr. W. W. Froggatt, F.L.S. This camp had been in operation for some months, and was doing good and promising work in the direction of breeding and experimenting with, a blow-fly parasite—the chalcid wasp—and endeavouring to make further discoveries of parasites, and giving exhaustive trials to a number of alleged specifics for the treatment of fly-blown sheep.

THE P.P. BOARDS.

A strong case in favour of retaining the Pasture Protection Boards has been made out last Easter, it having been shown that they were based on an equitable franchise, which placed control in the taxpayers' hands, and ensured satisfactory work, whereas in the case of the shire councils, under the proposed universal franchise, the men who pay would be out-voted, and the duties placed in the hands of councillors, who had no special qualifications for, or interest in, the duties to be carried out. The view was very generally expressed that, instead of the boards being dispensed with, their powers should be extended, so as to give them the control of travelling stock routes, which were now in many instances, so infested by noxious weeds that, besides being almost impassable for travelling stock, they made it extremely difficult for the adjoining landowners to keep their properties clear. It was greatly to be regretted that, in spite of the almost unanimous opinion of those concerned, and the cogent reasons adduced by them in favour of the continuance of the boards, the Government seemed determined to proceed with its proposals for their abolition.

"ONE POWERFUL ORGANISATION."

Referring to the meat strike which occurred last February, the president said:—"I feel that I must express my gratification, which I am sure you all share, at the promptness with which employers in the allied industries united for the support of those directly attacked, and formed a joint committee for purposes of defence. Our union was prominent amongst the bodies that took part, and was represented on the committee by Messrs. W. F. Jaques and A. H. Moore, who devoted a great deal of time and earnest attention to its proceedings. The success of the committee in compelling the men to respect the law and return to work is a gratifying indication of the satisfactory results obtainable when employers, roused to united defensive action, combine for the purpose of meeting the long-time well organised forces of the employees. The strike marks a most important era in the history of industrial struggles, and proves that the fact is at last being recognised that it is absolutely necessary for employers in all callings to form into line in one powerful organisation to resist the unfair and increasingly insistent demands of employees, and that unless they do so they cannot remain masters of their own businesses, or hope to carry them on with any prospect of success."

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of the secretary, Mr. John Mair, stated that an amicable arrangement as to rates and conditions for shearing machinery experts had been come to, and had been registered under the State Arbitration Act as an industrial agreement for a term of five years. In reference to the "black" chaff trouble, the report pointed out that a committee representing the various employers' bodies concerned had been appointed to deal with the matter. The carters, finding the employers determined to uphold the law, withdrew from their illegal position within a few days. The severe losses sustained by graziers in the western districts of the State in times of drought through the absence of railway facilities, and the lack of proper watering of stock routes, would be brought under the notice of the Minister by the deputation. In addition to this union, and the Western Lessees' Association, a number of interested bodies, including the Chamber of Commerce, the Farmers and Settlers' Association, the Stock-owners' Association, the Fat Stock Salesmen and the Wool Selling Brokers' Association, had promised to take part.

UNION TEAMS.

The chairman announced that the shearers at Marra Station, Tilpa, had last week refused to commence work without a guarantee from the owners that all loading to and from their stations would in future be carried by union teams, and under union conditions. The demand, being both unreasonable and illegal, according to advice from the union's legal advisers, was refused, with the result that the men signed the necessary agreements and went to work.

A discussion took place on the general position as regards carrying, and it was left to the executive to deal with the matter.

ABATTOIRS.

A letter was read from Mr. J. B. Donkin, one of the members of the Meat Industry and Abattoirs Board, making suggestions in regard to the proceedings of the board, and these were referred to the executive for consideration.

On the motion of Mr. W. F. Jaques, seconded by Mr. W. V. Dowling, it was resolved:—(1) That, in view of the Premier having announced the intention of the Government to introduce a bill relating to the abattoirs and the control of the meat industry, this meeting of the Pastoralists' Union urges that before the introduction of such bill the Premier should consult with the representatives of the various bodies interested, so that the industry will be placed on a footing that will be conducive to its progress, and will enable the State of New South Wales to be in a position to compete with the other States and outside markets. (2) That the Premier be asked to receive a deputation to convey this resolution, and to assure the Government of the desire of this union to give every assistance to the Government in placing the industry on the best possible basis.

ELECTION OF COUNCIL.

The following were elected members of the council for the ensuing year:—Messrs. W. E. Abbott (the Hunter), W. T. Bullock (Metropolitan), Charles Burcher and E. M. V. Curr (Condobolin), H. J. Crowe (Gundagai), R. R. Dangar (Armidale), W. Davidson (Wagga Wagga), C. L. Hume and F. H. Tout (Young), Wallace Hunter (Forbes), A. J. Scott (Moree), N. W. Kater (Molong), John Campbell (Coonabarabran), W. W. Killen (Narrandera), J. M. L. Macdonald and Frank Payne (Tamworth), G. N. Magill (Brewarrina), Philip Oakden (Cobar), M. Robertson and T. Vincent (Bourke), M. Bolger (Canonbar), J. M. Atkinson (Carcoar), Thomas Jones (Coonamble), Frank Mack (Dubbo), J. W. Lugsdin (Hay), H. Osborne (Hillston), A. J. Litchfield (Monaro), W. V. Dowling (Mudgee), W. F. Jaques (Narrabri), A. F. C. Rogerson (New England), A. S. Barton (Walgett), H. S. Officer (Wanaaring), H. R. Munro (Warialda).

Mr. F. H. Rayment, F.C.P.A., was elected auditor for the ensuing year.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.

A meeting of the elected members of the council was held at the close of the annual meeting, and elected the following further members of the council, viz.:—Messrs. B. B. Allen, C. M. Buck, F. G. Catterall, J. F. Cunningham, K. de L. Cudmore, M. J. A. Feehan, W. A. Gordon, E. R. Graham, James Kidd, A. H. Moore, S. McCall-McCowan, Duncan McMaster, and T. A. Stirton.

SUGAR INDUSTRY.

The Bundaberg Sugar Producers' Association on Wednesday unanimously adopted the following resolution:—"That this association views with alarm the action of the Judge of the Industrial Court in granting wages and conditions in the sugar industry, that both growers and millers are unable to pay, and that the Judge himself doubts their ability to pay, and from which award there is no appeal. They consider that no one man should be given power to cripple any industry. They believe that all other industries will now have to face similar treatment, as logically the Judge must be consistent and give equally high minimum wages in every case. Therefore, we petition the Government to amend the Industrial Peace Act by creating a tribunal consisting of three Supreme Court Judges, instead of a single District Court Judge, as at present. Further, that the Court be instructed to take into consideration the ability of an industry to pay the amounts prescribed, as one of the factors in arriving at an award; that there should also be an appeal open to a court of review, with recourse to the Privy Council."

DAIRYING AT YANCO.

"A Dairy Farmer" writes:—I read with interest a report from the Irrigation Commissioner, in which it is stated that the returns from the cows owned by one of the setters on the area averaged for 12 months—May, 1913, to April, 1914—£1 4s 2d per month. I do not doubt or dispute the figures quoted, but I think it would be very interesting to the dairy farmers of the State, many of whom are readers of your instructive column "On the Land," to learn how the amount is arrived at. Would you, therefore, publish this letter in your column, so that it may come under the notice of the Irrigation Commissioner, who will, I have no doubt, be pleased to furnish the following particulars re the matter:—

(1) Total number of cows in herd.
(2) Total weight of cream produced.
(3) Total lbs. of butter produced.
(4) Average price obtained per lb.
(5) Amount added (if any) as value of skimmed milk, etc.

REDUCED VINTAGE.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

The Government Statist reports that the recent vintage produced 2,759,665 gallons of wine as against 3,974,834 gallons for the previous season, representing a decrease of 1,215,169 gallons.

SALE OF STATION.

The Country Producers' Selling Co., Ltd., report the sale of Willamurra, situated near Gongolgon, in the western district, consisting of 32,342 acres western land leases, together with 9200 sheep, 135 head cattle, and 20 horses, on a walk in walk out basis, for the sum of £24,500, the purchasers being Messrs. Hall and Fitzgerald.

THE PETER DAWSON CONCERTS.

Mr. Peter Dawson and his concert party made their second and final appearance at the Town Hall last night, and this afternoon, after only three days' stay in the city, they leave for Brisbane. This is a remarkably brief visit, but the Australian baritone has engagements in England to resume towards the end of the year, and proposes to finish his Queensland tour in time to give another concert here on August 4. This should prove welcome news, for the whole party has made an agreeable impression upon Sydney audiences.

Unconsciously following the precedent of Mr. Watkin Mills, who introduced "In a Persian Garden" and "The Daisy Chain" (Liza Lehmann) in 1905, with Edith Kirkwood, Gertrude Lonsdale, and Harold Wilde to complete the cast, Mr. Dawson has produced "Parody Pie," by the same composer, and last night he brought forward another song cycle, "The Passing Show," by H. Oliver. This consisted of some eight numbers, of which the most noteworthy were a captivating duet for tenor and soprano, a contralto song with a valse refrain above an accompaniment hummed by the other three singers, and a beautiful quartet of farewell, in which the voices sang unaccompanied between occasional chords for the piano. Miss Annetta George, Miss Hilda Felstead, Mr. Furness Williams, and Mr. Dawson sang the new cycle with happy effect.

The bass-baritone again found it necessary to allude to the inconvenience he was suffering from through an attack of muscular rheumatism, which did not actually affect the voice, but hampered the breathing. In his admirably fluent rendering of "O Ruddier than the Cherry," and in the broadly declamatory passages towards the close of the encore, "I am a Roamer" (Mendelssohn), Mr. Dawson's fine voice proved as effective as ever, but he "short-phrased" both songs. This artist has usually great breath control, and an immense chest expansion, so that his method in proper health is different. After "The Two Grenadiers," he took a double-encore in response to overwhelming enthusiasm. In Tosti's "Parted" he revealed all the rich and liquid timbre of his voice in a tender rendering, and he repeated once more the seldom-heard air of Balfe's "The Arrow and the Song," his rendering of which is widely known.

Miss Annetta George's principal effort was "One Fine Day," from "Madame Butterfly," the quaint pathetic qualities of which were expressed in fresh and girlish tones by the lyric soprano. Her bird-like voice was used with spontaneity of effect in the encore number, Mme. Guy d'Hardelot's "A Summer Song." Miss Hilda Felstead was also encored every time she appeared, singing Woodforde-Finden's "A Request" so as to suggest a world of sorrow and reproach, and then adding Dr. Arne's delightful old-time setting of "When Daisies Pied." Mr. Furness Williams made fine use of his opportunities in "Onaway, Awake Beloved" (Coleridge-Taylor), and the Welsh tenor then responded to the applause with Cavaradossi's aria from the last act of "La Tosca." An unusual concert excerpt for tenor and bass from Gounod's "Faust," consisting of the scene from the first appearance of Mephisto to the end of the duet upon which the curtain falls, was warmly appreciated. Miss Carlien Jurs was again in place as pianist, and Mr. Thomas Sidney successfully repeated the "Songs at the Piano" of the first programme.

Woods' Great Peppermint Cure for Coughs and Colds never fails. 1s 6d.—Advt.

LITTLE JACK HORNER

Our little Jack Horner sat sick in a corner,
A-coughing and rubbing his eyes,
While his granny was making—and watching him taking—
A dose fit to poison the flies.
'Twas some draught of her own and far best left alone,
Which she made her young victim endure,
While he snivelled and sneezed, and persistently wheezed—
I want Woods' Great Peppermint Cure!"
Till she gave in at last, when her patience was past,
And she sent that vile potion away—
Tucked him snugly in bed, gave him "WOODSES" instead,
And young Jack was all smiles the next day.

A Mother's Grateful Testimony

"My daughter from her infancy was continually troubled with colds, followed by severe coughing. Hearing of the excellent results of Lane's Emulsion I decided to give it a trial. I did so continuously for four months, and now, I am glad to say, she is a fine healthy girl. That she is so well and healthy, I am sure, is owing to the benefit she derived from Lane's Emulsion."

Gratefully yours,
Mrs D. SMITH, Kakanui, Otago, N.Z.

Take Lane's Emulsion
...FOR...
Lung & Throat Troubles

The Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all cases of General Debility and Wasting Diseases.

Lane's Emulsion is a great improvement upon other remedies for the same troubles. It is free from harmful drugs and mineral poisons; its effects are always for the good and never to the detriment of the health; it is decidedly pleasant to take; gives immediate relief, and if faithfully used will assuredly cure.

And there is this to remember of Lane's Emulsion. It is not untried, and though not very well known in Australia it has the endorsement of the residents of New Zealand, having been made and used in the Dominion for over 20 years with unvarying success. It is prepared under the personal supervision of Mr. E. G. Lane, a Graduate Chemist of Oamaru, N.Z., and is always of the same high quality and reliability. Do not be deceived in this. When you are offered something else in place of Lane's, be firm and refuse to accept it. "Just-as-Goods" are only experiments that perhaps give the trader more profit, but at the same time may endanger your health. It's experience against experiments—get LANE'S EMULSION.

There is no better remedy for weak lungs, sore throat, weak nerves and generally for run-down men and women. It is composed of a perfect combination of Norwegian Cod Liver Oil, Beechwood Creasote and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda skilfully emulsified by the addition of fresh eggs.

Get a bottle of Lane's Emulsion to-day and observe how your appetite will improve, your lungs and throat be strengthened, your nerves be steadied, your weight increase and life made brighter and more enjoyable.

Your chemist or storekeeper will supply you with it at 2/6 and 4/6 per bottle. The larger bottle is the most economical as it contains more than two of the small ones. Prepared by E. G. LANE, Chemist, Oamaru, N.Z. Of this be certain—there is nothing "just-as-good" as Lane's Emulsion. Do not accept a substitute.

If you experience difficulty in securing a supply write to E. G. LANE, Box 864 G.P.O., Sydney, and we will see that you are supplied.

MUNICIPALISM AT WORK.

PAYMENT OF SANITARY INSPECTORS.

Now that the sanitary inspectors of New South Wales have achieved a professional status, it is necessary that some consideration should be given to the emoluments which they receive. A very necessary precaution is that which insists that the Government shall pay half the fees and that the municipal or shire bodies served by the inspectors shall pay the other half. But, unfortunately, there is a defect in this, in the fact that the Government has limited its moiety to £76 per annum. This practically sets the standard of salary at £152 per year, which is quite inadequate for some of the officers who carry out the important task of sanitary inspectors in suburban and other areas. For example, in Redfern, where important sanitary work has to be done by the inspector, the council has not accepted the standard set by the Government, and has increased the salary of the inspector to £225 per annum, and it also furnishes him with a paid assistant. The limitation to £76 per annum made by the Government as its moiety should be abolished, and the matter left at large, so that the Government will pay half whatever the municipal council or shire council decides is the proper remuneration for the important work of the officer. In this case the safeguard of the Government would be the fact that the council would have to pay half, and would certainly not embarrass its own resources by setting too high a standard, so the Government may be assured that its moiety would only be a fair half of what the salary is worth for the important and responsible position involved. The sanitary inspectors themselves are beginning to take action, and there is no reason why the Government should not be reasonable in the matter. It may be pointed out here that some years ago Redfern—the council which has already been alluded to—was one of the worst areas in regard to sanitary inspection. Since the appointment of a qualified and certificated inspector, splendid results have been noted by the central health authorities. Some years ago the annual report of the Board of Health showed that Redfern was one of the best-conducted municipal areas in Greater Sydney, especially in regard to the sanitary inspection. If this is the case, other councils, perhaps not so enterprising as Redfern, would give a higher subsidy to their responsible officers if the Government would also do its share in raising the salary as well as the status of the sanitary inspector.

THE DEATH OF MR. CHAMBERLAIN.

It is noticeable that in all the obituary notices the biographers emphasise the great reputation earned by Mr. Chamberlain in Birmingham in connection with his Mayoralty of that city. There is no doubt that just as Mr. Chamberlain was distinguished for having greatly enhanced the status of the Colonial Office, it must also be admitted that he raised municipal work to a higher plane than it had reached previously in the British Islands, or, indeed, in any part of the world. It was after Mr. Chamberlain's Mayoralty of Birmingham that municipal work came to be called statesmanship. Of all those who have been associated with the important work of the municipalities in Britain, Mr. Chamberlain stood out conspicuously. First of all he was a man who refused to potter and be content with the small things, and with the meaner services of local government. It was his aim from the very beginning to raise municipal work to a higher plane. In that the record of his Mayoralty and of the inspiration which he gave throughout the British Isles, is the highest testimony of his success. Birmingham is regarded as one of the great examples of successful municipal organisation, and it has been studied by pilgrims from all parts of the world. Of course, we admit that Birmingham, even the Greater Birmingham recently created, does not fulfil the highest ideals with regard to local government; but, at the same time, even the comparatively small tasks which were carried out by the Birmingham Council have been an inspiration to municipal reformers throughout the world. One service in particular Mr. Chamberlain must be credited with, and that is, he lifted the gibe that only inferior men embarked in the work of municipal councils, for, after his time, some of the leading statesmen in England, including Lord Rosebery, John Burns, and Sir John Lubbock and others, embarked cheerfully in a task which was not considered too far beneath the interests of a man so high in the esteem of the nation as the statesman who has just died.

* * * * *

MUNICIPAL RATE DODGERS.

Another example of what might be called "unfair rate dodging" is given by the Railway Department at Bathurst. Recently the council, being the water purveyor for the district, informed the Railway Department that it had to pay a water rate of 10s as a minimum on one of the cottages belonging to the railway. The department claimed that it ought to be let off at 1s per annum. This is on a par with the curious attitude which both the State and Commonwealth Parliament and Government have taken up towards the services performed for them by the local government authorities. Over and over again they repudiate payment for such services, while availing themselves of them. They repudiate the idea of paying for these services, and they desire apparently to sponge on the local authorities and the ratepayers for the maintenance of services maintained for their interest. This is not right. It is quite unworthy of the dignity of Commonwealth and State Administration to evade their civic responsibilities.

THE WIDTH OF TYRES.

There is apparently a tendency in certain quarters, now that a Width of Tyres Act is almost certain to be passed by Parliament, to whittle down the standard maximum width to as small dimensions as possible. For example, at a recent meeting of the Goodradigbee Shire Council, it was decided to support a maximum of a 6in tyre, instead of a maximum of 8in. The attitude of this council is inconsistent with the attitude generally maintained when the roads question is discussed. It is well known that more than half the damage which occurs to the roads in the country, and which causes an enormous and unnecessary expenditure, is due to narrow tyres. The whole country is asking that a Width of Tyres Act be passed, in order that the roads shall not be torn to pieces by wheels which are so narrow that they act as plough shares to the roads. That being so, it seems strange now that we are almost on the threshold of the change, that a clamour arises that the maximum of the tyre should be limited to 6in. Doubtless, when the matter comes before Parliament, all those curious interests and agencies which have been at work to delay this measure in the past will not be absent, at any rate around the precincts of the House. Whether these influences and agencies will disturb the Government and the Parliament in doing their obvious duty, is difficult to say; but at any rate, the Minister should take a very firm stand upon the question of the maximum width of tyres. While he is about it, it would be a pity to spoil the ship for the sake of a pennyworth of tar. If a change in the width of the tyre must be made, it might as well be an adequate change all over the State at the same time. After all, it is only one expense, because in the future once the rule is made, all tyres will be fitted to suit the road.

The statement may be ventured at the present time that, insisting upon the maximum of the tyres will cause a tremendous difference in the way in which our roads will be kept throughout the State. It must again be remarked that it seems strange that those authorities which have clamoured most for the passing into law of a Width of Tyres Act should be amongst the first to clamour for the whittling down of the width when the matter is about to be settled.

PURE FOOD AND EXEMPTION.

One of those curious requests which occasionally come from professional interests was heard of recently, in regard to the proposal made to the Minister for Health—Mr. Flowers—that hotels, cafes, and restaurants should be exempted from prosecution under the Pure Foods Act for milk adulteration. The adulteration in this case is the mixing of water with milk, which is a comparatively harmless operation. But there is a big principle involved. The request was also made to the Trades and Labour Council, which was asked to back up the demand made by Mr. Flowers. It is to the credit of the Trades and Labour Council that it refused to back up; and, indeed, it not only refused the request to interfere, but it decided that the deputation should back up the Dairymen's Employees' Union, who are opposing the request, and should accompany them as a deputation to the Minister to protest against such exemption being allowed. It is eminently creditable to the Trades and Labour Council that it should have adopted this attitude towards it, for, after all, the Labour people themselves are interested in opposing this extraordinary request.

WATER AND SEWERAGE ADMINISTRATION.

The annual report of the Water and Sewerage Board is now before the public, and it discloses, as it has usually done in the past, a very efficient state of organisation, and a remarkably well-conducted service. We have been extremely fortunate in the methods of administration of some of our independent statutory bodies dealing administratively with great public services, such as the railways, the harbour, and the water and sewerage services. The board supplies an estimated population, of 825,000 people. There is an increase of population, and last year the board reports that the number of buildings brought to completion and supplied with water was 9828, as against the previous year's total of 9257, which was then the highest record. In addition to the new buildings which have been supplied, there were 200 old properties which have been reached by the new mains. It is shown that the number of new houses estimated to be sewered is 5445, of which 302 are in the city, and 5153 in the suburbs. That was for the year. The total number now provided with sewerage facilities is 118,600, representing an estimated population of 583,000. One remarkable and very satisfactory circumstance is pointed out in the report. It is shown that, while the total rate ending for the year in respect to house properties amounted to £492,000, there were only uncollected arrears when the year closed amounting to £36, which is equal to 1/3½ per £100. The board points out also that there are 67 municipalities and shires within its jurisdiction in which rates are levied, and in 36 of these there are no rates whatever outstanding. It is satisfactory to know that the board regards this as the best result that it ever achieved. The year's work shows what can be done by good management, and by centralisation of the proper kind.

CHURCH PROBLEMS.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS IN ENGLAND.

REV. J. D. JONES'S VISIT.

A prominent figure in the forefront of Congregationalism in the Old Country is the Rev. J. D. Jones, M.A., B.D., of Bournemouth, ex-chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales.

Mr. Jones, who arrived in Sydney yesterday from New Zealand, where he has been spending a month, has come out at the invitation of the Congregational Union of Australia to stimulate and assist the work of the Church in the different States. He will spend about three months in the Commonwealth. He left yesterday afternoon for Queensland, but will return to Sydney in about a fortnight. It was Mr. Jones who four years ago originated and successfully carried through a great scheme for the raising of a fund for a quarter of a million sterling for the purpose of augmenting the stipends of the poorer-paid ministers of the denomination. The fund is known as the central fund, and has just come into full working. In fact, one of his last acts before leaving England was to sign the first complete distribution of augmentation cheques in the fund sent out to the ministers of the union. Among the many messages of Godspeed received by him on the eve of his departure from England was a personal letter from the Prime Minister of England (Mr. Asquith), who expressed the belief that "so distinguished a representative of the Free Churches of England would receive a hearty welcome, not only from the members of his own denomination, but from the whole religious community."

THE RELIGIOUS OUTLOOK.

In an interview yesterday, Mr. Jones, referring to the state of religious feeling in England, said the outlook was very encouraging. It was sometimes asserted that people were dropping religion out of their lives, but that was not a fact. The Churches had been passing through a rather dull time, but he was satisfied that things were on the up grade now. They had touched bottom some years ago. Church membership was increasing, as far as the Congregationalists and Baptists were concerned, at any rate, and that might be taken as an indication that religion was not on the wane. There had been a great revolt from materialism in the last few years. The scientific attitude towards religion was much more favourable to-day than it was some years ago. Sir Oliver Lodge had, perhaps, done as much as anyone to insist upon the spiritual interpretation of the universe. But the pleasure spirit was not helping church-going, and the "motoring week-end" was touching some of the churches rather badly. Still, on the whole, his impression was that the Sunday was better observed in England than it was out here. For one thing, Sunday golf was not allowed.

In reply to a question concerning spiritualism, he said that the movement in a sectarian sense, was not, he thought, a growing one; but the study of psychic phenomena had received a tremendous impetus of late years. Those who were taking it up, however, were not spiritualists in the seance sense, and there was nothing antagonistic to Christianity in their investigations, but the reverse.

CHURCH CO-OPERATION.

One most gratifying feature of Church life in England was the very close co-operation among the "free" Churches, the term "free" being used to distinguish these from the Established or Anglican Church and the Roman Catholic Church. This movement was manifested in the interchange of pulpits and in the practice of united worship, which was becoming common. They were nowhere near organic union yet, but there was practically no rivalry now, and overlapping did not occur. The situation was different in an old country from that in a new one. He could very well understand why the question of union should be to the fore here. New townships were springing up, and in order to conserve and concentrate their energy, it was natural that they should move in the direction to the union of their forces. But in England, the day of organic union had not arrived.

He considered that there was no prospect of the present British Parliament dealing with the education question, but it was one of the great things that the Government had in front of them. The Education Bill had been passed by the House of Commons in 1906 by the biggest majority on record, but had been rejected by the House of Lords, and since then the Government had not been able to do anything. If the Government came back the Education Bill would be one of the first measures they would submit to the House. The minimum that the Free Churches wanted and hoped would be granted would be that the control of all single school areas should be taken away from the denominations, and the schools placed under popular control, so freeing the children from the conscience clause.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS.

A keener interest in social problems was being taken by the Church, and they were being more and more discussed at church gatherings. The Church was becoming a factor in the moulding of public opinion. He thought that the Church in the colonies had as much to fight against as the Church at home. "You have not got the poverty problems that we have in England," he concluded, "but your very prosperity creates problems of its own, and they are tough ones."

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson, without a jury.)

LAND TAX APPEAL.

M'DONALD v DEPUTY FEDERAL LAND TAX COMMISSIONER.

Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. Harper, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for appellant, M'Donald; and Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Pike, instructed by the Commonwealth Crown Solicitor, for respondent, Deputy Commissioner.

The appeal by John M'Donald against the assessment of the Federal Land Tax Commissioner on the Moree properties and Castlereagh House (corner of Castlereagh-street and Hunter-street) was continued.

The case still stands part heard.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

MOTION TO SET ASIDE WRIT.

DEARMAN v DEARMAN.

Mr. A. H. Jones appeared for Melbourne Nathan Dearman, and applied for his release from custody. Mr. E. H. Gardner appeared for petitioner, Daisy Gertrude Dearman, to oppose. It appeared that applicant Dearman was arrested on a writ of attachment for disobedience of two orders of the Court for the payment of certain pendente lite costs and alimony in the suit, and he now applied that the writ should be set aside and his release ordered. He had previously filed affidavits in support of an application to set aside the orders referred to, but it had not yet been dealt with. His Honor, however, allowed the affidavits to be used on the present motion, and in these applicant set out that he had no means whatever and was indebted to relations and friends for money borrowed in connection with the divorce litigation. Until recently, he had been engaged as a commercial traveller for a company in the city, but had lost the position partly owing to his wife's visits to the office. He had made an offer to Mr. Gardner to pay a sum down on account of the orders for the payment of £19 and £15, and the balance by instalments, but the offer had been refused. Applicant also gave evidence and said that he had no employment at the present time, and had no means at all. He had also to maintain the child, the issue of the marriage, and he could not comply with the orders without getting into arrear for his board and lodging and other necessary expenses.

In answer to Mr. Gardner applicant said that he had started a cross suit against his wife on the ground of desertion, and filed the necessary documents on the 3rd instant.

His Honor: What offer are you prepared to make at the present time?

Applicant said he could make no offer unless he borrowed money. His earnings had been diminished ever since the suit was instituted.

His Honor: You ought to be able to pay £1 per week.

Applicant: It would be impossible to do so unless I ran into arrears with my board and lodging.

Mr. Gardner: You made an offer to me, did you not, for the payment of £4 11s after the writ was obtained, and that was the first time you made any offer?—Yes.

His Honor said he thought, on the whole, that he ought to grant the application for release. He had always expressed the opinion, which he held strongly, that the issue of a writ of attachment for disobedience of an order for the payment of money was not for the purpose of punishment, but for the purpose of compelling a person who was able to pay to obey the order. That being so, he was of opinion, on the evidence, that applicant was not able at the present time to pay the amount upon which the writ was issued against him. The only difficulty he felt was as to whether applicant ought not to be kept in custody for some time, on the ground that there was a time when he could have paid and did not do so. He was, however, not satisfied on the evidence that applicant could pay the money, even by instalments, and for that reason he would grant the application. He was not dealing at the present time with the motion to vary the orders, but he thought such an application would be hopeless, as the orders were properly made. He directed the release of the applicant on condition that the sheriff's fees were paid, and without prejudice to the right of petitioner to make any later application to enforce the orders referred to in the writ of attachment.

BOYD v BOYD (NEILLY, CO-RESPONDENT).

Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. P. J. Clines, appeared for the petitioner, and Mr. G. Martin, instructed by Mr. W. D. M'Mahon, for the respondent and co-respondent. This was a suit brought by William George Boyd, in the service of the Tramway Department, against Annie Boyd (formerly O'Grady) for dissolution of the marriage on the ground of the misconduct of respondent with co-respondent, Michael John Neilly. Respondent had filed a cross-suit, alleging misconduct against her husband with two women, and there were also issues as to whether petitioner had connived at the misconduct charged, and whether he had deserted or wilfully separated himself from the respondent before the misconduct complained of, and whether he was guilty of such wilful neglect and misconduct as conduced to her alleged misconduct. The marriage took place on May 7, 1908, at St. Francis's Church, Melbourne, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church. The parties lived together in Victoria for four years after marriage, when petitioner came over to this State; but respondent did not join him till two years afterwards.

The suit is part heard.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

CREDITORS' PETITION.

R. H. Gordon and Co., Ltd., house furnishers, of 504-508 George-street, Sydney, versus Patrick Vincent Ryan, advertising adviser, of 27 Muston-street, Mosman, formerly of Manly. Petition to be heard on July 20.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Deputy Justice Scholes.)

Mr. Stuart Robertson, on behalf of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association, mentioned the matter of the re-constitution of the Labourers' Group, No. 1 Board. Mr. N. Phelps-Richards appeared for the Public Works Contractors' Association, Master Builders' Association, and others; and Mr. M. Burke for the United Labourers' Association.

The railway and tramway labourers had been omitted from the constitution of the board, and at the request of the parties the old constitution was cancelled, and the jurisdiction of the board amended and reconstituted in order to include railway and tramway labourers.

AN APPEAL CASE.

An appeal was made from the finding of the Industrial Magistrate in the case of Wilson v Kitchen and Sons, Ltd. Mr. Walker, for Braye and Cohen, of Newcastle, applied for an adjournment of the case for a fortnight. The application was granted.

APPLICATION FOR VARIATION.

The Saddlery Trades Employees' Federation sought a variation or amendment of the constitution of the Leather Trades Group, No. 4 Board, to include leather belt makers. Mr. Lee, secretary of the applicant union, appeared in support of the motion.

The industry was not included in the schedule to the Act, and his Honor said he would look into the matter, and list it again at an early date, when he would deliver judgment.

REGISTRATION REFUSED.

(Before the Industrial Registrar.)

The Industrial Registrar (Mr. E. J. Payne) delivered judgment in an application by the Sydney Wharf Clerks' Union for registration. An objection was lodged by the United Clerks' Union of New South Wales, upon the ground that members of the applicant union could conveniently belong to the objecting body.

The Registrar said the issue was really narrowed down to one question—whether members of the applicant union could conveniently belong to the objecting union. The affairs of the United Clerks' Union certainly appeared to have been mismanaged to a degree, and had this continued, or had the responsible officials remained in control, it would have been a matter for serious consideration whether any men should have been compelled to remain subject to such control. However, an honest attempt appeared to have been made to straighten matters out, and he was not satisfied that at present any hardship would be inflicted on the members of the applicant union by their remaining members of the objecting union. He dismissed the application.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker and juries.)

Mr. V. P. Ackermann, Crown Prosecutor.

ACQUITTED OF MALICIOUS WOUNDING.

David McCall, 27, and Henry Douglas, 24, were charged with having maliciously wounded Almed Sali, at Sydney, on June 13. Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the defence.

M'Call's defence was that he was attacked by Sali, and he struck him in self-defence. Douglas said that he did not assault Sali.

His Honor directed the jury to acquit Douglas, and he was accordingly discharged.

The jury acquitted M'Call, and he was also discharged.

THEFT OF £20.

Patrick Henry Russell, 55, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing the sum of £20, the property of Ah Gow, at Waterloo, on May 18. The accused conducted his own defence.

According to the evidence of the prosecution, Gow, a market-gardener, was having tea with a woman at his house, when Russell, whom Gow knew, came in. Gow took some money from the pocket of a coat which was hanging on the wall, and placed it on the table, intending to put it in a safe place, but it was alleged that Russell snatched it. Gow, failing to induce Russell to return the money, appealed to the woman, who obtained a portion of the amount, and handed it to Gow. Gow then went outside, and locked Russell and the woman in the house, and fired a gun to attract the police. He also sent a lad to call up the police station, and when a constable arrived the woman had escaped, but £12 9s was found lying on the table. Russell was detained, and when he was asked if he had any money on him he said that he had not, but £1 14s was discovered in one of his pockets.

Russell, in a statement from the dock, denied that he had robbed Gow, and said that there were three other Chinese in the room.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and Russell was remanded for sentence.

HOUSEBREAKING.

Ruby Goff, 18, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having, in company with William Henry White and John Joseph Williams, broken and entered the dwelling-house of A. B. Piddington, at Glenbrook, on June 15, and with having stolen therefrom a suit case, a portmanteau, a travelling rug, and a quantity of wearing apparel, groceries, and carpenters' tools, of a total value of £20. The accused was undefended.

White and Williams had previously pleaded guilty to a similar charge.

Constable Loftus, stationed at Springwood, said that he arrested Williams, White, and Goff, on another charge. Witness obtained a suit case and a gladstone bag from the Blaxland railway station, and when he asked them if they had left them there they replied in the affirmative.

Myles O'Reilly, a nephew of Mr. Piddington, said that he was acting as caretaker of the house, and on June 6 he left it for a visit to town, and on his return on the 18th he found that it had been visited by thieves, who removed a nail which fastened a window. He recognised the property produced as Mrs. Piddington's property.

Goff, who did not enter upon her defence, was found guilty, and was remanded for sentence.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Judge Docker, at the Quarter Sessions yesterday, intimated that any gentlemen requiring to be sworn in as justices of the peace can attend at the Darlinghurst Courthouse this morning at 9.45.

CONSTABLE SENTENCED.

TO THREE MONTHS IN GAOL.

SERIOUS CHARGE OF ASSAULT.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Barnett, S.M., the hearing was concluded of the charge of assault preferred against George Edward Louis, a constable of police connected with No. 2 station. Mr. J. W. Abigail and Mr. Maddocks Cohen appeared for Louis.

It was alleged on behalf of the prosecution that Louis, after finishing his beat duty on the 18th ult., drove in a cab, accompanied by another policeman, to the residence of John Peck, a manufacturing jeweller, at Ultimo, and demanded admittance. With reluctance Peck opened the door, when Louis went inside, and said, "Where is your jewellery?" Peck rushed outside and called out "Burglars," and it was alleged that Louis then struck Peck.

Louis' defence was that he went to the house in the interests of justice, to ascertain its character, and denied that he had assaulted Peck. He claimed that the injuries to Peck's face were caused by being bumped by his (Louis') elbow.

Mr. Barnett, S.M., convicted Louis, and sentenced him to three months' imprisonment with hard labour. Notice of appeal was given.

In sentencing Louis, Mr. Barnett said that the case was an extraordinary one. He had reviewed the evidence, and had asked himself whether the limits of duty could be stretched further than in the present instance. Could the story that had been told by the defendant be believed by any intelligent schoolboy? But the matter had not stopped there. The defendant had attacked the character of the prosecutor, and the evidence brought to establish the fact that the house was a disorderly one was of such a shadowy nature that the persons attacked might bear a perfectly reputable character. "If the defendant's conduct was anything like general among members of the force, it was a very bad thing," added his worship; "but I believe it was an exceptional case."

MILK ADULTERATION.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

For having sold adulterated milk Carl [illegible]han was fined £11 8s 6d, with £2 12s 6d costs, at the Central Summons Court yesterday.

POLICE COURTS.

ALLEGED PERJURY.

Alfred Bird, 20, was committed for trial at the [illegible] Quarter Sessions on a charge of stealing a trunk containing clothing, belonging to George Driver [illegible], at Forest Lodge, and at his trial he swore, in his defence, that he had bought the trunk and contents from Bennett for £2, paying him 10s on account. Judge Docker, who presided, considered that Bird had falsely sworn, and ordered that he be proceeded against for perjury.

At the Central Police Court, yesterday, Bird was charged with having wilfully sworn that he had bought the trunk on an occasion when the truth of his statement was material, it being alleged that the statement was not true, as he then well knew. [illegible] Peterson appeared for the defence.

Bird reserved his defence, and was committed for trial at the August Quarter Sessions.

HANDS SWELLED AND CRACKED.

Ocean View, Licunda, Vic.—"Cuticura Ointment has cured my hands after suffering intense [illegible] for several years. About eleven years ago little [illegible] appeared on both hands, which itched so [illegible] I would rub them with the scissors till the skin came off. They grew worse, swelled and cracked, causing great pain, which, however, was not [illegible] the irritation. I have waked in the morning [illegible] my hands bleeding where I had scratched them [illegible] asleep. After being like this for about three [illegible] my hands gradually got better, but never well. "A gentleman who had suffered from weeping [illegible] and who had tried everything cured himself with the Cuticura Remedies. He persuaded me to try the Cuticura Ointment, which I did. I used [illegible] of the Cuticura Ointment as directed, and my hands are well, the skin sound, smooth, and soft, [illegible] since they first took bad they have been hard, [illegible] and dry, when not bleeding." (Signed) [illegible] Berryman. June, 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with [illegible] Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to [illegible] Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—[illegible]

CLEAN SWEEP TIME AT LOWE'S

Starts To-morrow—For Three Weeks Only

At last, Lowe's Clean Sweep, the event everybody has been waiting for. In past years Lowe's Clean Sweep has made itself strongly felt, but on this occasion it is going to eclipse all previous records; because, owing to the extreme lateness of the Winter Season, much larger stocks are heaped up and must be cleared before stock-taking, which is just ahead. That means a great slaughter amongst prices; and although these goods are new, fresh, and fashionable, and suitable for the season's wear, they must clear to make room for incoming stocks. No profit to us, a big gain to you. This Clean Sweep is going to be bigger than ever, and when you see the startling reductions made in Lowe's £50,000 stock of men's and boys' wear, you will be convinced no other sale is fit to hold a candle to Lowe's Clean Sweep.. Below we give you a few of the many bargains and startling price reductions. Country readers, write for Clean Sweep Catalogue at once, and remember Lowes' pay postage as usual during Clean Sweep, to any address in Australia...

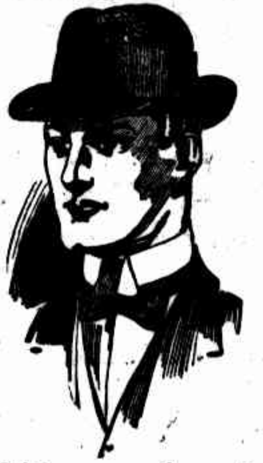
Profits not considered in Lowe's Garbirnette Rain-coats, 29/9

These Coats are made from Fawn shades of high-grade Garbirnette only with plain shoulders, a trifle different to illustration. The material is rainproof, and warm and comfortable, for winter wear, and is very popular amongst smartly dressed men. They are selling quickly at the reduced price, 29/9. All sizes for men.

Lowe's regular 45/ Garbirnette Rain Coats, same style as illustrated, reduced to 39/9. The price is almost less than manufacturer's cost, but we cannot help that. These Coats absolutely must go. Therefore, we have paid no attention to cost price, our one object being to clear. All sizes, 39/9. A splendid Bargain.



8/6 never bought so much before.

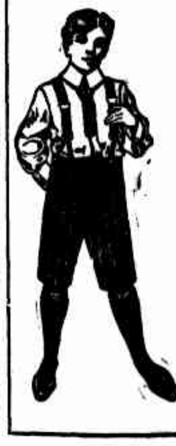
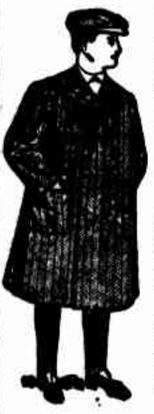
Reduced to 22/6 and 32/3 during Clean Sweep. Now is your opportunity to get the smartest grade Hat made at a phenomenally low price.



You can have these Knickers for 1/2

It seems ridiculous; a price like this for Knickers has never before been seen. It is simply giving them away at this price, but we are faced with the problem of reducing a very heavy stock in a very short time. There is nothing wrong with the Knickers; they are strong and durable, and will give plenty of hard wear. They are strongly sewn, buttons stayed well, are fully lined, and the materials are in dark shades of Tweeds and Velvet Cord. Clearing them out at less than manufacturers' cost, in sizes 0 to 4, 1/2.

Here's another splendid snap in dark Tweed Knickers for boys; the kind of Knickers that will give the lads splendid wear. Sizes, 2 to 15, 1/7.



Youth's Double-breasted Chesters, 14/9

They are well-tailored; the smart style that is popular amongst young fellows, and the best value ever offered in youths' Overcoats, double-breasted. In all sizes for young men, 14/9.

And here's another snap in double breasted Coats for boys, made from choice quality Tweeds in very smart shapes and smart designs; a very nobby coat, and a rattling good bargain. Every size for boys, 10/9.

SHEEP SALES.

N.S.W. MERINOS IN FAVOUR.

IMPROVED PRICES.

The stud sheep sales were continued yesterday, when Messrs. Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co. completed their catalogue of merinos, while Dalgety and Co., Ltd., offered British breeds at Miller's Point.

The sheep submitted by Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co. comprised mostly flock rams, which on the whole were superior to those penned last year. There was again a large attendance of buyers, and the demand for New South Wales sheep was very keen, prices showing a considerable improvement on those of last year. The Tasmanian drafts also had good inquiry, but the improvement in their case was not so marked. The Boonoke stud submitted a fine draft of 25 two-year-old selected rams, which brought in the aggregate £894 12s, an average of £35 15s 8d; while 100 selected yearling rams from the same stud averaged £17 10s 7d. The Wanganella Estate stud also sold well, 32 selected rams averaging £21 14s 5d; and Messrs. James Sloane and Son, of Mulwala Station, secured £31 10s each for four selected rams. The sale of merinos will be continued to-day by Messrs. Hill, Clark, and Co., Ltd., and Powers, Rutherford, and Co., at Pyrmont.

A prominent feature of Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co.'s sale was the competition of Mr. G. E. Maslin, of Burrangong Station, Urana, whose purchases, principally of Boonoke and Wanganella Estate blood, totalled between £5000 and £6000. The sheep purchased will be sent to Burrangong.

The following lots were sold:—

BRITISH BREEDS.

The sale of British breeds was continued yesterday, the location being the wool stores of Messrs. Dalgety and Co., Ltd., at Miller's Point. The auctioneer for the day was Mr. T. R. M'Whanell.

There was an excellent attendance, and the sale generally was a very good one. It is claimed that the catalogue sold was the biggest number put through in one day. As a matter of fact, it was intended to make a two days' sale of it, but all the lots offered were disposed of yesterday. Prices were well up to the rates ruling on the previous day, and, if anything, the bidding was more even. Romney rams sold well, a fair number of stud rams were offered, and while nothing sensational was obtained, the prices secured were remunerative.

Following were morning sales:—

On account of A. S. Brunskill, Dalkeith, Forest Hill, Wagga.

Border Leicester stud rams, A. J. Newson, 1 at 7gns.

On account of F. J. Nixon, Killinchy, Canterbury, New Zealand.

SLEEPER CONTRACT.

HEWERS' LICENSES RESTRICTED.

PERTH, Wednesday.

The Cabinet on Tuesday night considered the sleeper supply question, and at the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Collier, Minister for Railways, said that hewers' licenses had been issued in the ordinary way for the current month, but that possibly, from the beginning of next month, no licenses would be granted except to those cutters who were carrying out contracts to the State Government, or were otherwise assisting in making Government requirements.

The Premier, Mr. Scaddan, said that hewers were practically all cutting at present from Crown lands, while areas leased to the timber companies were being reserved. If this state of affairs were to continue, the State, which had bigger requirements than anybody else, would, in the future, be in the hands of timber corporations.

BORDER RAILWAYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your leader of Wednesday last, under the heading of "Border Railways," in commenting on the proposal to link up Corowa with Wahgunyah, over the Murray River, you admit that would undoubtedly benefit the residents of the district affected, but that it would not be a profitable undertaking so far as New South Wales was concerned.

With the former I agree, but as regards the latter I beg to join issue. Your arguments appear to me to be based on wrong impressions. You say you have been accused of taking a narrow view of this question, but I say you have taken an entirely wrong view of the situation, even from a N.S.W. point of view. I claim that it can be shown that this linking-up proposal will be a profitable undertaking, even so far as N.S.W. is concerned, and that, as a matter of fact, the district referred to pays for all the services you mention, and in no sense are the other parts of the State paying for the benefits enjoyed in common by Riverina with other parts of the State. Taxation from these parts recoups N.S.W., not only to some extent, but more than the whole of the cost of these services.

Now, let us consider what N.S.W. is likely to lose by this linking-up proposal. You refer to the trade being diverted to another State. May I ask what trade? As a matter of fact, from a commercial point of view, the trade goes to Victoria now without any linking-up. The whole trouble is, that we in N.S.W. have been trying to divert trade from its natural channel, thus creating loss and inconvenience. The difference in distance is only to be mentioned to make this quite obvious. Sydney 400 miles, Melbourne 190 miles. The only local product of any consequence that finds its way to Sydney is wheat, and those who have to deal with it are aware that the loss is caused by want of reasonably transit—want of trucks, the congestion on main trunk lines being the chief cause.

Yet, to secure this trade and divert it from its natural outlet, we carry it 400 miles at about the same price per ton as Victoria charges for 190 miles. Then, in addition to this, we have to send empty trucks from Sydney to bring this wheat down, there being no merchandise worth speaking of sent from Sydney to that locality. It comes from Melbourne now, and the Victorian railways get the benefit of loading both ways. So it does appear that if we lose some of this trade, we do not lose much. It is admitted that our main trunk lines cannot carry the traffic of the State to-day. Then, why drag the wheat 400 miles over this already congested line when we can get it to its natural port within 200 miles by going in the opposite direction. Now, I will briefly state where the benefit to N.S.W. will come in if this linking-up is carried out, viz., by providing facilities which would encourage trade and traffic for, say, 50 miles on our railways from the Murray, on which a profitable rate could be charged both ways to and from the border besides developing and helping to settle a fertile district, which, under reasonable conditions and facilities, is capable of carrying a large prosperous population, which would still be within the taxable State of N.S.W. It is an easy matter for you to make a statement: equally easy for me to contradict it. The public may reasonably ask, who is right and what are the facts? Now, the people of the district are willing for the strictest scrutiny and investigation as to the facts, and have consequently requested the Government to refer this linking-up proposal to the commission which has been arranged between the Victorian and N.S.W. Governments for inquiry and report.

Such an inquiry would elicit evidence which, I feel sure, will allay all fears that N.S.W. will lose anything, or that Victoria will gain much, and that the district affected would benefit without injury to any other part of the State. Such an inquiry may provide material and data which will assist further action. At the same time, it does not bind the Government or the country to anything.

Surely there can be no objection to an inquiry into such an important matter. This is all we are asking for. I am, etc.,

R. T. BALL.

THE BROKEN HILL PROPRIETARY COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOTICE is hereby given that the abovenamed Company is issuing a prospectus dated the sixth day of JULY, 1914 (a copy of which has been filed with the Registrar-General), inviting subscriptions for an issue of £600,000 six per cent. debentures for 20 years at £97 per centum, part of an intended issue of £1,000,000.

The said prospectus states (amongst other things) to the effect following:—

Subscriptions will be payable as follows:—
Deposit on application, 5 per cent. of the face value of the debentures.
On allotment, 10 per cent. of the face value of the debentures.
On 1st October, 1914, 20 per cent. of the face value of the debentures.
1st January, 1915, 25 per cent. of the face value of the debentures.
1st April, 1915, 27 per cent. of the face value of the debentures.

Instalments may be paid in advance on allotment or on any of the above dates, and will carry interest from date of payment.

A Cumulative Sinking Fund of £30,000 per annum for 20 years, the first annual payment to be made on 1st July, 1915, will be provided to redeem this issue by purchase at any time up to 30th June, 1921, of any debentures of this issue if the price, exclusive of accrued interest, be par, or below par, or after the 30th June, 1921, by yearly drawings within fourteen days from the 30th June in each year.

Every debenture so drawn shall become payable and be redeemed at its face value, with accrued interest thereon (if any) added on 31st December next after such drawing.

The moneys required for such purchase or redemption of debentures shall be drawn from such Cumulative Sinking Fund Account.

The debentures will be secured by a specific charge or mortgage to trustees for debenture holders on the freehold and leasehold properties of the Company in the Commonwealth of Australia, other than three leaseholds relating to clay which are of small value, and by a floating charge on the general undertaking and assets of the Company, exclusive of any uncalled or unpaid capital of the Company.

The debentures will be to bearer, with interest coupons attached, and will be issued in denominations of £1000, £500, and £100, as desired.

Provisional Bearer Certificates will be issued on payment of the amount due on allotment, and may be exchanged by Bearer for debentures on payment of final instalment.

The debentures will carry interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and the coupons will be payable half-yearly on the first days of January and July.

The moneys secured will, at the holder's option, be paid as to principal at the offices of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, in Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, or London, and as to interest, either at any of such offices, or at the said Bank's offices in Brisbane, Perth, or Hobart.

The whole of the present issue is underwritten, and the Directors will only proceed to allotment upon the whole of the present issue being subscribed.

The Managers of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia in Sydney and Melbourne for the time being will be the trustees for the debenture holders. The balance, £400,000, of the intended issue of £1,000,000, is reserved for future issue as required, to rank pari passu with the present issue of £600,000. The interest on any future issue will not exceed 6 per centum per annum, and may be less.

The SUBSCRIPTION LIST will open in Melbourne, Sydney, and Adelaide in Australia, and in London, England, on the 13th July, 1914 and will close on or before the 15th July, 1914.

APPLICATION FORMS may be obtained from the Commonwealth Bank of Australia and from the undermentioned Brokers:—

Messrs. Tolhurst, Keats, and Cumming, Melbourne.
Messrs. John Goodall and Company, Melbourne.
Messrs. Furner and Brownhill, Sydney.
Gavin F. Gardiner, Adelaide.
H. Monteith, Brisbane.
A. J. Mellor, Perth.
Norris Oakley Bros., London.

Or at the offices of the Company in Melbourne, Adelaide, Sydney, or London.

APPLICATIONS, accompanied by a deposit of 5 per cent. of the face value of the debentures will be received at the Head Office, or at any Branch in London or Australia of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

Copies of the full prospectus and forms of application can be obtained at the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, and from any of the abovementioned brokers, and at the said offices of the Company.

The requirements of the Companies Acts have not been fully complied with in this notice.

The application for debentures will proceed only on one of the forms of application referred to sent with printed copy of the prospectus.

This notice is not to be regarded as an invitation to the public to subscribe for debentures, and applications will only be received on the footing of the full prospectus and in the form issued therewith.

LABOUR CAMPAIGN.

FEDERAL FIGHT.

SPEECH BY MR. HUGHES.

"THE REAL ISSUE."

Mr. W. M. Hughes, deputy leader of the Federal Opposition, addressed a meeting in the Federation Hall, Church Hill, last night. It may have been due to the cold night, or it may have been lack of interest in the issues before the people, but the hall was by no means full. Mr. G. C. Gillespie, presided, and on the platform were Mr. J. H. Cann, Senator Rae, Mr. E. Riley, M.P., Mr. Stuart Robertson, M.L.A., Mr. T. Keegan, M.L.A., Messrs. J. Grant and D. Watson (Senate candidates), M. E. Grayndler (secretary of the A.W.U.), and Mr. J. A. Dobbie.

UNIQUE OCCASION.

"The present is an occasion unique in the history of the Commonwealth," began Mr. Hughes. "As far as I know, no constitutional Government throughout the Empire has any parallel to it. There never has been, as far as my recollection goes, a dissolution of the two Houses of Parliament in the English-speaking world. The electors will be enabled on September 5 to express an opinion upon the great issues that concern us, and upon the Cook Government; and for that reason I am glad this opportunity has been afforded the people of Australia. It is now a little more than 12 months since we last appealed to the people, and by a majority of one Mr. Cook took office. In substance the issues which were before the people in 1913 are the issues before them to-day. Nothing has been changed, excepting that the Cook Government is now in office, whereas formerly it was in Opposition.

Proceeding, he said the Senate had been dissolved along with the House of Representatives because it rejected the bill which the Government called a test bill—the Preference Prohibition Bill, which aimed at prohibiting preference to casual employees in the Commonwealth Government service. It could not deal with permanent employees in the Government service. Long before that bill passed its second reading on the first occasion it was presented to the Lower House preference had been prohibited by administrative act of the Cook Government. For some eight months there had been no preference granted to unionists in the Commonwealth public service. It followed, then, that for these eight months the country, the national Legislature, the whole of the legislative machinery of the Commonwealth of Australia, had been concentrated upon a notorious and obvious sham. This bill that had been rejected by the Senate would, had it been passed, have affected the life and fortune and interests of not one human being. It was merely an excuse for dissolving the Senate.

THE WILL OF THE MAJORITY.

Mr. Cook had already begun to roar—no doubt more gently than would be the case later on—about the will of the majority being flouted by the Senate. He complained that Mr. Fisher had not mentioned this great question in his policy speech at Bundaberg. Mr. Fisher was quite right in not unduly dwelling upon it, for it could not be made an issue, for the good and sufficient reason that the will of the majority of the people of this country had not been flouted by the Senate. The Cook Government never had a majority of the electors behind it in either House. This bogus attempt to obscure the real issue now before the electors by loud-mouthed declarations as to flouting the will of the majority was an obvious and transparent piece of humbug. There was not an organ of public opinion which was now denouncing the Senate as a notorious partisan which did not buttress up the Legislative Councils of the States and support them to the last ditch.

CONSTITUTIONAL OBLIGATIONS.

"It is proof of the transparency of the humbug that is the basis of the Liberals' attitude," he went on, "that while they cry aloud for the blood of the Senate, which has at its back the majority of the people of the country (a thing that cannot be said of any Upper House in the world), that Senate has behind it the mandate of the overwhelming majority of the people cast at two successive elections. This House has been sent to the people because it dared to do what it was authorised, nay, commanded, to do. When other Legislative Councils flout the will of the people it is held to be an act of patriotic statesmanship. For the Senate to do that which its constitutional obligations imposed on it, is to flout the will of the people. (Laughter.) Look at these people who denounce the Senate, and see what they said in 1900 and in 1914, and then you will see the tenuity of their argument. Now they say the Senate that is flouting the will of the majority is superfluous. In 1900 they shouted themselves hoarse in their efforts to eulogise the very body they now denounce. Then it was the object of their adoration. The Senate was created—or thought to be created—for no other purpose than to show the advancing tide of democracy. As it was thought to do that, it had the support of all. Since it has dared to be a banner-bearer of the democracy, since the hewers of wood and drawers of water have secured a majority there, the Senate is anathema. (Applause.)

Mr. Cook and his party will endeavour to make it appear that the issue of the election is whether the Senate or the people will rule. But the great point is whether the people shall rule or whether vested interests of the country shall rule. (Applause.) It is said that Mr. Cook in the last 12 months has gone about the country bemoaning the fact that he was unable to carry out his programme. But at the last election, though Mr. Cook secured a majority of one in the House of Representatives, he did not secure a majority of the votes of the electors. Labour polled 50,000 votes more for the House of Representatives and 54,000 more for the Senate. So in both houses the Cook Government was always in a minority as far as the people of Australia were concerned. (Applause.)

THE BATTLE.

Two weeks of the campaign had gone by, yet it had been left for the leader of the Opposition to announce his policy first. Mr. Cook should have taken the first opportunity to tell the people his policy. Mr. Cook waited for Mr. Fisher's declaration of policy, and further said he would not declare his until July 15. There was no greater condemnation of a leader of a great party in office, who claimed he had a majority, than this. Instead of going on boldly he waited. What for? He wanted to see which way the cat would jump. He waited that he might feel the pulse of the people, when he would know what virus he should inoculate with, according to the temperature of the people. He was a leader who knew not where to go until he saw the people going.

Mr. Cook complained that Mr. Fisher, in his speech had omitted reference to matters such as the Northern Territory, immigration, and the dreadful crime approaching sacrilege, of going to the Governor-General, over the head of the Government. All that Mr. Fisher said was what concerned the welfare of the people of Australia.

"NO OPPORTUNISM."

Some of the press condemned the policy of Mr. Fisher because it contained nothing new. He (the speaker) thought that the best feature of it. It showed there was no opportunism in the Labour policy, placed there with the object of catching votes. That was the glory and triumph of the Labour party that it preached the same doctrine to-day that it preached 12 months ago. The reason was that nothing had happened that changed the situation, and consequently the same remedy that stood then was good now. The problems of industrial unrest and high cost of living, and of coincidental and correlated ones were before the people now as then. The question of trusts and combines was no less important now than then. And by the way, the statements of Mr. Cook to the effect that there were no harmful results from the operations of these trusts and combines, had been falsified by the words of his own lieutenant, Sir William Irvine.

THE CHARGE OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

Mr. Cook during the last campaign tramped the country mainly on the charge of extravagance. The spell-bound elector listening to Mr. Cook's vivid imagination thought the Labour party had engaged in a regular financial debauch. If the Labour party was extravagant, as had been asserted by Mr. Cook, he would ask if the Cook Government had been economical? The latter had had an ample opportunity of putting the pruning-knife wherever they pleased. But contrast the two records. The revenue received by the Fisher Government for 1912-13 was £20,422,000; that received by the Fusion Government for 1913-14 was £21,482,000. The expenditure by the Fisher Government was £22,683,000; the expenditure by the Fusion Government was £23,251,000. "They got more; they spent more," said Mr. Hughes amid laughter. "The Fisher Government lived within its income. The Fusion Government spent far more than its income. The Fisher Government left a surplus of £2,653,000 as a result of three years' administration. After one year this Government winds up with a deficit of £1,534,000. And yet it has the audacity to call it a surplus, because it has taken that £1,534,000 from the surplus the Labour Government left, and still has something left. (Laughter and applause.) The Labour Government every month saved at the rate of £100,000; the Fusion Government every month it was in office went £150,000 to the bad, so that the difference between Labour and the Fusion Government is a difference of £250,000 a month to the people of this country. And that is what Mr. Cook calls economical Government." (Laughter and applause.)

BORROWING FOR DEFENCE.

Mr. Hughes went on to say that Mr. Cook's excursions into the realms of finance were fairly rare and always audacious, and the press of this country—particularly of this State—had recently felt compelled to rap him over the knuckles for some of his excursions, suggestions, and inventions. (Laughter.) Not only had the Fusion Government spent more than it got out of revenue, but its policy had been to defray out of loan money expenditure which the Labour Government defrayed out of revenue. Sir John Forrest, who regarded millions as mere bubbles, proposed to finance this country in future on a glorious policy of borrowing for defence purposes. The defence policy of the country was initiated by the Labour party, which carried out the whole of it out of revenue—(hear, hear)—but Sir John Forrest proposed to defray a great deal of the expenditure of defence out of loan money. Twelve months ago Mr. Cook said, in reply to something he (Mr. Hughes) had said: "With regard to the taunt that the Liberal Government proposed to raise a loan for defence, I would remind him that no loan has been raised, or will be raised." "The fact is," said Mr. Hughes, "that the Liberal Government proposed to raise a naval loan of £3,500,000, but we got into office before they could raise it, and so it was never raised." (Applause.) Mr. Cook's words would pursue him round every platform in this country. They might not put Mr. Cook to confusion, but they ought to do so. (Applause.)

PROMISES AND PERFORMANCES.

The first plank of the Liberal Government was economic government. But how did Mr. Cook carry it out? Such performances as his had not been seen before in the history of Australia. The cost of living was to be reduced. Where had relief been given? Nothing had been done. The cost of living was not dependent on Labour legislation. It depended on great causes, one of which was the work of combines and trusts, that worked for their own interests to the detriment of the people. These could only be dealt with in the way Labour proposed to deal with them, by giving greater powers to the Commonwealth. If there were any device by which the votes of the electors could be secured, they might be sure it would be included in Mr. Cook's programme. The promises of Mr. Cook were like the I.O.U.'s of the immortal Micawber. They were not to be redeemed, but only to be replaced by other promises. (Laughter.) He was to restore responsible government. How did he do it? He carried on the government by a majority of one. His majority was put in the Chair. The Speaker was an avowed partisan. "I cast no reflections on Mr. W. E. Johnson," said Mr. Hughes, "but for the whole time he always cast his vote for the Government. Mr. Cook could not carry any division without the casting vote of the Speaker, and in the Senate he had a few men fronted by 29 of the Opposition. He forced his test measure through the House by the "gag," after having suspended one member of the Opposition, in order to more readily use the "gag." He said he would stop the practice of spoils to the victors. But Labour was the only party that did not give billets to its friends. Point out one position given by them to a Labour representative. We gave the best positions to our political opponents." (Applause.)

A PARTY OF WRECKAGE.

Mr. Cook was to have effected reforms. He had ample opportunity. He declared, for instance, that the press was muzzled in that section which compelled the writer to sign their names, and that the Act ought to be wiped from the Statute Book—it was a foul blot upon freedom of speech and liberty. But Mr. Cook never made an effort, and he (Mr. Hughes) asked the press to remember that Mr. Cook was going to effect electoral reforms in a hundred ways, and he effected nothing. The only bill he introduced he called a test measure, and invited them to reject it. He refused every offer to make it acceptable. His party, the Fusion party, Mr. Deakin had rightly described as the wreckage of every party. In the language of the stud book it might be termed Opportunism out of Reaction, by an imported dam—the dam of Monopoly—which had been brought to this country where, instead of opportunity being given to five millions, opportunity should be given to 100,000,000. Here monopoly had its tentacles with the Fusion party standing for its mouthpiece. (Cheers.)

PREFERENCE TO UNIONISTS.

The attitude of the Cook Government towards preference to unionists was most illuminating, if it could be called "attitude," where there was no fixed principle or any consistency, no definite declaration of policy. Mr. Cook and Sir William Irvine were the leaders of this party. Mr. Cook was an old union official (laughter), a man born, bred, and nurtured in the mining industry, and in that industry he had learned the principles of unionism. He grew up and entered public life upon the shoulders of unionism, and he was a very stalwart believer in the principle. He would quote Mr. Cook, speaking in 1911. He would not have them pursue Mr. Cook to the political genesis. He was where he (Mr. Hughes) had never been, where he would be ashamed to be. He was a republican. (Laughter.) He denounced the imported Governor. He wanted a man of the people, and spurned anything outside the mere manual labourer. He was a republican, and a red one at that. (Laughter, so he would only go to 1911. According to "Hansard," page 7846, Mr. Cook said: "I was secretary of a union, and we always insisted on preference to unionists in a very summary fashion. I have no sympathy with the man who will work alongside another man and see the other man pay his dues into an organisation whilst he himself is skulking to avoid payments." That was Mr. Cook of three years ago. Sir William Irvine, his colleague, was a man who had been all his life a banner-bearer on the other side, one who could claim, just as Mr. Cook came from the loins of the people, that he came from the loins of the privileged classes. He said if he had his way he would have Parliament wipe off the statute book as one of the ugliest blots on it that portion of the Act which enabled a legal tribunal to grant legal preference in any shape. What kind of policy could they expect from men sprung from such different sources? Whose opinion was to prevail? The policy of the union official, or that of the man who said he would wipe preference off the book?

THE LIBERAL PARTY'S POSITION.

What did the Liberal party stand for? Mr. Cook still said he revered the sacred name of Labour. (Laughter.) That was the most audacious, and at the same time most excusable statement, he had made. What he meant was that he bowed to the power of Labour, that he feared it. (Applause.) He saw its clenched fist, and would avoid it. Yes, Mr. Cook revered the sacred name of Labour. He revered everybody who had a vote. Mr. Cook saw with his perfervid imagination the lion lying down with the lamb, the capitalist lying down with the employee—with the employee inside. (Laughter.) They knew very well there was in this country a violent clash of interests, and that one set was behind Mr. Cook, and the other was behind the Labour party. (Cheers.)

ETHICS AND PREFERENCE.

Preference to unionists had, he said, received the support of the people for the last nine years. It was a sound principle, based on the recognised motives that underlay human nature. It was not confined to industrial organisation. It was common to all spheres of social activity. Every man, every body of men, gave preference to those who thought and believed as they did. White Australia; Australia for the Australians! What were these but preference. Protection was merely preference to local industry as opposed to foreign industry. What was a combine but preference to those inside the ring against those outside? Sir William Irvine and he belonged to the most select and most securely entrenched union in the world. It was a union sanctioned by law, and there was another union inside it, the Bar Association, which had declared that if any man dared practise both as a barrister and a solicitor they should not take briefs from him or have anything to do with him; yet when the working man struggled to get a decent wage for his wife and family, he was denounced as a unionist and an enemy to society. (Laughter and applause.)

MR. FISHER'S "OMISSIONS."

"The one reason why they would have the people reject us," Mr. Hughes proceeded, "is because we stand for a new order, for a new and better condition of things for the people. This has become a better country to live in and work in since the Labour party came into politics and breathed the breath of life into it. (Applause.) Mr. Cook speaks about Mr. Fisher's omission of the questions of immigration and the Northern Territory, and other things; but let me remind Mr. Cook that up to the time Labour came in this Northern Territory was a thing in the air, like the North Shore Bridge, and immigrants avoided the country as if it had the plague. The Labour party not only took up the Northern Territory and started to develop it, but during the three years of Labour rule twice as many people came here as during the preceding 20 years—and during the last 12 months immigration had fallen off again. The Liberals denounced the maternity bonus, but they hadn't dared to touch it. (Applause.) Sir William Irvine, however, said: "I would sweep away all those doles that sap the energy and independence of the people?" (Laughter.) The pension of an old man or woman of 65 is a deadly danger and a wrong—it saps the independence. (Loud laughter.) But a pension to some illegitimate son of Royalty is a glorious and a patriotic institution."

THE INTERSTATE COMMISSION.

Referring to the Interstate Commission, Mr. Hughes said it had no power behind it—it could ask questions, but could not compel answers. They might as well stand before the Sphinx and ask it for a solution of the problems of the present day. The only hope for salvation lay in the carrying of the referendum proposals that the people had twice rejected. That regarding trusts had only been defeated by a majority of 8000 out of a total vote of two millions—less than one-half per cent.—and if placed before the people again he felt sure it would be carried. A great many people had grown wiser since they voted last time against the proposals. The real issue was in these things, and the attempt to cloud the issue was merely an attempt to steep them in the waters of Lethe and make them forget the Government's barren record."

STATE SUPPORT.

Mr. Cann, in support, said that when Labour advocated vote by post the Liberals opposed it. To make this a political issue was to throw dust in the eyes of the people. Labour did not now enthuse over the postal vote, because their opponents generally found some devious ways to secure an illegitimate majority. And their cry about preference to unionists was a subterfuge to deceive the people. On behalf of the State Labour party, he assured the Federal Labour party of their fullest support. If the Senate candidates were to win, West Sydney would have to put up a big vote to counteract the votes on the other side. He moved a vote of confidence in the Federal Labour party. (Applause.)

Senator Rae said that at the last election the Labour senators would have won if the Labour supporters in the big industrial centres had polled their full strength. In Queensland and Western Australia a better percentage was put up than in West Sydney, which should be ashamed of itself. Nothing could be done until Labour got the Governor under their thumb. When they got a rubber-stamp Governor to serve their purpose it would be all right.

Mr. David Watson, Senate candidate, said that West Sydney should be proud of Mr. Hughes. The Labour movement owed its success to the splendid work of Mr. Hughes during the last twenty years. Labour to-day was fighting the foes of mankind—capital and vested interests. The defeat of Labour meant further opportunities for capital to keep the workers under its oppressive thumb.

Mr. John Grant said the Labour organisation in some parts of the country was complete, but in West Sydney there were thousands off the roll. Twenty members of the State Labour party were now going through the country in the interests of the Federal party. Effective organisation alone would win the battle.

The meeting concluded with a unanimous vote for Mr. Hughes and Labour.

COUNTRY PARTY.

QUESTION OF LEADERSHIP.

FARMERS' ATTITUDE.

TAMWORTH, Wednesday.

The question of the Country Party was discussed at yesterday's meeting of the Tamworth district council of the F. and S. Association. Mr. F. A Chaffey, M.L.A., forwarded a copy of the resolutions passed by 10 members in the Legislative Assembly, who recently formed themselves into the "Country party," with power to add to their number, with the object of conserving and promoting country interests generally in Parliament, and also to give legislative effect to the platform of the Farmers and Settlers' Association of New South Wales.

The president (Mr. W. J. Peek) said that there were some who were in favour of a leader being appointed to the Country party and others who agreed with the appointment of a committee of three. Again, there were others who said that it was a party within a party. He would have been much pleased if they had chosen a leader straight away. When one thing was within another, it was pretty well swallowed.

A Voice: A party that is within another has not got much of a show.

Mr. A. T. Donaldson moved that the attitude taken up by the Parliamentary country party, in the opinion of that council, was calculated to give the best results, and that that council endorse the members' action.

Mr. Meadows said the question was whether they were going to have one leader of the country party or a committee of three.

Mr. Lamotte said that unless they broadened their policy, he did not think they would get all the country electors. This should be done, so as to enable them to include all country electors. They were all practically Labour men, but they were opposed to the "red rag" and "wild cat" schemes of the Labour Party.

The motion was then put by the chairman and carried, there being two dissentients.

LONGWOOL SHEEP.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ASSOCIATION.

The Australian Longwool Sheepbreeders' Association held its annual meeting at Aarons' Exchange Hotel last night. The president, Mr. H. F. Marr, occupied the chair.

The report was presented by the secretary (Mr. William Spier). It showed that 26 applications for registration of flocks had been received during the year, 21 of which were accepted, while the other five were under consideration. The flock book now contained 55 Lincoln flocks, 33 Romney Marsh, 26 English Leicesters, and 14 Border Leicester flocks. The compulsory individual registration of stud rams was a matter that had received the careful consideration of the council. A general opinion prevailed that this should be imperative, in the best interests of the association. Recognising the importance of encouraging breeders to exhibit their longwool sheep, the council had granted special prizes for registered sheep at some of the principal Australian and Tasmanian shows. Grand champion ribbons had been presented in some cases.

The council was of opinion that the day of unregistered and doubtful stud flocks would soon be left behind. All applications for registration in the cases of doubtful breeding had been rejected.

The balance-sheet of the association showed a credit balance of £238 7s.

In moving the adoption, Mr. Marr said that the differences which existed between the association and the Victorian association had been settled, and they were now working harmoniously together.

Mr. J. A. Cochrane seconded the motion.

Mr. G. A. Higgins opposed any suggestion for closing the stock book, on the ground that it was inconsistent with the rules. It was also bad policy, because the Victorian association closed their book, and then the local body had an opportunity of getting in flocks.

The report was adopted.

The following officers were elected:—President, Mr. H. F. Marr; vice-presidents, Messrs. A. L. Bennett, J. A. Cochrane and E. W. Oliver; council, Messrs. J. Coote, junr., G. Massey, A. Brunskill, and J. A. Wallace to represent Lincoln breeders of New South Wales; Messrs. J. Baker, J. Christie, E. A. Porter, and Major Stewart, to represent Lincolns for Victoria; Messrs. M. White and W. Richardson, for South Australia; Queensland, Mr. D. Macfarlane; Messrs. T. French, P. C. Best, C. B. Hazlewood, and F. Long for Tasmanian Lincoln breeders. For Border Leicesters: New South Wales, Messrs. J. H. Angus, A. W. Austin, B. Lyons, and H. M. Hutton; Victoria, Mr. J. A. Cochrane; Queensland, Mr. G. Hartnell. Romney Marsh: New South Wales, Messrs. G. F. Doyle, F. J. R. Dight, J. O. V. Read, T. M'Dowall; Victoria, Messrs. W. T. Garratt, A. E. T. Payne, W. H. Yelland, A. S. Tonkin; South Australia, Messrs. E. F. Feuerheerdt and G. Riddoch; Tasmania, Messrs. R. C. Grubb and F. Burbury; Queensland, Messrs. J. Dunkley and F. File; Western Australia, Messrs. J. B. Palmer and Wesley Maley. English Leicester: New South Wales, Messrs. A. L. Bennett, T. M. Scott, W. T. Crant, and F. E. Churchill; South Australia, Mr. W. Richardson; Tasmania, Messrs. N. and R. C. Hazlewood, F. H. Badcock, and J. C. Reyes; hon. treasurer, Mr. C. E. H. Maitland; auditor, Mr. G. Harrison.

It was decided to present the secretary with a gold watch, in appreciation of his services.

TASMANIAN CRISIS.

HOBART, Wednesday.

The Colonial Secretary's decision on the Constitutional question which precipitated the recent crisis, was read in the Assembly to-night. It decided that the Governor has no power to impose conditions in regard to a dissolution, but must always act on Ministerial advice.

NATIVE WAR CANOE.

The steamer Kulambangra, which arrived from the Solomon Islands yesterday, had on board a large native war canoe, which has been presented by a number of natives in the Solomons to Sir William Lever for his museum at Port Sunlight. The canoe, which is 35ft long, was safely landed on the wharf at Miller's Point yesterday.

THE TARIFF.

REVISED DUTIES SOUGHT.

FURTHER EVIDENCE.

The sitting of the Interstate Commission on the tariff was continued at Parliament House yesterday.

Angus Mackenzie, representing the Australian Drug Company, Ltd., applied for certain alterations in toilet preparations and proprietary medicines. Sixty per cent. of the proprietary medicines were British. He asked for an increase from 15 per cent. to 40 per cent., with a 30 per cent. preference to British goods. His factory employed 50 to 60 hands all the year round.

Mr. Lockyer pointed out that witness was asking for very substantial increases, and that fuller financial particulars would be needed.

William J. Scammell, a partner in F. H. Faulding and Co., wholesale druggists and manufacturing chemists, of Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney, applied for reduction of the excise duty on Australain-made spirits used in local manufacture; and for more liberal regulations regarding denaturing of alcohol for use in mouth washes, hair and skin preparations, antiseptics, etc.

Mr. Piddington said that the matter was not one for the commission. If the company had a good case the Customs Department had full power to act as it saw fit regarding denaturing.

Mr. Lockyer said that many practical men came before them, but few made practical suggestions for alterations. He wished that chemists would bring forward a suggestion as to denaturing alcohol so that it would be rendered useless as a beverage, while retaining its value as a spirit. German chemists had made a study of this; it was a pity Australian chemists did not go into it. As far as the duty was concerned, he asked the witness to remember that the spirits imported into the Commonwealth amounted to £3,000,000. If the excise was reduced to 7s 6d it would seriously affect the revenue.

Mr. Scammell said if the excise duty were reduced the production locally would be quadrupled.

Mr. Piddington said in that case the Federal Government would lose the difference between import and excise duty.

It was decided to hear the witness further at Adelaide, additional figures to be supplied.

Ernest S. Trigg, general manager of Meadowbank Manufacturing Company, opposed any reduction of duty on malleable iron castings. The present duty was 1½d per lb. His firm turned out about 40 tons per annum, but had a larger capacity. Malleable castings were component parts of machinery, principally agricultural implements. The industry had been fostered by the present duty, which, in witness's opinion, was sufficient. There was no justification for the statement that local castings were not equal to imported, for the Meadowbank Company supplied castings which passed a stringent test. The labour cost in Australia was double that in America.

Donald Donald, managing director of Donald Patents, Ltd., applied for the removal of the duty on malleable iron castings. His company bought the castings in the United States at 2½d and 3d a lb, and used them in manufacturing small machines, etc. He had tried to buy the castings locally, but the cheapest they had got them for was 5d a lb in Melbourne. Of these, 30 per cent. were useless, and many of the balance not efficient. The American article was always satisfactory.

Charles F. Doutreband, trading as the Newman Manufacturing Company, Waterloo, asked for the removal of duty on unground spices and an increase of duty on Worcester sauce and curry powder. He was paying 3d per lb duty on spices, which could not be produced locally. The duty on sauce was equal to 17 per cent.; he asked for 4s per dozen pints on English sauce. It might amount to prohibition, but that was a good point where foods were concerned. The difference between the cost of raw material in Australia and England was enormous.

Witness stated that his proposal only applied to bottled sauces. There was a prejudice against the Australian article, and provided the quality was the same, he thought that people here should be forced to buy the Australian article. His factory employed 11 hands.

John P. M'Arthur, managing director of F. Konig and Co., Ltd., also applied for the removal of duty on unground spices used in manufacturing sauces, pickles, condiments, and mustard. It was unreasonable to allow ingredients for curry powder to come in free and to place a duty on the same articles when used for sauces. Referring to mustard, under practical trial the Australia mustard seemed deficient in thickening quality. He asked that ground mustard, instead of paying 3d per lb, be admitted free when used for making pickles, sauces, etc. The duty his firm paid on raw material equalled 10 per cent. on the value of their sales.

James Best, managing director of Freeman and Sons, condiment makers, Sydney, and Charles Percy Wheresatt, trading as Cooper and Sons, condiment manufacturers, of Petersham, supported the contention of the previous witness regarding the removal of duties on spices.

A. G. Huie, secretary of the Freetrade and Land Value League, asked for a reduction of duty on ground spices by 50 per cent., other spices to be admitted free. The natural effect of free admission would be to benefit local manufacturers as well as consumers.

THE WEATHER.

A SUDDEN COLD CHANGE.

SQUALLY WINTRY WINDS.

The operations of the energetic Antarctic disturbance at present in New South Wales have been responsible for a complete change in the weather conditions. Comparatively mild and quiet conditions have been replaced by cold and squally winds, reaching gale force on parts of the coast.

Light rains have been recorded on the central and southern highlands and eastern Riverina, and at a few places on the South Coast. A light fall of snow also occurred at a few places on the central tablelands. On the south-western slopes Tumbarumba had 32 points, Adelong 24, and Tumut and Murrumburrah each 20; on central tablelands the largest amount was 24 points at Carcoar, and Blayney received 20 points. On the southern tablelands Kiandra had 40 points—it was snowing there at 9 a.m. yesterday—and Kosciusko 22 points. In Riverina Coolamon 15 points, Wagga 6, and The Rock 5. On the extreme South Coast Gabo 22 points and Green Cape 20. In the metropolitan area very light rain fell with the violent westerly squall about 4 p.m. (Tuesday); Parramatta, Manly, and Marrickville each received 3 points, Roseville 2, and Sydney 1.

The strong and squally westerly wind continued throughout Tuesday night and on Wednesday. Up to midnight (Tuesday) a number of the gusts approached or exceeded 30 miles; after that hour, however, they diminished to less than 20 miles per hour until 9 a.m. on Wednesday, when boisterous and cold conditions set in, and the force of the wind exceeded 30 miles again. At 9 a.m. yesterday Newcastle reported a NW fresh gale; Wollongong, Kiama, and Moss Vale each moderate gales, and Gabo a fresh gale and rough sea.

The temperature was lower generally than on Tuesday, the largest differences between the 9 a.m. readings yesterday and Tuesday being 12 deg. at Armidale and 10 deg. at Inverell. It was frosty at places, chiefly in the north. On the southern tablelands Mount Kosciusko reports 3 inches of snow on the ground. Snow is also advised from the highlands of Victoria.

The majority of the minimum readings over the State on Tuesday were in the forties (deg.), but on Wednesday the thirties (deg.) were mostly represented. The lowest registrations were:—Kosciusko 25 deg., Kiandra, Young, and Bundarra each 26, Nimitybelle 27, and Bingara and Inverell each 29 deg.

The frosty conditions have extended northwards as far as southern Queensland, where a few frosts occurred on Wednesday morning.

In Victoria at 9 a.m. on Wednesday it was cloudy to overcast throughout, with showers at places south of the ranges; and light to moderate rainfall has been recorded generally on and south of the ranges in the NE, and a few heavy falls in Gippsland. A report states that a heavy snowstorm was experienced at Ballarat on Tuesday, and lasted during a great part of the day.

In Tasmania light rain was recorded fairly generally.

KIANDRA.—Five inches of snow have already fallen, and conditions favour a further fall before the weather again settles. Tourists are being attracted to the district.

LITHGOW.—Bitter wintry weather prevailed on Tuesday and Wednesday. Slight showers fell on Tuesday, and there was a small fall of snow. Yesterday morning was the coldest experienced so far this winter. District reports indicate light snow and very low temperatures.

A MOTION OF CENSURE.

The amendments proposed by the leader of the Opposition to the Address in Reply last night must be read as a motion of censure upon the Government, and discussed in the light of what has happened since the end of last session. Mr. Wade's double challenge was quite clear under these heads. First, he insisted that certain alleged charges made by Mr. Holman against Mr. Meagher should be either proved or recalled; and, second, he demanded that the terms of reference to the Commission appointed in connection with the Boorabil case should be extended to cover the question of members of Parliament acting as land agents. The Premier's reply to these was that nothing contained in his remarks about Mr. Meagher during a controversy arising out of a Caucus dispute could, or should, be interpreted as a charge of wrong-doing. Nothing could be more explicit than the denial so made. Mr. Holman said emphatically that he had made no charge, and that he had nothing to prove or recall. Moreover, he declared just as decidedly that he knew of nothing at the moment of speaking to warrant the Government in appointing a commission of inquiry into the conduct of any member of Parliament; and as far as he was concerned, he urged in effect that Mr. Meagher and every public man was above suspicion. This is, of course, one of the main features of British justice. Every man is to be considered honest and innocent of offence until the opposite is proved against him. The position taken with regard to the Boorabil case was practically applied to the alleged charge against Mr. Meagher. Mr. Holman said that the Government would be no party to a fishing inquiry. It asked for specific charges. As soon as anybody formulated a definite indictment, or could show that evidence was available to prove wrong-doing against members of Parliament, the Government would take action at once, either by extending the terms of reference of the Boorabil Commission, or by appointing another Commission. This, then, is the gist of the reply to Mr. Wade. Will it be accepted as satisfactory by the public? We take leave to doubt it. No exception can be taken to the broad statement that the Government cannot be expected to set out on, or to appoint others to prosecute a fishing inquiry. Nor is there likely to be any objection formulated against the demand for definite charges against persons in particular. But the history of the land scandals of nine years ago shows sufficiently clearly that the terms of reference to a Commission of inquiry may in some cases be made to cover more ground than the immediate facts appear to warrant. Everything will depend, no doubt, upon the surroundings and upon a certain strength of suspicion; yet the main point after all is the importance of what has been revealed, and the likelihood of its dragging a great deal more with it into the light.

With respect to Boorabil itself, we have nothing to say. The case is sub judice now that the Commission has been appointed. But a good deal remains to be said about the way in which the terms of reference have been narrowed down; and what we urged in a leader on June 26 must be repeated now. The text of the Commission given to Mr. Justice Owen was quoted. Therein was included a paragraph in terms so wide that the Commissioner was able to go where he willed; and in the course of his investigations he dragged a great deal of evil business to light. It ran: "To inquire whether on the part of anyone there has been any interference or attempt at interference with the purity of Parliamentary or departmental action." Why cannot the same extension of power be given to Mr. Justice Pring? "Make your charge," said the Premier, and Ministerial supporters applauded. But a similar insistence upon this course nine years ago would have practically blocked inquiry along its most needed channels, and a Liberal Government was not afraid to risk of permitting a Judge of the Supreme Court to go fishing. It had to be a fishing inquiry within limits which a Supreme Court Judge could be trusted to honour. Why should there be so much reluctance to throw open wide the same doors now? The Attorney-General last night reminded the Premier that the proposed extension of powers for calling upon witnesses, to be covered by a special Act soon to be passed, was warranted by the fact that only Supreme Court Judges were to be entrusted with a weapon which might so easily be used against the individual citizen. Why hesitate now to give Mr. Justice Pring as much as was handed to Mr. Justice Owen in the way of freedom to range? We know of nobody who could be better trusted. The occasion calls for such latitude; and if there has been no wrong done, no person great or small will suffer. Mr. Holman said that the terms of reference in the Boorabil case would be immediately extended if the need arose, but why hedge in such fashion? Why wait for a lead when so much has already been accepted as necessary? If we understand the position aright, Parliament may be rising in a fortnight for a three or four weeks' recess. During the recess a matter of urgency may call for prompt action; and the Judge, failing the wider powers, may have to wait when time will be vital. The Premier has acted directly and promptly so far. He has only to do the little more with regard to one of Mr. Wade's amendments to knock it to pieces. As to the other we can only say that the public must be the judge between Mr. Holman and Mr. Meagher. The Premier, so far, has not said enough to allay an uneasy feeling that he could say a great deal more.

MR. HUGHES IN SYDNEY.

Mr. Hughes is one of the few members of Parliament who, by a series of achievements in politics, have set up a standard which friends and opponents alike expect him to maintain on every occasion, and under all circumstances. We do not expect from him an exhaustive analysis of the record of a Parliament nor a repetition, as if by heart, of the lesson authorised by the caucus. Such a task was attempted and carried through by his austere leader at Bundaberg on Monday night. But from Mr. Hughes we expect to gain a far clearer idea than from Mr. Fisher of the real grounds on which Labour intends to rely in an election campaign. In his speeches we see the future arguments which will be put in the mouths of his enemies to be triumphantly destroyed, the monsters that will be conjured up and denounced as the friends of the Liberal party and the enemies of the people, and the phrases which, whether they are applied in praise or censure, may be adopted as watchwords of his followers. The audience who came to hear Mr. Hughes in his stronghold last night were completely disappointed if they relied on their legitimate expectations. No word was said by Mr. Hughes which could infuse a spark of life into the dry bones of the policy expounded by Mr. Fisher. The lieutenant did not even fill up the blanks left by his chief. He claimed that the Labour party had taken over the Northern Territory, and inferred that having committed the Commonwealth to so vast an undertaking they need say no more about it. He excused his leader for omitting to refer to immigration. By declaring that these immigrants had come in at a slower rate under Mr. Cook than under Mr. Fisher, an attempt to shift a responsibility from the States to the Commonwealth, was too disingenuous even for an audience of partisans. But he said nothing to indicate that an Opposition which claims to have always possessed the confidence of the electors has any constructive policy on matters of vital importance to the Commonwealth. On the subject of taxation he was equally unsatisfactory. He repeated with vigour his leader's denunciation of any proposal to borrow for defence purposes. He said nothing against the proposed extension of the maternity bonus system. But he gave no hint of the source from which the new taxes will be raised, nor even hinted that such taxes will be necessary.

Mr. Hughes's comments on the defence policy were typical of his treatment of the whole of the Government record. In spite of the clear distinction between permanent and temporary works, he spoke as if the Government proposed to carry out the whole of its naval programme on borrowed money. He declared that his Government had resolutely paid for defence out of revenue, in spite of the fact that Cockatoo Dock was not paid for at all, and was left to Mr. Cook to put in tolerable repair. By similar methods he reproached Mr. Cook for taking office, although Lord Denman had been advised by Mr. Fisher to send for him, and accused the Liberal party of having done nothing, although the Labour party in both Houses had combined to prevent anything being done. Mr. Hughes's criticism of the double dissolution is now familiar. It was reproduced with some difficulty by a speaker who was supported by the Labour Senators, and who claimed that the whole of the Labour party was burning with anxiety to appeal again to the electors. Mr. Hughes's denunciation of the trusts has been reduced to a formula. But it is a formula that should be modified in view of the appointment of the Royal Commission now sitting. Royal Commissions may no doubt be used for shelving a difficulty. But they can also be used for testing the foundations of such wild rhetorical statements as those that have been made in Parliament, and will be made throughout the ensuing campaign. Politicians can now prove whether their charges are based on information, or whether they are merely invented for the purpose of stimulating the elector. It is plain that the electors will need some stimulus if they are to regard this speech as the New South Wales supplement to Mr. Fisher. The people of Victoria have been offered high protection and the initiative as special inducements suited to their needs. New South Wales is offered nothing except high taxes and another referendum to reduce the trusts and the prices which will certainly grow within a tariff wall.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

The advocates of prohibition in New Zealand demand that a bare majority of votes should be sufficient to decide the "liquor policy" of any district, and their example has been followed in New South Wales as well. Yesterday the Minister for Justice received a deputation which requested Parliament to devote its attention to this and other questions connected with the liquor traffic. The early closing of hotels, the effectiveness of a bare majority at the poll, and State option were the three measures for which the deputation, representing a large section of the community, desired Parliamentary sanction, and though the first of these is a matter of detail, the other two raise issues of tremendous importance to the vendors and consumers of alcoholic drink. As regards the "bare majority," the spokesman scored a point when he observed that in other departments of policy and administration the will of the majority, however small the majority may be, is law. No one will deny that under the existing system the vote of the prohibitionist is not worth as much as that of one who refuses to vote no-license or reduction. But it is quite arguable that in such a matter as the abolition of the liquor trade it should not be. Regulation is one thing, extinction quite another. To put the position briefly, here is an industry which supports a vast number of people, and which supplies a considerable amount of revenue to the State. Is it fair that it should be placed in the position of being liable to be utterly swept away by a sudden decision of the polls? Again, because a small percentage abuse alcohol, is it fair that it should be left possibly to a single voter to dictate to half the community what they should drink? Of course, the extreme champions of temperance will say that this is quite fair. To differ from them, however, does not necessarily imply any antagonism to the cause they represent, or any blindness to the manifest evils for which the abuse of alcohol is responsible.

As a matter of fact, we believe that it is very doubtful whether local option or State option even with the "bare majority" will ever prove a satisfactory solution of the liquor problem. We have had some experience of local option, and it seems to have failed most comprehensively in its object. The poll of last December tells its own tale. The electorates where reduction was carried were the very places where reform in this direction was least necessary. This was inevitable. Few public-houses exist in a region whose inhabitants do not patronise them, and just because these inhabitants are not in the habit of patronising public-houses they vote reduction or no-license. On the other hand the electorate which supports public-houses in any numbers is not the sort of electorate to reduce their number. The result is that reduction is usually carried in the districts which need it least, while continuance is the verdict of the constituency whose every corner boasts its licensed premises. Last election reduced the whole thing to an absurdity. In some cases suburban and country districts had their hotels diminished almost beyond the point which public convenience demands, while in such electorates as King and Darling Harbour, where there was an obvious case for reduction, conditions were left unchanged. In Victoria they have a Licenses Reduction Board, which deals with this question in a very sensible fashion. It does not ignore public opinion, but it takes into account the needs of the locality and the character of the public-house it intends to close. It is steadily reducing the number of licensed premises in Victoria, and is doing it in a more systematic and less capricious manner than is achieved by our local option. We recommend the members of yesterday's deputation to study its operation, and we should not be surprised if they advocate the adoption of a similar system in New South Wales.

THE WORLD'S MEAT.

The fact that the number of sheep in New South Wales has actually decreased by more than 6,000,000 during the last five years, and has fallen from nearly 62,000,000 in 1892 to 39,436,118 in 1913, is one which is very well worth the attention of all those who are concerning themselves with the question of the price of meat and the source from which the world's future meat supply is to come. It is true that the recent decrease in the sheep carried in New South Wales is largely due to one bad year. The lambing in 1912 in New South Wales was less than half that of 1911—4,096,000 as against 8,830,000; and when actual losses were added, the drought which ended in June, 1912, accounted for a decrease of 6,000,000 in the sheep of New South Wales. But it does not account for the lack of the old buoyancy in the numbers carried. That symptom seems to be world-wide. As the president of the Pastoralists' Union said yesterday in the address with which he opened the annual meeting, the same shortage exists in the Argentine, where sheep numbers are reported to be decreasing and stockowners are finding it a hard matter to stock up with cattle. The "difficulty" of the Argentine pastoralist, it may be noted, is not necessarily one which calls for commiseration. It is chiefly a difficulty in refraining from selling his cattle when the prices are so good and the market so large as they have become in recent years. It is precisely the same difficulty which has lifted many of the small homestead lessees of the western district from the verge of insolvency to comparative ease.

In fact, apart from any influence that trusts and combines may have on the price of meat, one difficulty which will always exist in the way of the world's supply is the fact that, although more of the word's inhabitants are becoming accustomed to eat meat, there is no increase of meat from which to supply them. The increase of the supply from the big pastoral countries of the world is approaching its limit; and there seems little prospect of the supply growing much further until the day when the younger countries begin to follow the practice of the older ones, and make sheep and cattle raising a department of intense agriculture, which enables a country the size of Britain to carry 30,000,000 sheep. The fattening of sheep on irrigated lucerne is already being practised with great success on the reclaimed Murray marshes in South Australia. It is possible that in Australia, in the Argentine, in Canada, and elsewhere, the meat supply may be increased by this means as advanced methods of farming come gradually into use. But it will be a slow revolution, and only the increasing demand and the maintenance of high prices will bring it about. The inhabitants of the world have probably to make up their minds that the price of meat, like the price of wood and other limited raw material and primary products, is going to be high simply because the world is gradually reaching the limits of its resources. The limit of the world's supply of meat, as of other things, may be almost indefinitely extended by human ingenuity and the spending of further pains. But ingenuity and energy are only to be had if the price makes them worth while. Whatever way it is looked at, the future of the meat supply is not a cheerful subject for the anxious housewife of to-day.

Racial Differences.—During his recent visit to the Commonwealth, the Mayor of Auckland (Mr. C. J. Parr, C.M.G.) said that he had gained the impression that Australians had a fixed impression that they were not popular in New Zealand, and that they were not wanted (writes our Auckland correspondent). Time and again he was told that New Zealanders had a prejudice against their Australian cousins, and that this was shown when Australians went to New Zealand in search of employment. "Although most of us are unconscious of this attitude, I think that we are growing different from the Australians, and that two types are being gradually evolved," Mr. Parr said. "The typical New Zealander differs much in his outlook, in his manner, and in his opinions from the average man from Queensland or New South Wales. Broadly speaking, I fancy the Victorian is more like us, but elsewhere are to be noticed marked differences between the two peoples. There is a certain reserve, almost dourness, born of our insularity, evident in our countrymen; while Australia, with its wide spaces, its hot sunny clime, produces a mercurial, hearty, careless type, ready to take risks and to plunge a little. The average Australian is a fine fellow, bright, hearty, and effervescing with life, hospitable to the backbone, a game fighter in the hour of need. We should cultivate him. We may need him some day."

A Bottle Message.—A curious bottle message was found on Bondi Beach yesterday, which reported the loss of a Japanese steamer in the islands, and the plight of the survivors, who were said to have landed on an uninhabitable island near the Royalty Group. Mr. R. E. Moore, jun., of Leura, Dudley-street, Bondi, was walking along Bondi Beach before breakfast yesterday morning, when he noticed on the sand a bottle with what appeared to be a small flag projecting from the cork. He attempted to draw the cork, and in doing so broke the bottle. Several pieces of twill cloth fell out, and on examining these Mr. Moore was surprised to find that they contained messages written with an indelible pencil. The cloth, which was perfectly dry, appeared to be portion of a shirt, and the task of writing the message on it with a pencil must have been a difficult one. The bottle also contained a pair of silver sleeve links, which, according to the message, were intended as a present from the sender to the finder of the bottle. The message read as follows—"To the finder of this bottle, if found. I am the third officer of the (in English, Shima Maru) Japanese trader. We struck a derelict seven miles west of Loyalty Island, 4 a.m., 16-5-14. We took the boats, and we lost bearings. We are now on an island. Skipper and mate dead; second mate ill. There's only I and third mate and seven others, all weak. We are sailing in a few days in hopes of finding inhabited island. Sir, will you do me a kindness; let my people know I am all right up to writing this. Sir, if you make this known, please don't make their names known or that of my young lady. Sir, please accept the links as a token of my respect, for the kindness which I know you will do me. I hope that I may see you if I come out alive, and thank you personally. I am, Sir, yours truly, W. G. Purdy. Tell them, Sir, you will for humanity's sake; don't let them think I didn't try, but I can only hope, good luck, Sir, I wish I were you now. Good-bye." The Navigation Department thinks that the message is a hoax, but has informed the Japanese Consul of the contents of the message.

Religion in Schools.—The question of religious instruction in the State schools is just now receiving attention in New Zealand. The schools at present are conducted on an entirely secular system. Quite a large body of the public, led by representatives of Anglican and Nonconformist churches, writes our Wellington correspondent, are agitating in favour of some form of religious instruction, and in response to that desire the Minister for Education (Mr. J. Allen) has introduced in the House a bill providing for the taking of a referendum on the question. On the other side are ranged the Roman Catholics, who, wherever possible, provide and staff their own schools, and a large body of the public who are leagued together to uphold the "free, secular, and compulsory" system which has been in vogue since 1877. It is, however, generally expected that the bill will ultimately be defeated.

Conservatorium of Music.—The Education Department is now receiving applications for positions in the Conservatorium of Music. The Acting Minister for Public Instruction (Mr. Flowers) states that these applications cannot be dealt with until a director of the Conservatorium has been selected, as all appointments will be made upon that officer's recommendation. Action is now being taken to obtain the services of a director, but as it will be necessary for a committee in London to report to the Government upon all applicants from England and the Continent, some little time must elapse before the final selection is made. It is not expected that the director will take up his duties before the end of the year.

Agency for Women Workers.—On May 4 last a new sphere of activity was, by Ministerial direction, entered upon by the Department of Labour and Industry, and an agency for women workers of all kinds was opened at No. 231 George-street North, Sydney. "This step was taken," says the departmental "Gazette," "in anticipation of a legislative scheme for the establishment and maintenance of State labour exchanges, a project which will, it is believed, not only give organic form to the more dependent services of the community, but also lay the elements of the intricate problem of unemployment open to authoritative and exact investigation. The greater scheme expresses the conviction that unemployment is not necessarily or even generally attributable to personal defects, but is essentially due to a want of adjustment between the demand for and the supply of labour."

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor received the Address in Reply from the members of the Legislative Council yesterday afternoon.

The Premier and Mrs. Holman, and the Minister of Public Health (Mr. Flowers) were the guests at luncheon yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Woolcock, of Brisbane. Mrs. Flowers was unable to be present owing to a prior luncheon engagement.

Professor Grafton Elliot Smith, the eminent anatomist and anthropologist, has been spending some time this week in examining the aboriginal skulls in the museum of the Medical School at the University, working in conjunction with Professor Wilson. Professor Elliot Smith, who has come to Australia primarily for the purpose of attending the meeting of the British Association, has consented to give a course of four or five lectures on Egyptological subjects, in the Great Hall of the University, under the auspices of the Sydney University Extension Board. The course will probably begin on Tuesday, the 21st inst. For some time Professor Elliot Smith was Professor of Anatomy in the Egyptian Government School of Medicine, and is recognised as one of the world's greatest authorities on Egyptology.

At the meeting of the Federal Executive Council, the Postmaster-General, Mr. Agar Wynne, and Secretary of the Central Postal Administration, Mr. J. Oxenham, were formally appointed as representatives of the Commonwealth, to attend the International Postal Convention at Madrid. During Mr. Oxenham's absence the Victorian Deputy Postmaster-General, Mr. C. E. Bright, will act temporarily as Secretary of the Central Postal Administration.

Dr. E. J. Jenkins has been appointed an honorary consulting physician to the Sydney Hospital, and Dr. F. W. Hall an honorary physician; Dr. Lane Mullins, an honorary director of the department of special therapeutics; Dr. Charles Ayres, honorary assistant skiagrapher; and Dr. C. F. Warren, an honorary assistant aural surgeon.

Mr. J. A. Minnett, who has just severed his connection as manager with the New Zealand Insurance Company, New South Wales branch, with which company he has been connected for the last 40 years, during the last 27 of which he has been in an executive capacity, was entertained at afternoon tea yesterday by the Insurance Brokers' Association of New South Wales. Mr. A. B. Pursell, chairman of the association, on behalf of the members, presented Mr. Minnett with a gold-mounted stick and a case of pipes.

The Rev. W. L. Langley, of Newtown, returned on Tuesday from a visit to England.

VICTORIAN STRIKES.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

A deputation from the Employers' Federation yesterday asked the Premier, Sir Alexander Peacock, to introduce legislation for the preventom of strikes and lockouts.

The Premier said full consideration would be given by the Cabinet to the request.

LIQUOR REFORM.

ALMOST HOPELESS.

AN OUTSPOKEN MINISTER.

A bare majority vote, earlier closing, and State option were the three objects of a remarkably numerous deputation from the New South Wales Alliance which, introduced by Dr. Arthur, called yesterday morning on the Minister for Justice. Mr. Hall, in reply, said that the huge pressure of business before the House would render it impossible that anything of the kind could be considered by the present session, but that he would lay the deputation's demands sympathetically before his colleagues next session.

The Rev. R. B. S. Hammond said that the deputation represented nearly a quarter of a million people. As to the proposed bare majority vote, he said the present system involved class prejudice, and there was no reason why the liquor question should be an exception to the majority rule prevailing in other social and political departments. Earlier closing would be in harmony with all recent legislation, and would have a distinct and definite effect upon law and order. As to the question of State option, the proposal should be welcomed as a blow against a great and cruel monopoly. He would not propose to abolish local option in the meanwhile.

Mr. Hall, in his reply, said that personally he had little hope of securing much in the way of liquor reform from the Parliament of to-day. When the present Parliament was elected, the publicans and liquor interest voted unitedly, while the temperance party's vote was divided. In his own electorate, which he took as a typical instance, the no-license people were no-Labour people, and it was only by an accident that he was now in office. It was easy to see on reflection what effect this very widespread experience would have in future Parliamentary campaigns. "When," he added, "you can get in every electorate three or four hundred people who do not care about Liberal or Labour, but are absolutely determined first and foremost on the liquor question, you will get what you want. Till then, it is no use to blame Parliament because it will not do what you want it to." His own feelings, he assured the deputation, were in sympathy with the temperance movement.

STATE STEAMERS.

A SORRY EXAMPLE.

PERTH, Wednesday.

The Auditor-General's report on the State steamer balance-sheet for the year ended June 30, 1913, was tabled in the Legislative Council yesterday. In an accompanying report the Auditor-General takes exception to the cost of alterations to the steamer Western Australia being listed as capital, and that some of the alterations cost too much. He takes exception to the interest charges as not in accordance with loan fund requirements. He disapproves of the basis of depreciation adopted, and finds no proper certificate of stores in hand. He considers the item £543 for sundry debtors problematical, as the debtor disputes the claim. The audit, he adds, has been delayed on account of difficulty in obtaining information. The total loss shown in profit and loss account for the year ended June 30, 1913, is £22,813, on a capital expenditure of £124,024, and loss includes £3617 for depreciation, and £3892 for interest.

MEAT TRADE.

QUESTION OF PRICES.

THE INQUIRY.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Sitting as a Federal Royal Commission on the Meat Trade, Mr. Justice Street took further evidence yesterday.

Mr. H. L. Cooper, representing Sims, Cooper, and Co., was recalled.

Mr. Bavin: A witness stated yesterday that Sims, Cooper, and Co. generally operated on their own account, and appeared to be able to give higher prices for stock than other exporters. Does your firm give higher prices?—I don't think so.

Your limit is fixed on the prices ruling in London?—That is so.

If you paid higher prices it could be only because your working costs are lower, and that your firm is able to obtain orders in London at better values?—Yes; that would be so.

It has been mentioned that your buyer refused to take a fourth pen in conjunction with other firms when buying at Flemington? Does that imply that there is some arrangement between the other firms as to the purchase of stock?—It is possible that the buyer made the refusal in question. Our buyers have definite instructions not to work in conjunction with those of other firms. We are bound by our agreement with the Geelong Harbour Trust not to do so.

Mr. Alfred Edward Bennett, secretary of the Goulburn Valley Industries Company, Limited, said some farmers were dissatisfied with the prices they obtained for stock sent to the Melbourne markets. He did not know of anything that would enable him to say there was a ring or an agreement between the buyers.

Mr. William Angliss, of Angliss and Co., was questioned as to the statements made by some witnesses that Sims, Cooper, and Co. paid more for sheep and lambs than the other exporters. He replied that perhaps a wrong impression had been created by the fact that Sims, Cooper, and Co., sometimes bought a heavier class of lamb and sheep.

Mr. Bavin: There are rumours that Sims, Cooper, and Co. are financed by American firms, or assisted by American firms, and are buying for them. Do you know of anything that tends to support these rumours?—Nothing whatever.

In the afternoon the commission left for Sydney, en route to Brisbane, where further evidence will be taken.

STORY OF A FORTUNE.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

The story of a fortune was told in the Insolvency Court yesterday, before Commissioner Russell.

Oscar Marcel Mayer, whose case was before the Court, claimed that he was entitled to the sum of £58,000 from his mother's estate in South America, and added that he would come into it in November next. His solicitor, Mr. B. S. Penny, remarked that a little over ten years ago insolvent was left £72,000 by the will of his late mother, who lived in South America. Each of the children of the family were entitled to that amount. According to the law of the land, if the trustees saw that a beneficiary was unable to take care of his money, or was a spendthrift, they could apply to the Court for an order to hold the sum bequeathed for a longer period than that provided by the will. Insolvent spent £14,000 of his share shortly after receiving it, and payment of the balance of £58,000 was deferred for ten years. Mayer would be 32 years of age in November, when the period expired. The case as adjourned for a fortnight, to enable insolvent to make a journey to Sydney, to obtain money due to him there, and an order was made that £60 remittance, also due to Mayer, be paid into Court, and £30 of it allowed him for expenses in trying to satisfy his creditors in full.

OUT-OF-DATE GUNS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

In the course of a statement to-day, the Acting Chief of Ordnance, Col. H. W. Dangar, said that it was the intention to strenghten the Commonwealth artillery by increasing the number of Howitzer batteries from one to four. The five-inch Howitzer battery in New South Wales was considered to be out of date, and orders were sent to Great Britain last year for two new batteries for New South Wales and two for Victoria.

SHALE FIELDS.

LITHGOW, Wednesday.

A report from Newnes is as follows:—The machines have been given a trial in the shale mine, and by all accounts have worked most satisfactorily. Work on experimental retorts is proceeding apace, and it is said they will be completed in about six weeks. Should they also prove satisfactory, the outlook for Newnes will assume a brighter aspect than heretofore.

HOW SYDNEY HAS GROWN.

THE ROMANCE OF TRADE.

IV.

CARGO.

You have seen the ships come in, the ships from interstate ports and from New Zealand; the ships from England, the Continent, and America, from Occident and Orient—you have seen them come in a thousand times, come in and berth and unload. Have you ever paused to ask yourself what manner of merchandise they bring you, what they take away? You have watched the passengers coming down the gangway—kinsmen from the home-land, Oriental potentates, with their elaborate retinues, prosperous business men from America, and the thousands of others whom you cannot place, but who are coming and going from Somewhere to Somewhere all the year round—but you never stop to think of "cargo."

Yet the cargo means more to us than passengers. Imagine what it would mean if, by some means or other, we were suddenly to be cut off from communication with the rest of the world. It would not be the loss of passengers that we would feel, but the loss of trade.

Every year we send abroad enormous quantities of wool and wheat. The wool we sent away last year—and we are speaking only of New South Wales—was worth nearly £10,000,000 to us; the wheat was worth £2,500,000. We send gold. Fifteen years ago, indeed, Australia was the world's biggest gold producer, but South Africa and the United States are both ahead of us now. We send coal; we send flour in large quantities; we send tin and lead; we send hides and tallow; we send meat, and a hundred and one other things, to a hundred and one parts of the world.

Our wool may increase, and our wheat may increase, but the world will still want all we can give. So with everything else. We are beginning to send large quantites of meat away, and the future will see a great development in this direction. It is 3c years since the late T. S. Mort began the export of meat from this country on a business scale, and many of us remember seeing the vessel loaded at the Quay, at the foot of Pitt-street, whilst the large sailing vessels of those days—like the La Hogue and the Parramatta—were loading wool and tallow alongside. There they were, those big three-masted and four-masted ships, landing their hardware, and softgoods and general merchandise, and taking our products in return. And there their successors are to-day—there, and in other parts of the harbour.

WHAT COMES AND GOES.

What do the Royal Mail steamers of the P. and O. and Orient companies bring us besides passengers and mails? They bring what is known as "urgent" trade lines. If you are in business, and you are in urgent need of certain goods, you will cable your agents in London, and the goods will come by the mailboats. If there is no urgency, they will come by other steamers at lower rates. There is always something urgent. You will find bar and galvanised iron on these boats, boilers and engines (including traction engines), quantities of the best steel, cutlery, and tools of trade, boiled and raw oil, paints in great quantity, hardware, and many of the finer drapery lines. Those fine dress materials, the latest thing in hats, which the ladies love so well, those dainty gloves from Naples (so noted for its gloves), come out in the mailboats. When it is winter in Europe you will be sure to see lemons and oranges coming out from Italy, Egyptian cigarettes from Port Said, crates of tea from Ceylon, desiccated cocoanut, and among the heavier goods ironwork and machinery that is needed urgently, motor cars, and occasionally (of late) aeroplanes.

To catalogue all that comes out from English ports in the cargo steamers would be an impossible task.

And in return, what?—wool, wheat, butter, meat, hides, tallow, lead, copper and a great variety of products—a great proportion of nearly everything we produce, to say nothing of the transhipments from island steamers.

That big Norddeutscher Lloyd liner, those fine cargo-carriers of the German-Australian Company, what are they bringing to us? Pianos, motor cars, hardware, enamelware, wire netting, iron girders, asbestos, slates, perfumery, beer, bottles, corks, sardines, cement, glassware, carbide (transhipped from Swedish boats), currants and dried fruits, dates (picked up at Smyrna), candles in large quantities and paraffin wax in bulk, thousands of casks of lemons in brine for all ports in Australia—an endless list of things. We import between 4000 and 5000 pianos alone from Germany every year.

And the exports to Germany? Concentrates in large quantities, wool, lead, copper, scrap-tin (to be made up into tin plates and other articles of commercial value), large quantities of copra and cocoanut oil, hardwood timber, hides, skins, etc. No wheat, and no meat—not yet.

The Oceanic Company's Sonoma, from San Francisco, the Union Company's Niagara, from Vancouver, are ploughing their way through the ocean, bound for Sydney. A ship of the White Star line, with American goods transhipped at Liverpool, is racing towards Sydney. What is America sending us? Truly a wonderful assortment of goods. Sewing machines and cash registers, ruberoid roofing, tinned fruits, hickory spokes and shafts, motor cars, oil engines, refrigerating machinery, weighing machines, tools of trade, agricultural machinery, lubricating oil, traction engines, pianos and organs, salmon, barrels of plaster, bundles of galvanised wire (chiefly for making nails), lawn mowers, glassware, barb wire, resin, shade rollers, chairs (in pieces), potted meats, tinned fuits, and prepared foods. And then the half has not been told. We get practically all of our printing paper and ink from the United States. Tobacco is one of the greatest lines of all. Edison's phonographs and records come in huge quantities.

If it is chiefly wool that America buys from us, that is by no means all that she takes. And we are now opening up a trade with her in meat and fruit. With the opening of the Panama Canal and the comprehensive exhibit Australia is sending to the San Francisco Exposition to mark the event, a great expansion of our trade with America is certain.

THE GREAT TERMINAL PORT.

We have referred only to a few of the countries with which we are trading. In the East our trade is growing largely. Elsewhere it continues to grow. If we have lost much of our coal trade, as the result of strikes and the consequent inability to guarantee prompt delivery, we have made up for it in other respects. We have our Government agents abroad, and we send out private emissaries to open up new trade avenues. In a word, Sydney is bounding ahead as one of the greatest trading centres of the world.

But Sydney is not only concerned with the trade of foreign countries. It is the great trade centre of the Commonwealth, and most of the trade New Zealand does with Australia is done through Sydney. Moreover, the transhipment that goes on in Sydney Harbour is of huge proportions, for this is the great terminal port of the Pacific.

NEW STAMPS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Immediate action is to be taken to print continuously the new King's Head penny stamps, which are to take the place of the Kangaroo issue. The secretary to the Treasurer, Mr. G. T. Allen, stated to-day that the die working plates had arrived, and everything was in readiness to go ahead and turn out the 400,000,000 a year which would be required to fill the normal demand.

The Federal Treasurer and authorities have not been satisfied with the designs of the Commonwealth ten-pound notes, and instructions have been issued to the Federal Printer to prepare a new design, distinctly different from the notes of other denominations.

IRELAND.

ULSTER PROBLEM.

NEW SCHEME.

BY LORD MACDONNELL.

LONDON, July 7.

Possibly, with the approval of the Government, Lord Macdonnell (Liberal), formerly Permanent Under-Secretary for Ireland, has drafted a scheme of Home Rule within Home Rule, which virtually amounts to a new bill, in substitution for the amending Home Rule Bill. It provides for an Ulster Council, to be elected on a proportional representation basis, to control education and the services administered by the Irish Local Government Board and the Department of Agriculture. The scheme provides that the Council may be abolished by a poll of the Ulster electorates after the expiry of five years.

CONSTITUTIONAL RELATIONS COMMISSION.

Lord Dunraven gave notice of a motion in the House of Lords last night to suspend Home Rule until the proposed commission reports on the constitutional relations of the component parts of the Kingdom.

MUNITIONS FOR ULSTER.

A quantity of ammunition and forty Colt machine guns of the latest pattern, costing £100 each, have been landed on the coast of County Down for the Ulster volunteers.

THE EMPRESS OF IRELAND.

END OF INQUIRY.

JUDGMENT ON SATURDAY.

MONTREAL, July 7.

The judgment of the commission which inquired into the loss of the Empress of Ireland is expected to be delivered on Saturday.

The collier Storstad, which collided with the Empress of Ireland, has been sold, under an order of the Admiralty Court, the price paid being £35,000. The purchasers were the original owners.

The Storstad, which is held as security for damages that may be awarded in an action brought at the instance of the Canadian Pacific Company, will be released when the purchase money is paid.

ASIATIC IMMIGRANTS.

CANADIAN CASE.

HINDUS ABANDON ATTEMPT.

VANCOUVER, July 8.

The Hindus aboard the Komagata Maru have announced the abandonment of their attempt to enter Canada.

They assert that they are without sufficient funds to enable them to return to the Orient, and are asking the Dominion Government to make the necessary financial arrangements for them to be taken home.

AIRCRAFT IN WAR.

BRITISH DEFENCES.

LONDON, July 7.

A series of towers armed with quick-firers for defence against attacks by aircraft are being erected around Portsmouth Harbour and elsewhere round the coast.

NEW ZEALAND TRADE.

GERMAN COMPETITION.

LONDON, July 7.

The "Financial Times" says:—"Though the determination of German shipping lines to secure a larger share of the trade of New Zealand naturally raises an outcry in Great Britain, antipodean shippers complain that British shipping lines have inadequately studied their convenience, especially in regard to ports of call. The English companies have nothing to fear if they study the interests of their New Zealand customers."

CLOSE DIVISION.

IN HOUSE OF COMMONS.

MAJORITY OF 23.

LONDON, July 7.

In the House of Commons the Prime Minister proposed a resolution limiting the time for the consideration of the Finance Bill.

He claimed that the Government had not been niggardly in the matter of time allotted to the discussion of measures.

Mr. A. J. Balfour (Unionist) declared that the blame for the congestion of business in the House lay with the Government, and he called upon it to devise a less ruthless remedy than the guillotine.

Mr. T. Healy (Nationalist) declared that, the Budget having reached £200,000,000, the Government desired to throttle the House of Commons.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Bonar Law, moved a dissenting amendment, which was defeated by a majority of only 23, the division being:—

FOR THE AMENDMENT 246
AGAINST 269

The division is not generally regarded as a snap one, but the evenness of the figures is ascribed to the Liberals forming the "halt cave" and "law and order" group, who have been active since the Ulster gun-running incident.

Twenty-two Liberals deliberately abstained from voting, and the Independent Nationalists voted with the Opposition.

ARSENAL STRIKE.

A COURT OF INQUIRY.

THE MEN RESUME.

LONDON, July 8.

In the House of Commons last night the Prime Minister announced that a court, comprising five persons, with Sir G. R. Askwith (Chief Industrial Commissioner) as chairman, was inquiring into the strike at Woolwich arsenal. He added that there was no objection to Entwistle, the man whose dismissal caused the strike, resuming work pending the result of the inquiry.

Later in the evening it was announced that the strike had ended, the men having consented to return to work while the inquiry was in progress.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

"NO RIVAL BROOKED."

LONDON, July 8.

In addressing a meeting of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, Mrs. Pethick Lawrence yesterday explained that she left the Women's Social and Political Union because Mrs. Pankhurst could not brook a rival. She added that the union had completely altered its plans during the absence of herself and her husband in America, and had found it necessary, in view of the militant campaign, to invest its contol and finance in the hands of a sole leader, directing the movement from Paris.

GRANVILLE DREW'S CASE.

Granville Drew, who was committed for trial on May 19 for having published an article in the "Suffragette," the official organ of the Women's Social and Political Union, on January 2, inciting to malicious damage of property, was tried yesterday and found guilty, but sentence was deferred.

The evidence showed that 4000 letters had been damaged in 11 months by pillar-box outrages.

THE RECORD BATTLESHIP.

WHO IS SHE FOR?

LONDON, July 8.

The most powerful battleship in the world is being built at Walker, on the Tyne, for an unnamed foreign nation.

The vessel will be 620 feet long and 94 feet wide, with a tonnage of 30,500. She will carry eight 15-inch, fourteen 6-inch, and ten 4-inch guns, and two torpedo tubes, while her armour will be 13½ inches thick.

A GERMAN RECORD.

BERLIN, July 8.

The "Tagliche Rundschau" states that the engines of the new battle-cruiser Seydlitz will be capable of developing 89,738 propeller horse-power, which will be a world's record.

ALBANIA.

VIENNA, July 8.

The "Neue Freie Presse" states that negotiations with the rebels before Durazzo have been resumed, and a ten days' armistice has been arranged.

BRITISH TRADE RETURNS.

LONDON, July 7.

The returns of the Board of Trade for June show that the value of imports decreased by £37,477, exports by £2,963,592, and re-exports increased by £212,317, compared with June, 1913.

SOUTH AFRICAN POLITICS.

CAPETOWN, July 8.

Parliament was prorogued yesterday.

The bill providing for the settlement of industrial disputes, and the management of trade unions, was passed by the House of Assembly, but was blocked in the Senate, and thus prevented from becoming law.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, July 8.

The King and Queen have visited Edinburgh, and are now in Glasgow. Their Majesties received a great welcome at each place.

Mr. J. Austin Chamberlain (Unionist) has resigned his seat for Worcestershire East in the House of Commons, and will contest West Birmingham, rendered vacant by the death of his father, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain.

In the House of Commons last night, Mr. Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, stated, in reply to a question from Mr. L. Ginnell (Nationalist), that there was no reason to believe that any natives of Ocean Island had died of starvation, had been imprisoned for theft, or had been deprived of their lands, or flogged for the non-payment of taxes.

The House of Lords last night rejected the Council of India Bill by 96 votes to 38. The bill was designed to reorganise the council at Whitehall, and make a statutory obligation to appoint two Indian members. The chief objection to the measure was grounded on the contention that to change the council from an advisory to an administrative body would bestow an autocratic power on the Secretary of State for India.

The shareholders in the Fremantle Trading Company have agreed to the capital being increased to £75,000, by the creation of 25,000 preference £1 shares.

DAVIS CUP PRELIMINARY.

LONDON, July 7.

The preliminary round of matches in the Davis Cup contests was commenced to-day at Folkestone, when the British Isles and Belgians met, with the following results:—

T. M. Mavrogordato (British Isles) defeated P. De Borman (Belgium), 6-1, 6-3, 8-6.

J. C. Parke (British Isles) defeated A. G. Watson, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

ENGLISH ROWING.

QUESTION OF IMPROVEMENT.

LONDON, July 7.

The "Sportsman," commenting on the rowing of the English crews at the Henley regatta, says:—"The results show that something is lacking in the method of English rowing. The crews do not train sufficiently, and their style of rowing apparently can be improved.

"English oarsmen," the paper declares, "swing too far back; they neglect their hands and wrists, and their recovery is unsteady."

SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

PADDON AGAIN TRAINING.

LONDON, July 7.

Paddon, although wearing a bandage on his right wrist, has completely recovered from his accident, and he is now sculling twice daily, being massaged after each outing. He has maintained condition by using the running track, and is now within 7lb of his rowing weight.

English critics consider that he is rowing with better length than any colonial who has met Barry on the Thames.

Barry's weight is 11st 13lb.

CRICKET.

COUNTY MATCHES.

LONDON, July 7.

Yorkshire, playing Kent, scored 101 and 100, Blythe in the second innings securing eight wickets for 55 runs.

Kent responded with 126, and in the second innings lost five wickets for 77 runs, thus winning by five wickets.

OXFORD V. CAMBRIDGE.

The match between Oxford and Cambridge was continued at Lord's to-day. The Cambridge innings concluded for 225, and Oxford, who scored 239 in their first innings, lost five wickets for 166 in their second.

GOLF.

FRENCH OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP.

WON BY EDGAR.

PARIS, July 7.

The French open championship was concluded to-day at Le Touquet, when J. D. Edgar (Northumberland) won, with a score of 288.

Harry Vardon, the English open champion, was second, with 294, and Edward Ray third, with 295.

H. D. Gillies (N.Z.), who finished fifth, with a score of 300, won President Poincare's special prize for the best amateur score.

CAPTAIN COOK.

STATUE IN LONDON.

CEREMONY OF UNVEILING.

LONDON, July 7.

The ceremony of unveiling Sir Thomas Brock's statue of Captain Cook, which has been placed in the Mall, took place to-day, Mr. Herbert Samuel (president of the Local Government Board) presiding.

Among those present were Prince Louis of Battenberg, Mr. Winston Churchill (First Lord of the Admiralty), Sir George Reid (High Commissioner for Australia), Mr. Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand), Sir J. A. Symon, Sir John Madden, the Agents-General for the Australian States, Mrs. Goodenough, Mr. A. C. Carmichael (Minister for Education in New South Wales), Mr. Percy Hunter (representing Sir Joseph Carruthers), and Captain Rushall's party of Victorian cadets.

Mr. Mackenzie, in the course of an address, said that Mount Cook, the loftiest peak in New Zealand, was an everlasting memorial of the work of Captain Cook. The external trade of New Zealand was now equal to the total import and export trade of Great Britain, Germany, and France at the time Cook visited New Zealand.

Sir George Reid emphasised Australia's debt to the distinguished navigator.

AUSTRIA AND SERVIA.

BOSNIAN AGITATION.

TROOPS ON THE FRONTIER.

VIENNA, July 8.

There was a prolonged sitting of the Ministeria. Council yesterday, when measures to uproot the Servian agitation in Bosnia were discussed.

Count Berchtold, Minister for Foreign Affairs, has now gone to Ische to submit the decision arrived at to the Emperor Francis Joseph.

A PATHETIC CASE.

DEMENTED AUSTRALIAN WOMAN.

LONDON, July 7.

Mr. Atchley, a solicitor, representing the owners of certain house property in the St. George's district, upon which closing orders had been made, has informed the Bristol Health Committee that one-third of the property belonged to an Australian woman.

This woman reached England last week, and she began making remarkable appeals to the police, and then disappeared. Fruitless efforts to trace her were made all over the country, until it was found she was the woman who was arrested a few days ago at the main entrance to Buckingham Palace, with two revolvers in her possession.

The woman has since been placed in an asylum.

It was previously cabled that the arrested woman was an Australian suffering from hallucinations. She stated that she did not wish to harm the King, but wanted to sell his Majesty some houses as an investment.

BATTLESHIP V. SUBMARINE.

NAVAL ARCHITECT'S VIEWS.

LONDON, July 8.

At the Naval Architects' Congress at Newcastle yesterday, Professor Biles discussed the question of battleships versus submarines.

He declared that the former did not possess effective defence against an under-water attack, and their defence could only be met by the destruction of submarines by submarines or by the armour-plating of the bottoms of the battleships. The latter alternative justified serious consideration, though it would mean a reduction of two knots in speed.

Lord Bristol stated that it almost became the duty of the Admiralty to ascertain whether such protection would be effective.

BOORABIL.

ROYAL COMMISSION ISSUED.

At a special meeting of the State Executive Council yesterday morning, Mr. Justice Pring was appointed a Royal Commission to inquire into the Boorabil land transaction. His Honor is directed to inquire into—

(1) The matter of the purchase by the Government of the Boorabil Estate and the adjoining improvement leases, being the land described in the schedule to an agreement, dated October 27, 1913, and made between James Mansfield Niall, Richard Gardiner Casey, and Alexander Eric Mechen, of the first part, his Excellency the Governor of the second part, and the Hon. John Louis Trefle, Secretary for Lands, of the third part.

(2) The administration of the Department of Lands in connection with the land purchase.

(3) In connection with the aforesaid matters, to inquire whether on the part of anyone there has been any interference or attempt at interference with the purity of Parliament or departmental action.

(4) And, in so far as he may deem it essential, to inquire generally into the said matters having regard to any public interest involved, and the conduct of any official or person connected therewith, such Commissioner to furnish his report within a period of two months.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

TO SIT IN PARLIAMENT.

RESOLUTION BY LIBERALS.

After an interesting and animated debate the Liberal Association yesterday decided, by a good majority that women should be eligible for parliamentary honours.

Mr. John Garland, M.L.C., presided, and cheers by the delegates heralded the motion by Mrs. Hay (Rose Bay), seconded by Mrs. Kennard (council), that the Constitution be so amended as to allow of female representation in Parliament, with all the privileges of citizenship. The seconder of the motion contended that the Liberal men had not always educated their women folk in politcs, yet 64 per cent. of the women voted at the last election, against 72 per cent. of the men.

Mrs. Wise (council) held that the principle was right, and in the interests of the home and the rising generation, women should no longer be denied the right to make the laws. The reform was inevitable, to put an end to one sided Government.

Mrs. Falconer (Bexley) won chers by exclaiming, "Don't drag us further into public life. Let us keep to our babies and our homes. Let us help you with advice and counsel. Give us equal rights rights of citizenship, and we will be satisfied to help you all we can, without entering Parliament.

Miss Saunders (Singleton) believed in the principle, but thought the time was not yet ripe for women in parliament.

Mr. T. Jessep pleaded with the men for justice for the women, and Mr. Weaver (Dubbo) pointed out the inconsistency of men who wanted the votes of women, but denied the full rights of citizenship. Women provided the imagination to inspire politics. The Liberals should have done with the mark-time policy. Women would be far better than some of the weird creatures now in parliament. Liberalism meant freedom and justice to all, and not to one sex. (Applause.)

Mrs. Och (Crow's Nest) thought it unfair to drag women into parliament. The homes would be neglected more than at present. The good sense of the conference should veto the proposal. (Applause.)

Mr. Kelk (Tarana) said it was an abstract question, and should be affirmed. Why should not women woo us as electors. (Laughter.)

Mr. Florance: I propose that the chairman do now pop the question. (Laughter.)

Mr. Stanley (Marrickville) said that the Liberals could not turn down the proposal, and so be out of tune with the progressive movements of the world.

Mr. S. J. Law (Balmain) pointed out that several women had tried for Federal seats, and had been turned down. But having given them the vote the natural sequence was the right to enter parliament.

Mr. John Garland said that Liberals should always vote in the direction of freedom.

Mrs. Hay replied to what she termed the few "renegades" who opposed the reform, and on the vote being put the proposal was affirmed amid loud applause.

SIR GEORGE REID.

ANNUAL REPORT.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

From the High Commissioner in London, Sir George Reid, the Minister for External Affairs, Mr. Glynn, has received his fourth annual report, which, although dated April 30, only covers the period 12 months ended December 31, 1913.

Sir George Reid mentions that he attended the British-American Peace Conference at New York, and expresses the opinion that the future holds no more vital interest to Australia in foreign affairs than her continued friendship with the people of the United States. Visits were paid by the High Commissioner during the year to Vienna, Berlin, and Paris. In his opinion Austria is far more favourable to the introduction of Australian meat than Hungary, whilst in Berlin and Germany, generally, the prospects for Australian trade are far more favourable than in Austria.

Referring to immigration, there has, according to Sir George Reid, been considerable difficulty in securing suitable immigrants. Whilst 18 months ago advertisement cost was low, and results were satisfactory, to-day, although more money was spent in advertising, suitable immigrants could not be attracted in sufficient numbers. One of the reasons for this was that industrial conditions in Great Britain had improved. Attention must, in Sir George Reid's opinion, be turned to other channels, particularly to the immigration of boys, and also to immigration from other parts of Europe. It will be necessary to spend more money in advertising, to provide the very large expenditure necessary towards advancing the whole of the passage money for farmers and farm workers, to enter upon a campaign for suitable lads, and to recruit in Norway, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Northern Italy, and Holland.

THE ENGINEERS.

DISPUTES UNSETTLED.

The strike of engineers and blacksmiths at the engineering establishment of Mr. James Budge, Harris-street, Pyrmont, remained unsettled yesterday, as also did the strike at the Metropolitan Engineering Company's works at Glenmore-road, Woollahra.

Representatives of the executive of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers made an attempt to interview Mr. Budge yesterday morning, but he declined to see them. Mr. H. H. Newham, the union secretary, stated in the afternoon that there would be no resumption on the part of the engineers until this employer was prepared to discuss the position. He also said that there were no present indications of a settlement at the Woollahra works. Unsatisfactory reports had, he said, been made in regard to the sugar works at Pyrmont, and the Shaw Wireless Station at Randwick. The executive would decide to-day what would be done next.

BOLTING TRAIN.

CRASHES INTO DEAD END.

THREE MEN INJURED.

THRILLING ESCAPE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

A serious railway accident and one which might easily have been attended with great loss of life occurred at Sydenham railway station shortly before 7 o'clock this morning.

As a result three railway employees were more or less seriously injured. Their names and the nature of their injuries are:—

DONALD McDONALD, carpenter, spinal injury, abrasions, and shock.

MICHAEL FLAHERTY, labourer, abrasions and shock.

HENRY RAE, cuts about head, and shock.

The three men were removed to Kyneton Hospital. They occupied a sleeping van which was standing in the dead-end siding of Sydenham station, and a portion of a goods train "bolted" and crashed into the van, completely wrecking it. The force of the impact was such that the van, the dead-end buffers, and a piece of the railway line, were carried about 20 yards from the terminus.

The bolting train, which consisted of 16 loaded trucks and guard's van, was portion of a goods train which runs from Spencer-street to Woodend. It was standing on the down line at Diggers' Rest station, when it crept away, and, gathering momentum on a favourable gradient, with a strong north-westerly gale behind it, raced towards Sydenham. Here it was turned into the siding to avoid collision with the 6.20 a.m. Bendigo passenger train, which was on the line between St. Albans and Sydenham. The unfortunate workmen were trapped before any warning could be given.

The outstanding feature of the occurrence, apart from the injuries to the men, was the narrow escape of the Bendigo train, which was running a little behind time. The Bendigo train was due to pass through Sydenham at 6.55, and the runaway trucks smashed into the siding at 6.57. Had the passenger train been up to its scheduled time it must have met the runaway somewhere between Sydenham and Diggers' Rest, and nothing could have saved it. In the words of the stationmaster at Sydenham, "The tragedy of Sunshine would have been a fool to it, but for the providential late running of the train, and a timely call of danger from the signalman at Diggers' Rest."

COAL STRIKE.

COURT CASE.

DEFERRING PROSECUTIONS.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

Another postponement of the prosecution of about 800 miners for an alleged breach of the Arbitration Act was granted at the Industrial Court by Judge Scholes. Mr. MacLaurin, instructed by Mr. d'Apice, appeared for the Minister for Labour and Industry, who prosecuted; and Mr. Reid for defendants.

At the commencement of proceedings Mr. Reid said he had been instructed to ask for a further adjournment of 14 days. He understood there was a possibility of a settlement being arrived at. He understood the Crown did not oppose the application.

Mr. MacLaurin: That is so. I was instructed not to oppose any application for an adjournment. In fact, I was instructed to consent.

Judge Scholes: Well, I suppose I am powerless.

Lists of the names of the employees of Stanford Merthyr, Hebburn, Whitburn, and Pelaw Main collieries who had been served with summonses were given to his Honor, who remarked that he would have to take their pleas. Mr. Reid pleaded not guilty on behalf of defendants.

Judge Scholes: Well, I suppose I am bound to accede to the request. I do it because I must. I think you had better take an adjournment for a week, and then you can apply for a further adjournment at Sydney. I have to be safe as far as I am concerned. My commission only lasts another week from to-morrow, and I think I ought to be in a position to deal with this, otherwise the cases might go to the board. Perhaps that is what you wish.

Mr. Reid: I am only carrying out my instructions.

Judge Scholes: I know. It is the instructions I am worrying about.

The hearing of the cases was postponed till Tuesday next.

PARTIES CONFER.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SETTLEMENT?

Representatives of the Northern Colliery Employers' Association (Messrs. John Brown and Clark) and the employees' federation (Messrs. Watson and Lewis) met Mr. Holme (Under Secretary for Labour and Industry) in conference yesterday, and discussed the position in the Maitland coalfields in connection with the afternoon shift.

A suggestion was made that the companies should receive separate deputations from the various lodges, and that the trouble at each mine should be dealt with as local conditions warranted. This was acceptable to the parties, but the miners' representatives made a stipulation that should any agreements be arrived at they should be submitted to the miners' delegate board for ratification or otherwise.

The time for which the Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the afternoon shift was extended will expire on Saturday next, and there is no likelihood of a further extension being granted.

STATE ABATTOIRS.

CONSUMERS SUFFER.

AN INCREASE OF NEARLY £400,000.

The intention of the Government to deal at the abattoirs with all by-products, with the exception of hides and sheepskins, was described by Mr. Philip Oakden, president of the Pastoralists' Union, at the annual meeting last night, as a most undesirable and prejudicial interference with private enterprise, and calculated to affect injuriously the purchasing by the fat stock buyers.

On the vital question of cost, the Minister had spoken appreciatively of the Adelaide abattoirs, which had recently been visited by the Meat Board, and expressed the belief that the extra cost of Government handling in Sydney would not exceed ⅛d per lb. This increase might seem a very small matter to Mr. Flowers, but was likely to be differently viewed by those who would have to bear it, whether the producers or the consumers.

Whoever had to pay the difference in connection with the local trade, it was pretty certain that in the export trade it would have to be borne by the grower in the shape of reduced prices, as the price of meat in that case was decided by world-wide competition, and the Australian exporter was already handicapped by having to pay a higher freight than the exporter in the Argentine Republic, his chief competitor.

It was reported that the Adelaide charge for killing was 10s 6½d per head in the case of cattle, as against 7s per head in Sydney, and 2s 1½d per head for sheep as against 1s.

Assuming that, as Mr. Flowers seemed to anticipate, the abattoirs here would be worked at the same expense, the extra cost on the number of stock killed last year in Sydney would amount to over £395,000.

TURF DISPUTE.

ASSOCIATED CLUBS V. THE OWNERS.

ACTION IN PARLIAMENT.

The trouble with the Associated Racing Clubs was touched upon by Mr. Thrower in the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon.

He gave notice of a motion for the appointment of a select committee to inquire into, and report upon matters relating to the associated racing clubs in the metropolitan area.

Later on he asked the Chief Secretary, Mr. Cann—"(1) Is he aware that there is in existence in the metropolitan area a body known as the Associated Pony and Galloway Clubs' Association, which controls certain racecourses working under licenses issued from the Chief Secretary's office?

"(2) Is he aware that that body controls licenses issued to jockeys?

"(3) Is he aware that that body is holding a race meeting to-day, and that a number of jockeys who have had their licenses suspended are riding at it?

"(4) Will he cause the police to make a report on the matter, so that the interests of the public can be safeguarded?"

Mr. Cann said he was not aware of the position of affairs alluded to by Mr. Thrower, but if supplied with the facts he would have an inquiry set on foot.

RACECOURSE SCENES.

FORTY POLICEMEN ON DUTY.

There was a fairly large muster of racegoers yesterday at the Victoria Park pony meeting. A good many went out anticipating that there would be a demonstration of some kind or other in connection with the trouble between the pony owners and jockeys on the one side and the Associated Racing Clubs on the other.

The effect of the boycott was evident by the fact that out of 171 entries in the race book all but 44 were scratched. Seven ponies and six jockeys came from Victoria, and saved the situation. Fearing molestation, the jockeys left the Melbourne express at Strathfield, and came to the racecourse by motor car.

Evidently the management thought that trouble was likely, for there was a strong posse of police in and outside the grounds Sub-Inspector Davis was in charge. Under him were 30 foot police, four detectives, and two plain-clothes constables. Senior-Sergeant Mills was in charge of 10 mounted armed men, who paraded outside the racing enclosure.

The programme was carried through without a sign of disturbance in the paddock. When it was seen by the notice-board that the scratchings were wholesale, a cheer of approval was heard.

The owners and trainers and the prominent jockeys did not enter the grounds. They had, however, two representatives, who kept a watchful eye on what was transpiring.

On the outside, near the six furlongs post, a crowd of about 1500, chiefly owners, trainers, jockeys, and their sympathisers, had a fair view of the track. In one of the races crackers and a few stones were thrown over the fence near the running horses. At this spot some of the boys found an outlet for their exuberant spirits by improvising hurdle races on the "outer." Planks resting on bricks, or held by hand, formed the hurdles. Unfortunately one of the riders, son of a prominent owner, fell and fractured his collarbone.

When the racing was over some of the boys who had been riding peered over the top of the tall fence, fearing to go outside. The mounted police then came to the exit gate, and the boys, some on foot and some mounted, came out. They were met by about a score or so of lads, said to be some of the jockeys on strike. The latter cantered up and down, and at times collided with the troopers' big horses. Presently W. Thompson came out on Fair Nell, his mount in the Novice Handicap. He got near Dowling-street, about 300 yards from the exit gate, when a dozen lads on horses pursued him. An exiting race was then witnessed by 1000 spectators. Thompson, in order to escape, had to sit down and "ride" Fair Nell at top speed on the metalled road.

More trouble might have occurred but for the action of one of the detectives, who induced the lads to stop their horse-play and disperse.

ONTONG JAVA.

ALLEGED PERSECUTION OF CHRISTIANS.

MISSIONARY'S COMPLAINT.

The Rev. J. F. Goldie, chairman of Methodist Missions in the Solomon Islands, and Ontong Java, stated that, when on his regular visit to the outlying mission stations, he heard rumours of the persecution of the mission converts at Lua Niua—the southern kingdom of Ontong Java, and proceeded there in the mission schooner Tandanya. The boat's crew, on approaching the beach, was met with demonstrations of antagonism by hundreds of natives, who waded into the water, wielding tomahawks, knives, and other weapons. The crew returned to the schooner. A second attempt to land was made, and Mr. Goldie went in the boat. Again the opposition was renewed, and threats uttered. The missionary, however, went ashore. The natives surrounded him with uplifted weapons, and then shadowed him during his stay of about an hour at Lua Niua. At the mission-house he was able to confirm the reports of persecution. He discovered that mission girls had been cruelly treated; that the property of the converts was being devastated—even their cocoanut trees had been cut down, and food supplies sent by the Christian King of Pelau, for the relief of the sufferers, had been intercepted by their enemies.

On returning to the boat, Mr. Goldie learned that certain of the persecuted mission men desired to leave the scene of their troubles, and lay a complaint before the Commissioner, Mr. C. M. Woodford, C.M.G. When Mr. Goldie reached Giso the following complaints were laid before the Commissioner:—(1) The cutting-down of the Christian natives' trees if they refused to give up Christianity; (2) the forcible seizure of the sister of one of the complainants (a Christian girl), and compelling her to live with a certain trader; (3) the theft, by Kobea (the King of Lua Niua) of two boatloads of provisions sent by Koke, the King of Pelau, to the Lua Niua Christians, whom Kobea wished to starve into submission; (4) entering the mission-house by force, and tearing the clothing off the mission girls; (5) inciting the natives to violence against Mr. Goldie, personally, on the part of a trader.

The Commissioner gave the complainants a sympathetic hearing, and definitely promised that he would name a date on which to meet at Lua Niua and investigate them.

MEMBER SUSPENDED.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Wednesday.

The House of Representatives yesterday afternoon, on Mr. Massey's motion, suspended Mr. John Payne for the remainder of the sitting. Mr. Payne refused to withdraw the words which caused trouble on Friday night, though he declared they had no reference to Mr. Massey personally, when he said, "He sits there by bribery and corruption."

UMPIRE ASSAULTED.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The adjourned case of James Elder, who was charged at Hawthorn Court on June 30 with having assaulted Charles Pritchard Field, umpire in the football match played between Port Melbourne and Hawthorn on June 20, was concluded yesterday.

A fine of £5, in default one month's imprisonment, was imposed.

SEA TRAGEDY.

CHIEF STEWARD DISAPPEARS

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

A tragedy occurred on board the German steamer Oberhausen during her passage from Fremantle to Port Adelaide.

Hugo Stadler, chief steward, was, it is alleged, murdered by a man, who subsequently threw him overboard.

The police have been unofficially informed of the occurrence, but the tragedy, having taken place on a foreign vessel, and on the high seas, they are powerless to take any action.

On arrival of the Oberhausen at Port Adelaide this morning the commander, Captain J. Meier, reported the matter to the German Consul, Mr. H. E. C. Muecke. The crime was committed on Saturday night at 11.30, the day after the Oberhausen left Fremantle. There had been some disagreement regarding wages, and when the chief steward entered the room he was struck with a beer bottle, and subsequently thrown overboard.

It was not until Monday, or two days after the crime, that anything was suspected on board. The chief steward was missed on Sunday morning, and a rigid search failed to elicit his whereabouts. His disappearance was ascribed to one of those unaccountable incidents which occur occasionally at sea.

Subsequently a man was arrested and placed in irons. Then, it is alleged, he stated that the chief steward had asked him for the return of a loan of £2, and demanded its payment on the arrival of the steamer at Port Adelaide. Further, he said he struck Stadler with a bottle of beer and felled him.

The report of the occurrence, forwarded by Captain Meier, states that on July 6, the second officer, Stoll, intimated to him, the captain, that the first steward, Stadler, was missing. He at once ordered a thorough search of the ship, slowed the vessel, turned about, and for some time returned over the course, but no signs of the missing steward could be found. During the search of the ship, the first officer observed bloodstains in the companion way, and on the floor of the cabin adjoining. The cabin was locked and sealed in order that the police here might examine it on the vessel's arrival. It is proposed to send the arrested man to Germany on the N.D.L. steamer Zieten, which leaves Port Adelaide next Tuesday.

MEAT WORKS.

SITE CHOSEN AT BRISBANE.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

A meat company, which is said to be one of the large companies of America, has secured a piece of ground near the premises of Borthwick and Co., on the south bank of Brisbane River, for the purpose of erecting meat works. The Government has been approached by the firm, it is understood, with reference to the lease of a river frontage on which to erect the necessary wharfs, and a visit was paid to-day by the Treasurer and some of his officers to make an inspection of the ground.

DEBENTURE ISSUE.

B.H. PROPRIETARY.

MELBOURNE STOCK EXCHANGE ANNOYED.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

In connection with the issue of £600,000 worth of debentures by the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, the committee of the Melbourne Stock Exchange held a special meeting to-day, to consider the conditions of the prospectus, and unanimously adopted the following motion:—"Resolved that consent cannot be given to members to tender or apply for the Broken Hill Proprietary Company's issue of debentures, as the conditions of the prospectus do not comply with the conditions required by the Stock Exchange."

The chairman (Mr. W. J. Roberts) said the committee considered that in two important particulars the prospectus did not comply with their conditions. The Sydney and Adelaide exchanges had been advised of the resolution.

It is understood that action was taken because no provision is made for payment of commission to members of the Stock Exchange, other than underwriters, and also because the prospectus states that the directors will only proceed to allotment upon the whole of the issue being subscribed.

NO TROUBLE LOCALLY.

On making inquiries last night from several members of the Sydney Stock Exchange, it was learned that the committee of that body is now making inquiries into the matter, in accordance with the terms of rule 71, which requires the committee to be satisfied on certain points before members will be granted permission to apply for debentures, etc. It was stated by several members that they did not think any trouble would arise in Sydney over the matter.

One member maintained that the trouble in Melbourne arose because the Melbourne Stock Exchange members were annoyed at the fact that whilst the underwriters of Sydney were allocated £275,000 worth of debentures, the Melbourne underwriters got only £75,000 worth.

"As a matter of fact," said one member, "the Melbourne Stock Exchange wanted to get the whole of the underwriting of the £600,000, and the directors of the B.H. Proprietary at once communicated with the Sydney Stock Exchange, which agreed to the terms offered. The Melbourne Stock Exchange committee has found it had been too greedy, and it is now beginning to cry out."

A JUDGE ATTACKED.

FEDERAL AWARDS.

"EXPEDIENCY V. EQUITY."

In his presidential address before the Pastoralists' Union last night, Mr. Philip Oakden, referring to Mr. Justice Higgins, of the Federal Arbitration Court, said "that he has been zealous and painstaking in his discharge of the onerous and somewhat thankless duties of his high office is admitted, but it is deplorable that he should have shaken the confidence of the community in his impartiality by the ill-advised remarks that he has made from time to time. We have become so used to his Honor's startling utterances that we now hardly expect to be surprised by anything that he may say; but one of his most recent statements must, I am sure, have come as a shock to all who have been accustomed to attribute absolute fairness to British Courts of Justice. In the waterside workers' case, when asked whether a certain proposal was fair, he replied, 'The supreme thing is to get the work carried on without friction. That transcends all the rest.'

"The policy of yielding everything to secure peace," said Mr. Oakden, "is one which breeds ever larger demands, and must end in disaster.

"With awards based on this principle, it is no wonder that his Honor was able to say in his farewell words to the Bar prior to his departure that 'it was satisfactory to know that the "Commonwealth Court's" awards had never been flouted by the employees.

"But how," Mr. Oakden asked, "can his Honor's declaration of such a guiding principle fail to cause the employers of the country to view his handling of industrial affairs not only with suspicion and distrust, but also with grave apprehension.

CENSURE.

MR. WADE'S ATTACK

IN THE ASSEMBLY.

THE MEAGHER EPISODE.

LAND AGENCIES.

The debate on the Address in Reply in the Legislative Assembly last night practically resolved itself into a duel between the Premier and the leader of the Opposition. Mr. Wade's criticism of the Government programme, as outlined in his Excellency's speech, was particularly searching, and elicited much cheering from the Opposition benches, and Mr. Holman's reply, which was marked by characteristic spirit, was in its turn punctuated by the applause of the Ministerial supporters.

The leader of the Opposition concluded his speech by moving what will amount, if carried, to a vote of censure on the Government. He moved for an amendment of the Address in Reply, setting out that the charges made by Mr. Holman against Mr. Meagher should be either inquired into by a Royal Commission or withdrawn by the Premier as baseless.

Mr. Wade, who was received with loud Opposition cheers as he rose to speak, continued the debate on the Address in Reply, describing the programme of the Government as one absolutely incapable of fulfilment within the life of an ordinary Parliament, and merely intended to catch votes and captivate the voters. He was inclined to think it was never intended to be fulfilled, and that if these measures all became law disappointment rather than contentment would reign in the Ministerial ranks. They seemed to have searched far and wide and high and low to gather from all parties and sections the views they might hold on public questions, and then ladle the mixture out to a public that was easily captivated. The casual observer who had read the Liberal platform in detail might well conclude that this programme was the product of an advanced Liberal of the present time. Many proposals were measures as promulgated by the Liberal party, and many were unknown to the Labour programme. One could see at once that the programme was intended to allay discontent, close up disunion in the ranks, and to make the party appear before the public as a party with one policy only, one purpose, and one common cause. The ancients divided the universe into four elements—earth, air, fire, and water, and now it appeared the Labour party was going to deal with the minerals under the earth, the creeping things on the earth, the birds of the air, and the fishes. (Laughter.) They would deal with fire by means of a State Fire Insurance Bill. They had catered for every species and genus known to zoology, and covered the welfare of human beings from the embryo stage to old age. In their anxious consideration for the welfare and comfort of mankind, they were even going to pass regulations dealing with insecticide. (Loud laughter.)

PURITY OF POLITICS.

While this programme showed wonderful research and whole-souled desire to cater for every section of thought and division of opinion, it was a remarkable fact that they had neither time nor place in it for the public honour and purity of politics. The country received in the course of the last six months two rude shocks, which aroused suspicion that public life was not as clean as it ought to be, and one would have thought, in view of the surrounding circumstances, that there would have been some indication of the course proposed to be adopted by Parliament through the Ministry to deal with this question, and to indicate what they proposed to lay down to cure these evils in the future. There was not one word about it, which, declared Mr. Wade, was eloquent in itself. One might well ask if they were indifferent to the public weal, or did they ignore it because they were afraid? The public were entitled to know why this one burning question was entirely ignored. (Opposition cheers.)

The salient feature of the Governor's Speech was not what the Government was prepared to do, but what they had left out, and Mr. Wade could understand also the indignation, disappointment, and resentment with regard to many democrats when the chief features of the Labour programme had been ignored. The Premier was entitled to sympathy in his position of having realised the impracticability of those wild-cat schemes that were still the stock-in-trade of young men on Labour platforms. Mr. Wade could understand the party being divided into two sections—a Liberalised section and a section dominated by the Labour conference.

LABOUR'S ESCAPE PIPE.

"In reply to this criticism," continued Mr. Wade, "we find the Labour Premier telling the public at large that the Labour conference is only the escape pipe of the movement through which waste steam escapes. Surely he cannot regard the utterances of certain of his followers in this House as waste steam? We can only come to this conclusion, that, with a taste of office, the high ideals of the movement crumble away. Here again, this high court of Parliament has laid down as one of the leading planks of the movement that the Legislative Council must be abolished, and the initiative and referendum established. In view of the dissatisfaction with the Government's nominees to the Council, the high court of the movement decided that in future gentlemen nominated to fill the vacancies in the other Chamber should receive its endorsement. It was through that we had the turmoil of last March. The caucus gave its endorsement to the Labour conference's view, and went further, and said that in future it would take its share in dealing nominations to the Council. The only person to question the attitude taken up by caucus, the conference and the Labour organ, is the Labour Premier himself. He has declared himself in emphatic terms. He says it will be gratifying to Mr. Meagher (the gentleman with whom he was conducting the controversy) to know that no appointments will be made to the Council while the resolution remains on the records of the Labour party.

THE UPPER HOUSE.

"Here then," said Mr. Wade, "we have a conflict between the leader of the party in the Parliament and the high court of Parliament outside, and what is the result to be? In the Governor's speech, there is not the slightest indication of an intention to abolish the Upper House. The only suggestion made in defence was a hint conveyed by the mover of the Address-in-Reply, who suggested that if things did not run smoothly and quietly, they would see that the will of the people prevailed. That is nothing new, for that principle has always applied. I only mention these items to show what I believe to be the Liberalising tendency in the Premier's mind. (Opposition cheers.) They are signs of discontent apparent to us outside, but how far-reaching they are inside we cannot say." (Opposition cheers.)

STATE IRONWORKS.

Mr. Wade then went on to deal with the Government attitude with regard to State ironworks and facilities granted for a huge concern to be established at Newcastle by the Broken Hill Proprietary Company. "In view of this action," he continued, "the farcical introduction of a second ironworks bill in 1914, two years later, is simply an attempt to throw dust into the eyes of their supporters. Once those works at Newcastle were sanctioned, a strong competitor against any State works is called into being, a competitor which can only exist upon contracts received from the Government. There is no doubt the reason why we hear so little now about the purchase of Hoskins's, and why the many questions asked regarding the negotiations remain unanswered.

INDUSTRIAL LAWS.

"Take the Arbitration Act," said Mr. Wade. "We were told that the only reason why it was not working properly was because of Liberal rule. I have gone to the trouble to obtain figures to show exactly what the result of Labour rule has been."

There were loud cheers from the Opposition ranks, and interjections from the Government benches when Mr. Wade proceeded to point out that during 1913 out of the 208 strikes that occurred in Australia 134 took place in New South Wales, while out of the total of 632,000 working days lost in the Commonwealth, 477,000 were lost by workers in the State. The amount of wages lost through strikes in

New South Wales was over £200,000, and yet they were told that, with Ministers sympathetic, there would be no more industrial turmoil, and nothing but peace and contentment and high wages and regular employment all the year round. Contrasted with the New South Wales record, there were only 29 strikes in Victoria.

"The point I want to make," said Mr. Wade, turning towards Ministerial members who were interjecting, "is that, while they endeavour to gull the public with the story that sympathy is the leading feature, the record to-day far exceeds any figures of ours, and, as far as we can see, the policy is really to encourage dislocation by want of a determination and courage in the administration of the department.

MORE TAXATION.

"In one thing they have succeeded," said Mr. Wade. "They have raised £2,000,000 more revenue than we raised. How have they done it? By imposing on the public the iron burden of taxation—(Opposition cheers)—to meet their extravagance and to wipe out shortages which should never have occurred in the State finances. They can boast of this. When we left office the taxation per head in the State was 12s 6d, and for the last year it was 31s 6d—by far and away the highest in Australia."

The cry of fixing prices Mr. Wade described as a fallacy, and he thought that, no matter what the caucus decided, they could not induce Mr. Holman to make that a part of his programme before the House. Dealing with the Department of Public Health, the leader of the Opposition said they were asked to believe that all these things were being done for the first time, and were the result of Labour talent and capacity. A search of the records of the department went to show that some of the proposals now being made were put forward four years ago, when the Liberals were in power.

HOSPITAL GRIEVANCES.

Mr. Wade criticised the Government for neglecting to provide public hospitals with needed assistance. A grant had been promised to the Women's Hospital, and though public subscriptions had been gathered on the strength of this, up to April or May of this year, the promise had not been redeemed. Was the promised subsidy paid to-day?

Mr. Holman: I cannot say off-hand. I believe so.

Mr. Wade added that before his Government left office increased accommodation was asked for by Sydney Hospital, and promised. That was nearly four years ago, and not one stroke of the pick had been made to relieve this condition. Money was spent by millions, but hospitals were left in want. At Sydney Hospital 120 patients were treated in the casualty room daily, and there were 110 out-patients, and the accommodation was absolutely cramped. He accused the Government of starving the hospitals, and using the money for vote-catching purposes, pointing out that in hospitals for insane there was an excess of 778 patients over the accommodation provided, the total accommodation being 5489, and the patients numbering 6257.

RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION.

They were now told, said Mr. Wade, that for two years all new railway works would be stopped for duplication, though a feature had been made of the railway construction policy.

Mr. Holman: I said one year.

Mr. Wade: The words of the report of your speech from Cootamundra said beyond all doubt two years. He added that this suspension of new works justified the Liberal comments during the last campaign, that the Labour party's rate of expenditure could not be maintained.

BOORABIL.

There are two points which I desire to emphasise, and they are important likewise from the Government's point of view, and that of the public's. Two things are essential if we are to have a self-respecting opinion formed of the administration in the future. We must have first of all proper electoral machinery, and then clean administration. The Government is under an obligation to maintain the highest possible standard of departmental administration, to maintain a high probity in public life, and to preserve the honour of members from suspicion by clearing up any accusation without delay. With regard to the question of administration, I desire to speak of it in quite an impersonal manner, irrespective of the merits of the case, and irrespective of those implicated. My only wish is to vindicate the honour of Parliament and the purity of public life. I admit that the public is only too willing and too prone to impute motives to the actions of public men, but if Ministries are always willing to act promptly these wrong impressions in the public mind will be removed.

"From what appears in the press, I learn," said the Opposition leader, "the Commission has been issued with regard to the Boorabil resumption. One is not debarred by any rule of law or practice from discussing the merits of the question involved before the Royal Commission sits. Once the machinery is set in motion, it is a wise course to leave the whole matter to be thrashed out by that tribunal. I want to complain about what seems to me to be the wrong action of the Government in not making the inquiry far more wide-reaching than it is now. The Commission, as far as I can see, is confined to the Boorabil transaction, but no doubt the main issue as far as that question is concerned can be dealt with fairly completely. The attitude of the Ministry upon the whole matter is open to question. First of all, when the disclosures were first made the Ministry promised a Royal Commission, and then for 14 days the whole matter remained in abeyance, and the mouths of public men were closed. Had the Commission been appointed immediately it could have got to work in a few days, and have completed its labours before this. Instead we are asked to hold our tongues."

Mr. Holman: You want, then, to make party capital out of it.

Mr. Wade: If you can read party capital into my statements you are mistaken. The Ministry had two courses open, one was to say at once we will appoint a commission, and that could be done without delay. Though the promise was made two weeks ago, nothing is done during that time. Then comes the next stage. After Parliament meets the commission is appointed, and thus, we are as a matter of etiquette, debarred from dealing with the particular issue. Then, yesterday, the member for Macquarie comes forward with a notice of motion asking for the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into all matters relating to the Lands Department. If any member desires to bring forward any question relating to the administration of the department, as long as that motion remains Parliament cannot deal with the subject touched upon. The Ministry should assert its sense of fairplay and have the motion removed at once, or, in the alternative, allow all questions germain to such an important subject to be discussed without restriction.

THE PUBLIC MIND.

The public mind, said Mr. Wade, was in a ferment, and was suspicious, and the only way that the good name of Parliament and public life could be cleared, was by making the terms of the Boorabil commission of the widest possible character, so that no phase of administration could escape investigation, and so that no man who had done wrong could escape the clutches of the law. Mr. Wade then commented on the fact that, despite the Premier's statement that the matter had been before Cabinet, the Governor's speech contained no reference to the regulation of land agents. Neither had Mr. Holman anything to say about the matter, which had been admittedly before both the Cabinet and caucus, in his speech at Cootamundra. The Governor's speech was entirely silent on the point, and the public wanted to know why.

Mr. Holman: Hear, hear.

"The Ministry has so far not carried out the expectations of the public in any form," declared Mr. Wade. He would only ask the Premier to say at once that he was prepared to act and deal with this question by bringing in a law this session that would check the abuses now only too apparent.

The Premier: That is anticipating the judgment of the Royal Commission. You really have no right to say that.

Mr. Wade said there was not one word in the Royal Commission suggesting an inquiry in the land agency business. There was no need for it, either. For the last three years Ministers had been saying they were prepared to legislate for the restriction of land agents. In view of clearly-expressed views of that character, was not the delay of any action an evidence of weakness?

LAND AGENTS.

Mr. Thrower: They ought to be abolished; there is no need for them at all.

Mr. Wade: Well, I must say that public policy calls for some step to be taken. Events of the last few weeks, he continued, have shown the possibility of a further danger still, and that was the intervention and the activity of members of Parliament who were paid land agents. It was no new question, and no new danger. The records of Parliament as far back as 1879 showed that a resolution was carried to exclude members of Parliament who were paid agents from the Lands Department. There was always the danger of political influences being used.

Mr. Thrower: Why didn't you stop it?

Mr. Wade: That is a very useful gag, but it has no point at all in the present argument. Mr. Wade said there was always a danger of an overbearing member of Parliament using his position to intimidate some young or inexperienced official, and place him in a very awkward position indeed. There were, he was glad to say, very few cases where that had been actually accomplished. But the danger was there, and the abuse of the privilege might arise at any time. When a member of Parliament was paid for departmental work for his constituents, it had a disconcerting and demoralising effect on public life. Members of Parliament owed a duty to their constituents to assist them in a legitimate way, but they were not only trustees of their constituents' interests, but of the interests of the whole of the public, and they must not conduct themselves in such a way as to have to decide between conflicting interests. If interests of a private character pulled him one way, and his public duty another, then a member of Parliament's independence and faithfulness were in grave danger of being destroyed.

A SERIOUS DANGER.

Another serious danger, said Mr. Wade, was the possibility of a member of Parliament who was a paid land agent belonging to a party with a very slender majority in the House. He would thus, if he chose, be in a position to barter his vote on the floor of the House in consideration of being given preferential treatment and influence in departmental matters. Once that position arose, they got very close indeed to the arena of corruption. And it was for that very reason that Parliament declared against the practice in 1879. The high court of the Labour party, the annual conference, had also several times declared against the practice. In 1879 Parliament had declared: "That, in the opinion of this House, it is contrary to the spirit of the Constitution, and dangerous alike to the independence and loyalty of members of this House, that members of the Legislative Assembly should practise their profession as land agent in the Government departments."

POSITION OF BARRISTERS.

The leader of the Opposition went on to draw the analogy between members acting as land agents, and barristers who were members of the Chamber accepting briefs from the Crown. He himself had been quite content to accept that rule, and had never accepted a brief, either for or against, although asked many times to do so. Returning to the question of land agents, he said when the Ministers gave exclusive audience to members of Parliament they pushed back the lay land agent, and were thus creating a monopoly in the land agency business for members of Parliament.

The Minister for Lands: But lay land agents are not excluded.

Mr. Wade: Well, if that is so, then day by day the Ministry is speaking a public lie, because their departmental notices and their public utterances state the fact. The fact remained that members of Parliament had free access to the Minister.

Captain Toombs: Are there none on your side of the House?

Mr. Wade: You have the full option to inquire into the careers of all of them. I invite the Ministry now to widen the scope of the Commission to include all the members of this House. (Opposition cheers.)

MR. HOLMAN AND MR. MEAGHER.

Mr. Wade dealt at length with the insinuations made during the recess by the Premier, against the Speaker (Mr. Meagher), in a criticism of the latter's attitude regarding Legislative Council nominees, and strongly condemned Mr. Holman's conduct in neither formulating definite charges, nor making a withdrawal. When Mr. Meagher was raised to the Speakership, at the end of last year, the Liberal party, for reasons that they were not now concerned with, felt it their duty to oppose his election. Mr. Holman, with the rest of his party, supported Mr. Meagher, because, it might be presumed, they believed in him on the various grounds of fitness for the high office, and Mr. Wade now said in common fairness, that while Mr. Meagher had been in the chair, he had behaved towards both parties with perfect fairness and justice. (Cheers.) Mr. Holman, however, resented the Labour Conference determination to control nominations of members for the Upper House, and took umbrage at Mr. Meagher's action in the matter. Bearing in mind the political relationship of the two, Mr. Holman should have been sure of his facts. He should not shirk the consequences, and should either pursue the inquiry to show where the truth lay, or, in common honesty and common decency, withdraw it.

The Premier had, said Mr. Wade, made an open insinuation of corrupt conduct against the man whom he, with the rest of his party, had considered worthy of the Speakership, and no charge could be more malevolent. The insinuations had been taken by Mr. Meagher to refer to himself, and he had thrown the gauntlet fairly enough, but from that day to this nothing more had been heard about it. In the meantime, the public conscience was disgusted that a public man should hurl such charges and nothing be done to clear the matter up. In this, Mr. Holman did a wrong to his own party and to public life, and threw a stain on the good name of New South Wales.

THE PREMIER'S CHARGES.

"In view of the gravity of the charges made," added Mr. Wade, "it behoves us, therefore, to ask the Premier if he can prove the charges he must go on with them, for even if there is a tithe of truth in them, the hon. member concerned is not only unfitted to occupy the Speakership, but also to occupy a seat in Parliament. If the Premier cannot prove his charges, then the only honourable course for him to adopt is to withdraw."

"So that the fullest consideration can be given to the matter," concluded Mr. Wade, "I beg to move that the following paragraph be added to the Address in Reply:—

> "We further beg to advise your Excellency that, in view of the accusations made by the Hon. the Premier against the member for Phillip, imputing grave misconduct as a member of Parliament, this House is of opinion that, in the public interest, in order to maintain the good name purity of public life and the good name of parliamentary government, these accusations should be investigated forthwith by Royal Commission, or, in the alternative, the charges should be withdrawn."

"I also desire," continued Mr. Wade, "to give the House an opportunity during this debate to express its opinion upon the question of members of Parliament acting as paid land agents, and I, therefore, desire to give further notice of my intention to move a further amendment, which is framed according to the words of the Labour party's own platform, namely,—

> "That members of Parliament should be debarred from acting as paid agents in Crown land matters." (Opposition cheers.)

PREMIER'S REPLY.

The Premier, who was loudly cheered in rising to reply, said: "The leader of the Opposition has divided his speech into two parts, the major portion of which deals with the incapacity of the Government, and the remainder with the dishonesty of the Government. By way of introduction, he said that we are breaking away from the platform and rigid discipline of the movement. He alleges a disposition on my own part to grow restive under the obligations of the party which made me and which put me here, and he was even disposed to applaud this. If he could detect that in me I am sorry to say I cannot find any similar disposition in him, for no one more faithfully obeys the instructions given by those outside than the leader of the Opposition. We see it in this double barrelled censure motion. One cartridge was provided by his party, but the other was rammed home by the journal from which both he and the members of his party take their politics and meekly obey. (Ministerial cheers.)

NO NOMINEE.

"I want to say," added Mr. Holman, "that I am here as the nominee of no conference or league, but as the elected representative of Cootamundra, just as my colleagues represent their own electorates. I was elected leader of this House by my colleagues, and we are here to discharge our constitutional functions as the representatives of the people. That we have political organisations behind us, and that our relations with them may be at times tense is of no concern to anyone but ourselves. We have been returned to the House as a result of certain promises made by us at the hustings, and as a result when matters went to the test we came back 50 strong, and the Opposition 40 strong. With all our imperfections, we thus secured the endorsement of the people, and the proposals contained in the Governor's speech, some 50 in all, are the outcome of promises made to the people.

THE POLICY.

"Not only does the leader of the Opposition complain of the policy enunciated, but he says it is impossible to give effect to it, and then as an after-thought, adds that it is the embodiment of the Liberal platform. (Laughter.) I say this that there is nothing in the policy which an energetic Ministry cannot carry into effect. Numerous sins of omission are quoted, the principal of which has to deal with the resumption of the Lithgow ironworks, and the establishment of iron works at Newcastle by the Broken Hill Proprietary Company. I want to say this, that the company was given no authorisation to commence work by this Government. They wanted no authorisation. What they wanted was a certain strip of Crown lands, which was open to anyone to acquire. The company received no favour from us.

STATE IRONWORKS.

The policy of the Government was unmistakably to establish State ironworks, and to provide the requirements of the community from the Government works. The only matter which stood between the Government and the immediate settlement of the question, was the point which had arisen as to the extent of the mineral deposits in this State.

Replying to the criticism by Mr. Wade on the number of strikes during Labour's regime, the Premier said he regretted as much as anybody that a large number of strikes had occurred. He would admit that the fact indicated that there was still something fundamentally lacking in the system of arbitration, with which it had been hoped to get rid of strikes. But for honourable members to insinuate and reiterate that the strikes were due to timid time-serving methods of applying the law was a piteous attempt at argument. During Labour's regime some 50,000 workers had participated in strikes. Of these the Labour Government had prosecuted and had fined 1000, or one in every 50 strikers. Those prosecutions had exercised the full machinery of the Department. But during Mr. Wade's regime there had been 100,000 individual strikers, and honourable members would be surprised to know that of these only 69 were prosecuted. And that was despite the fact that the Government of the day introduced a perfect reign of terror, side-stepped the principle of trial by jury, and generally set out to rule the strikers with Nero-like vindictiveness.

COST OF LIVING.

The Government has never, at any time, said the Premier, stated that it proposed to legislate to fix the prices of commodities. It would attack the cost of living problem by attacking the economic forces which keep the prices of commodities above their real economic value, but that was all it had declared its intention of doing.

RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION.

Regarding the temporary suspension of railway construction, the Premier said he would admit that this was a problem which, to his mind, overshadowed all others, not even excepting the land policy. He believed it was so viewed all over the world. Australia was fortunate in having no millionaire railway owners, whom he (the Premier) looked upon as the real owners of the Government and the people of America.

There was, said Mr. Holman, no foundation for the suggestion that the Government had to reduce its expenditure. They proposed to spend more this year on public works than Mr. Wade spent in his whole term of office. They had reached a stage, due to nothing but the timid indisposition of the late Liberal Government, which could only be described as something like a crisis in the management of existing lines. The expenditure contemplated on new lines for the next two years was £800,000 a year, which was equal to the highest year's expenditure that Mr. Wade and his colleagues ever reached. In his first year of office, Mr. Wade spent £300,000, but in his third he spent £800,000, in view, no doubt, of the increased traffic which the rushing to and fro of candidates during election time would necessitate. (Laughter.)

WORKS POLICY.

The present Government had not only carried out their railway policy, but had completed that of the former Government. Acting on the advice of the Railway Commissioners, they had spent money like water on duplication works. With regard to the purchasing of engines abroad, for 14 months after it had been agreed that in future locomotives should be constructed in the State the Chief Commissioner gave no indication that requirements were not being met, and then suddenly demanded 80 engines. Any delay in ordering these was the Commissioner's own fault. As to the statement that the extension of new lines would be suspended for two years, Mr. Holman declared that he had said, and still said, one year.

Mr. Fitzpatrick: Your own colleague misunderstood you.

BOORABIL CASE.

We found when we set the Royal Commission on foot to investigate matters of this kind that the Commissioner had no power to compel witnesses to answer. We had therefore to wait until Parliament assembled, so that we could clothe him with the same powers as Sir William Owen had. The Opposition was in power when that commission sat, and they knew that the powers conferred upon him lapsed with his commission, and yet they took no steps to make them permanent. Had we, knowing the state of the law, allowed the commission to proceed we would have been charged with smothering up the evil which the commission was appointed to investigate. If there is anything in the working of land agents, or any actions of certain of my colleagues, or anyone else, which in the opinion of the Judge warrants investigation, we will immediately extend the reference so that the fullest inquiry can be made.

NO FISHING INQUIRY.

"We are not going on a fishing inquiry into the Lands Department, and I am not here to give anyone a certificate or to whitewash anyone. I think that at the present time the Lands Department is one of the most honourably conducted departments in the Government service. I do not want to say that in advance, but I want to say that the present inquiry is not directed against the officers of the Lands Department, nor has there been in any way or at any time the slightest allegation of dishonesty against them. Mr. Hare, the Under-Secretary, and his officers maintain a high standard of efficiency under very great difficulties, and we do not intend to include these gentlemen in a general inquisition.

Mr. Cocks: You give an assurance that if, after the original inquiry, indications show that there should be a further inquiry, such inquiry shall be held forthwith?

Mr. Holman: Certainly. If, after the close of the inquiry, any matter should crop up, the inquiry will be immediately reopened.

Mr. Wade: But this commission is confined to Boorabil. Other matters therefore cannot come before the commission.

Mr. Holman: If any matter reflecting on the officers of the department in their relations with outside agents crop up we will have it inquired into.

Mr. Wade: We do not want to drag in the officers.

Mr. Holman: What then does the hon. member want? Does he want us to inquire into the action of every hon. member of this House? I say at once that I am not going to give my adherence to any such proposition, but will only consider specific allegations of wrongdoing. We are prepared, further, to say that the law should be amended in certain ways. As it stands, the law permits hon. gentlemen to go into the Lands Department just as it permits certain other gentlemen to go to the law courts. While the law permits that their action is perfectly justifiable, and if it has not been abused there is nothing to inquire into.

THE MEAGHER MATTER.

"I come now," said Mr. Holman, "to the final matter in which my name and yours, Mr. Speaker, have been coupled by the hon. member for Gordon. I want to say at once that he has nothing whatever to do with any domestic differences which may have arisen within our party ranks. If they affect the public by their results then they become matters of public discussion, but while they only affect the allocation of powers within our party organisation they concern the party only. Let me put it this way. If a conference representing our movement, carries a certain resolution, while it is a mere resolution, it concerns no one but those who belong to the party, but if the terms of the resolution are carried into law then it becomes a public matter, and it is open to criticism. In the controversy which took place, I put forward certain illustrations to show how a proposed arrangement worked. I say this, and I say it to the hon. member for Gordon, when I have a charge to make there will be no need to study it out or to consider it as an insinuation. The charge will be made in perfectly plain English.

Mr. Wade: Is it a charge or not?

Mr. Holman: My words are on record. You can see them for yourself. They are no charge. It is only your tortuous imagination which can suggest it. I say to the House, with all sincerity, that I am as jealous of its rights as the hon. member opposite. I have been longer in the House than he.

Mr. T. Brown: And will be, too.

PUBLIC PURITY.

Mr. Holman: "I now wish to make this statement upon my honour as a man, and with every sense of responsibility that, if I saw at this moment, that there was anything affecting the purity of our public life which called for action I would take it. So far as I am aware, there is no state of facts known which would justify me in taking any action. I make this statement honestly and sincerely to the House and the country, and I ask it to be accepted by both sides of the House, because I do not wish the debate to close with an impression that I have ended my speech with what is a quibble. I am not quibbling. I meet the hon. gentleman fairly, honestly, and sincerely, and give him my assurance that I am aware of nothing going on in the public life of this State which calls for any public action on my part. (Loud Ministerial cheers.)

The adjournment of the debate was moved by Mr. James till this afternoon.

SOLICITOR'S FRAUD.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

Judgment was delivered in the Insolvency Court yesterday in the case of Vincent De Paul Gillen, solicitor, who was recently sentenced to a term of imprisonment for fraudulent practices.

Commissioner Russell said that the schedule showed a disastrous state of affairs. Insolvent was indebted to 24 or 25 persons, mostly for money lent. His creditors had, however, lodged no opposition, and there was no one before the Court who objected to the insolvency passing through, or who stated that Gillen had done wrong so far as his finances were concerned.

As a passing comment, his Honor said insolvent's position showed an unsatisfactory state of affairs for a professional man. There was an undue proportion in regard to the capital item, law books £35, and two greyhounds £150. There seemed a want of balance. In the fitness of things he had, however, to deal with facts as they appeared before him. As there was no objection, they must presume that the creditors who paid loans were satisfied. He saw nothing which should prevent him awarding a second-class certificate.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

ADDRESS-IN-REPLY.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

The main business in the Legislative Assembly last night was a discussion on the motion for the adoption of the Address-in-Reply to the Governor's Speech. This is reported in another column.

The Attorney-General stated, in answer to Mr. Wade, that 37 persons were actually in prison as habitual prisoners on December 31, 1913, and four of them were released this year.

The Minister for Public Works was asked by Mr. Cohen the cause of the delay in the construction and completion of the tramway from Petersham railway station, and he replied:—

"Difficulty arose in connection with the drainage of the Parramatta-road, and our works were stopped at the junction with Crystal-street, pending a settlement of this question. A conference took place between certain Government officers and the councils concerned, and the matter has quite recently been adjusted. Plans have been submitted to the Petersham Council, asking approval to the altered levels at the Parramatta-road junction. So far this has not been received, and, as a consequence, the work is delayed. When the matter referred to shall have been settled, the work will be proceeded with, and completed as soon as possible."

STATE AND COMMONWEALTH.

The Premier stated, in reply to Mr. Fitzpatrick, that he had put before the Commonwealth authorities claims by the State for services rendered in relation to the use of public officers, and the matter was now the subject of correspondence.

STATE TRAWLING.

Mr. Perry asked the Chief Secretary whether it was the intention of the Government to purchase and equip trawlers to supply the city with fish. Was the Minister aware that there were a large number of fishermen who had invested their all in boats and nets, and would he take into consideration that they would be deprived of their living if this State enterprise were undertaken?

Mr. Cann: It is a fact that we have under consideration at present the acquiring of three trawlers to do trawling. It is not a fact that we intend to interfere with any other fishermen. Those who have boats are not doing fishing in outside waters at the present time.

The Premier gave notice of a bill to provide for the surrender of territory to the Commonwealth, and to ratify and confirm an agreement for that and other purposes.

The Premier gave notice of a bill to authorise the establishment or purchase, and to provide for the working and management of State iron and steel works, and any undertaking incidental thereto.

The House adjourned at 9.40 p.m. till this afternoon.

BOORABIL COMMISSION.

INCREASED POWERS.

In the Legislative Assembly yesterday, the Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, gave notice that he would ask the House to consider the expediency of introducing a bill to increase the powers of Royal Commissions.

These further powers, Mr. Hall stated, are similar to those with which Judge Owen was clothed in the lands inquiry some years ago. With the lapsing of the Commission the legislation conferring powers lapsed. It is the intention of the Government to make them permanent in all cases where a Judge is acting as Commissioner. The object is to invest the Boorabil Royal Commission with greater powers than exist at present.

BOXING.

WELSH DEFEATS RITCHIE.

WORLD'S LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

LONDON, July 7.

Freddy Welsh (England) defeated Willie Ritchie (America) to-night at Olympia, in a contest for the world's lightweight supremacy.

The contest went the full 20 rounds, and Mr. Eugene Corrie, the referee, gave a points decision in favour of Welsh.

The attendance was 10,000, including many women. There was also a large contingent of Americans present.

The weights of both men were nearly equal, but Welsh was a strong favourite at 6 to 4 on. These odds were freely laid.

Both men displayed superb defence during the early rounds, in which Welsh did all the forcing.

Welsh dodged a vicious right in the third round, and then twice rattled Ritchie's head with uppercuts.

Ritchie had the longer reach, but Welsh's cleverness enabled him to get inside the American's leads, and severely punish him. He landed four stiff lefts to the face in the fourth round, finishing with a splendid right. Ritchie emerged from the round the worse for wear, his left eye being puffed and inflamed. His ill-timed leads brought him severe punishment.

Up to the seventh round, Welsh scored at infighting, Ritchie being rather disappointing in this respect.

Ritchie improved in the eighth round, and got to work on Welsh's body. However, the Englishman cleverly retaliated, and the remainder of the round was more evenly contested.

Welsh had a clear lead in the tenth round. He swung a left with tremendous power behind it to Ritchie's jaw. This he followed with a left to the body, and another right to the jaw. Ritchie was nonplussed by the speed of the attack.

During the eleventh round the exchanges were more even, but in the twelfth session Ritchie boxed with more "devil," and Welsh just escaped several dangerous swings.

Ritchie realised that a knock-out was his only chance of winning, but Welsh evaded all the American's efforts. He also cut his opponent's left eye in the fourteenth round, but he received several hard jabs in the body and a right uppercut.

During the next two rounds Welsh's flashing left played a tattoo on Ritchie's face. The latter thought he saw a chance, and sent a right across like a flash; but Welsh cleverly ducked under the blow.

The nineteenth round was fast. Welsh's footwork was wonderful, and had Ritchie "guessing." Welsh sent in two splendid lefts to the face, and kept his opponent on the defensive until the end.

PRESS COMMENTS.

"Sporting Life" states:—"Ritchie was consistently beaten, because he could not cope with Welsh's exceptionally clever boxing on the retreat."

The "Morning Post" says:—"Ritchie never had a real opening against Welsh, who was a perfect master of footwork and attack."

The "Sportsman" states:—"Welsh was superior in speed and generalship throughout, and he boxed like a winner from the outset."

Freddie Welsh, apart from his defeat of the title-holder, is undoubtedly the best accredited of all the championship claimants, who have been prominent since Ad. Wolgast took the title from Battling Nelson, in February, 1910. Welsh was unlucky in that Ritchie, whom he had out-pointed in 1911, secured a prior chance to meet Wolgast for the championship in November, 1912, and since that date Welsh was unable to get a match with Ritchie till the latter faced him on Tuesday.

Welsh, who is 28 years of age, is a native of Wales, and has a remarkable record, dating from 1905. Only twice have decisions been given against him, to Packey M'Farland in 1908, and to Matt Wells in 1911. In 1912 he reversed the verdict over Wells. The new champion's next logical opponent should be Charlie White, in view of the latter's good showing in a 10-round no-decision bout against Ritchie recently, in which the then champion had the worst of matters.

Mr. R. L. Baker, the Sydney promoter, cabled Welsh last night, with a view to arranging for the champion to meet Milburn Saylor, in Sydney. Welsh won from Saylor last year on a foul.

JOHNSON AND LANGFORD.

The "Sportsman" states that the promoter has withdrawn the £6000 purse, which he had offered in connection with the proposed bout between Jack Johnson and Sam Langford.

AUSTRALIA'S NEEDS.

MR. COOK'S ADDRESS TO BUSINESS MEN.

A plea for broader and saner thought on economic and social subjects, for a study of national needs rather than the wants of individual sections of the community, and for a sinking of class consciousness and class feeling in a common effort for the benefit of the country and people as a whole, was made by the Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) at a luncheon tendered to him by members of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce at the Town Hall yesterday.

Mr. H. Y. Bradden presided, and in proposing the health of the guest of honour, said that Mr. Cook had emerged from the 14 months' period of stress in the Federal Parliament with his reputation for capacity, tact, and courage tremendously enhanced. The business world would have rather appreciated a continuation of that deadlock or state of suspended animation from which the double dissolution had released Parliament, for in the last 20 years Australia had been saturated and deluged with legislation, but by his action the Prime Minister had shown that he was not one who would sacrifice responsible Government to personal ambition. By refusing to retain office under such circumstances, he had provided a fine and signal instance of high, courageous, statesmanlike, and honourable action. (Applause.)

COMMERCE AND PRODUCTION.

Mr. Cook informed his hearers why they could not have that "peace, perfect peace" which the business world was apparently anxious to maintain. Legislation could not be done without provided it was wise, straightforward, and sane, and the issue was now raised once more of what the country wanted, and what was best for the country. He was glad to see so many members of the Chamber of Commerce at such a function as this after the Bundaberg pronouncement, for at Bundaberg they were condemned to death, and a Government Chamber of Commerce predicted. It was a case of "eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow ye die." (Laughter.) Mr. Cook deprecated this onslaught on the distributing agencies of the country, and feared that in many respects a "sloppy" way of thinking on economic and social subjects had sprung up. The previous night he was at a debate of young men, who were discussing the merits of the Cook Government, and, frankly, he was annoyed at what he heard. "If I believed what some of those young men said in criticism of my Government, I would vote Labour myself," he declared. He was glad he had been there to deal with some of the statements that were being reeled off by the yard, and were doing infinite damage in the country to-day. Commerce was production, and distribution was a phase of production. The younger generation should be taught the close relationship between the much-abused person, the middleman, and the first-man, away in the interior. "For the first time in our Federal history, all you gentlemen are, to use a vulgar term, right up against it," he added. "This election is going to be epochal in many ways."

NATIONAL PROSPERITY.

Apart from politics—it was usual in political campaigns to try and persuade the electors they had a grievance—there was very little room in Australia for real croaking, either with regard to social conditions, trade, or the outlook on life generally. They were told, however, that the Constitution was the worst in the world, that the social order was to be reconstituted entirely, and that immigration was swamping the industrial life and sweating down industrial standards. So said the workers, but commerce was bounding along, and production increasing. (Applause.) Everything depended on the point of view. "There is nothing in the world so tyrannical as an idea," declared Mr. Cook. "I once heard a young man deliberately argue that single-tax would cure toothache. (Laughter.) Another man says all you need is bi-metallism, another says socialism, and another free-trade."

"We must not," he added, "get into the way of looking at a single facet of the truth and imagining that we see the whole. We need a broad vision to-day—the vision that comes from wisdom and experience." Mr. Cook quoted figures showing that during the term of federation the total trade had increased from £92,000,000 to £160,000,000 odd; the tonnage of Australian shipping from £6,500,000 to £10,500,000; the value of agricultural products from £24,000,000 to over £50,000,000; wheat from 38,000,000 to 91,000,000 bushels. Figures such as these gave the lie to the croakers.

WOES OF THE WORKERS.

A lot was heard about the wants and woes of the workers, and though any proposal to improve the conditions of the latter was hailed with pleasure, they could have too much of it. In recent years they had been hearing nothing but the question of the wages and conditions of the working man. The working man was entitled to be heard, to have his grievances redressed, and to have fair wages and conditions, and a fair share of the value of production, but even that could be overdone.

"It is time we began to look to the wants and woes of this great young country of ours as well as the wants and woes of individuals," he said. "Let us give the country a look in for once in a while." As regards the wants of the country, population was a great need, though improving social conditions in Great Britain made immigrants harder to get. There was, however, plenty of good human material to be obtained, and they must make an effort to get some of it to people Australia's empty spaces. This was not a question of politics, but of national existence. Another great want was defence, and the Prime Minister said it was his duty to tell them plainly that his party could promise no relaxation of the defence policy yet. The country wanted greater facilities for its trade and commerce, and its productiveness. Decentralisation would not hurt the country. He would like to see another Chamber of Commerce in the interior as large as that in Sydney.

NATIONAL SPIRIT.

Another thing wanted was an increase of national spirit. Instead of belittling and belabouring one's country, let them speak up for it. (Applause.) If men believed in their country the country was safe. Better education was wanted—better industrial education—better training, better discipline. Also there was need of a better social feeling, a little more harmony and fraternity. "And every endeavour," said Mr. Cook, "should be made to scotch that snake of class consciousness and class feeling that has destroyed many a country and people, and will destroy ours if we do not destroy it. (Applause.) I should like to see us stand more and more for the solidarity of the nation rather than for solidarity of class."

Q.V. MARKETS.

"I am positively sick and tired of these discussions about the Queen Victoria Markets," declared Alderman W. P. M'Elhone yesterday to the finance committee of the City Council.

Some weeks ago, after debates extending over a period, not of months, but of years, Alderman Hagon succeeded in getting the council to agree to the remodelling of the Markets at a cost of £14,000.

Alderman Walker moved that the resolution in favour of the remodelling be rescinded and that leases be given of the shops for a seven-years' term, after inviting tenders.

The motion was lost by six votes to five.

A NEW TUG.

A tug built to the order of Mr. Alexander Cowan was successfully launched yesterday morning from Woodley's shipbuilding yard, Berry's Bay. The launching ceremony was performed by the owner, who christened the craft Cowan.

The Cowan has a length of 90 feet, an 18-foot beam, and a moulded depth of 10ft. She is constructed of colonial spotted gum, kauri, and ironbark. Her compound engines installed by Messrs. Allan and Black, are by Ross and Duncan, of Glasgow. She has an electric light installation, and a salvage pump capable of discharging 60 tons of water an hour.

PAID IN DIVIDENDS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

A further dividend of 1s per share is announced by the directors of the Amalgamated Zinc (De Bavays), Ltd., payable on August 12. This distribution, which absorbs £25,000, will bring the aggregate return to shareholders to £500,000, a sum equal to the authorised capital of the company.

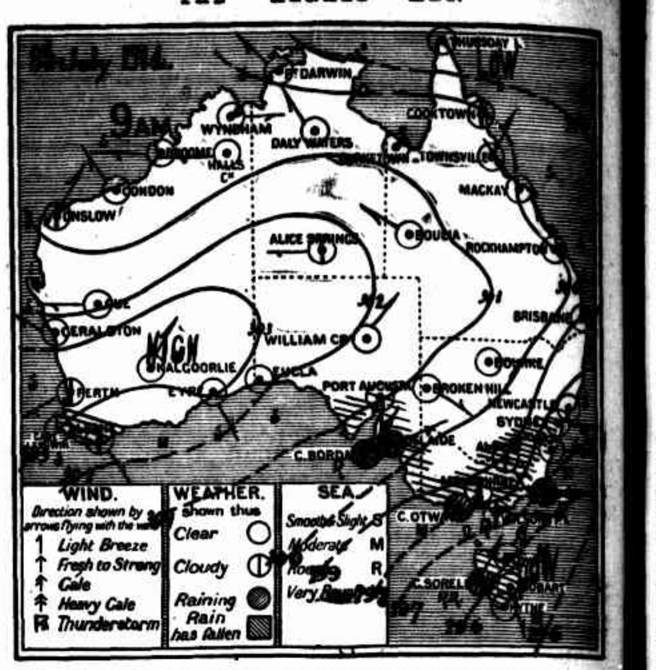
RAILWAY GAUGES.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

Replying to a deputation, which asked for the broadening of the narrow-gauge system in the south-east, the Commissioner of Public Works, Sir Richard Butler, stated that he was calling for estimates of the cost of converting the north and south narrow-gauge systems to the broad gauge. The narrow-gauge lines to Broken Hill and on Eyre's Peninsula would be excluded.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The energetic Antarctic disturbance, which covered the south-western States on Tuesday, has not made much easterly progress, but has extended in a north-easterly direction. It still maintains the same intensity as on the previous day, and is centrally situated about Hobart.

The high pressure has lost slightly in barometric values, but is still as extensive, covering the whole of the continent with the exception of the south-east corner. Its central readings, which reach as high as 30.38 inches, are situated on the southern goldfields of Western Australia.

The high pressure over New Zealand has made a considerable advance eastward, while the monsoonal and tropical depression is situated between New Caledonia and the North Queensland coast.

Ocean Forecast.—Strong to gales from the north-west to south-west, between the straits and New Zealand, strong off-shore winds on the New South Wales coast; elsewhere smooth to moderate.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

BOOT TRADE AGREEMENT.

The conference which was held a week ago in Sydney between representatives of the Australian Boot Trade Employees' Federation and the Boot Trade Employers' Association has been productive of satisfactory results. The procedure involved an expenditure of about £100 to the union, but, inasmuch as there were no arbitration delays, the union secretary (Mr. Johnstone) regards this outlay as representing a big saving. The wages for male adults were fixed at 1s 3d per hour.

Apprentices and probationers are to receive the following:—Boys under 16 years: First year, 7s 6d per week; second year, 12s 6d; third year, 17s 6d; fourth year, 22s 6d; fifth year, 27s 6d; sixth year, first half 32s 6d, second half 37s 6d. Boys, 16 to 17: First year, 12s 6d; second, 17s 6d; third, 22s 6d; fourth, 27s 6d; fifth, first half 32s 6d, second half 37s 6d. Boys, 17 to 18 years: First year, 12s 6d; second, 17s 6d; third, 22s 6d; fourth, [illegible]; fifth, 37s 6d. Boys at 18 years: First year, 17s 6d; second, 22s 6d; third, first half [illegible], second half 37s 6d.

Probation boys are not to be under 17 years of age, and are not to exceed 18 months. Boys over 17 years of age are not to exceed two months.

Wages for female apprentices and improvers at each six months have been fixed at the following rates:—First six months, 10s per week, then 11s 6d, 13s, 14s 6d, 16s, 17s 6d, 20s, [illegible]. Females with over four years' experience, [illegible] per week; wax thread machinists, 25s.

Adults, without experience in the trade, are to receive 21s for the first six months, and 24s for second six months; thereafter the minimum wage. The hours are fixed at 48 per week.

The employers have adopted the terms, as has also the New South Wales branch of the operatives' union. It is expected that the whole of the States will agree. The new rates are to come into operation on December 1 next.

BAKERS' BOARD.

The bakers' wages board, Mr. J. J. Watkins, barrister, chairman, sat yesterday at chambers, Phillip-street. Mr. Broomfield, instructed by Mr. Penrose, appeared for the Master Bakers' Association, and, instructed by Mr. E. R. Cohen, for Abel and Co., Ltd.; Mr. P. H. Sullivan, appeared for the Operative Bakers' Union, and Mr. Schrader, (Messrs. [illegible] and Russell) for Sargents, Ltd.

It was announced that day working, which is included in the claims by the union, would be opposed.

The board was adjourned till 29th inst.

The present interim award expires on [illegible] inst. Application will be made to have the award extended until such time as the new award is available.

SECTION 26.

The Federated Enginedrivers and Firemen's Association, and the Builders' Labourers' Union, intend making representations to the Minister for Labour and Industry to have clause 26 (which provides for service pay to be not less than the rates paid outside for similar work) made to apply to Federal awards.

PICTURE FRAME MAKERS.

Mr. J. A. Ferguson, barrister, has made an award dealing with picture frame makers, which provides that adult males engaged in shooting shall be paid at the rate of [illegible] per week while so shooting, but a cutter may be employed shooting for not more than one hour in any one day at the rate fixed for cutters. Stainers and waxers are to be paid at the rate of £2 17s per week.

JOSEPH CRAIG MISHAP.

AUCKLAND, Wednesday.

The Nautical Court, which inquired into the mishap to the barque Joseph Craig when entering the harbour, found that the Captain of the vessel acted unwisely in attempting to enter the port at night under prevailing weather conditions; but the Court considered it merely an error of judgment. The captain's certificate was returned.

FINANCIAL.

PUBLIC DEBTS CONTRASTED.

HOW AUSTRALIA STANDS.

In order that a comparison may be instituted between the States of Australia and other countries of the world in regard to indebtedness, the following table is furnished by Mr. M'Laughlin, the Victorian Statist. The highest debt per head of population here disclosed is that of France (£27 3s 6d), which is three-fifths of that of Victoria. The next highest is the liability of Belgium (£21 4s 2d), then follows the liability of the South African Union (£19 4s 11d), after which come the debts of Austria (£17 13s 10d), the United Kingdom (£15 12s 5d), the German States and Empire (£15 7s), and Italy £15 0s 11d). After Italy there is shown a rapid diminution of indebtedness to £1 4s 10d per head in British India. It must be remembered, however, that the large indebtedness of the Australian States is the result of expenditure on railways, roads, irrigation, and water supply works, harbours, and other public works, required for the speedy development of an entirely new country, whilst in the older countries of the world much of this class of work is left to private enterprise:—

STATE RAILWAYS.

The full text of the nationalisation of Railways Bill (U.K.) has been published, the chief points being as follow:—

Power is given to the State to purchase the railways of the United Kingdom, either as a whole or in instalments.

Creation of a Minister of Post and Railways, in whom is to be vested the present powers of the Postmaster-General.

Three months' notice of purchase to be given.

Price to be 20 times the average annual profits of last three years preceding purchase as shown by the Board of Trade in its annual return relating to the railways of the United Kingdom.

Purchase money to be paid by issue of 3½ per cent. guaranteed State Railway stock, redeemable at par by annual drawings over 63 years.

Government empowered to spend £1,000,000 annually in the purchase of railway stocks in order "to obtain control of railway undertakings."

Railway Board and Council of Management.

NORTHERN TERRITORY IN FIGURES.

Though the white population of the Northern Territory is still a mere handful of the 523,000 square miles that it comprises, there are 105,745 square miles held under pastoral lease, while there is an additional 25,996 square miles held under pastoral permit—a yearly tenure with the right of renewal. Most of the permit-holders are also pastoral lessees. There are 158,745 square miles under lease to 59 holders. The total number of leases is 245. Of the latter, 9, comprising 1742 square miles, expire about 1916. Eleven, totalling 4250, are for 28 years, and expire about 1920. The remaining 225, comprising 100,000 square miles, are for 42 years, and expires at periods ranging from 1933 to 1944. The rentals range from 6d to 3s a square mile. The average is about 1s 3d.

STAMPING OF DUPLICATE RECEIPTS.

Under the Stamp Duties (Amendment) Act, 1914, No. 3, schedule I., it is provided that a receipt shall be given for on upon the payment of any sum of money amounting to £2 or upwards. Under the principal Act (Stamp Duties, 1898), receipt is defined to mean any stamp, mark, or impression, indicator, as well as any note, memorandum, or writing whatsoever, whereby any money amounting to £2 or upwards is deposited for any fixed period, or is acknowledged, or expressed to have been received or paid in satisfaction of any debt, or whereby any debt or demand, or any part of a debt or demand of the amount of £2 or upwards is acknowledged to have been settled, satisfied, or discharged, or which signifies or imports any such acknowledgment, and whether the same is or is not signed with the name of any person. It would seem from this that an acknowledgment that money has been received is chargeable with duty, there being nothing in the Act exempting duplicate receipts. In an English case, in which the defendant gave plaintiff a duty stamped receipt for a sum paid by the latter for rent and goods supplied, and at the same time gave the plaintiff (as the defendant alleged, for bookkeeping purposes only) a separate document purporting to be a receipt for the rent alone, the amount of which exceeded £2, it was held that the latter document required a stamp.

COST OF LIVING.

Mr. A. Netzer writes:—

Sir,—Like all idol worshippers, your correspondent, Mr. W. Pearse, mistakes the graven image for the thing it represents, and attributes qualities to it it does not possess. Perhaps, a few elementary facts will convince him of the error of his ways.

(1) If there were not an ounce of gold in the world, mankind could very well rub along without it, and could even establish a system of credit (the equivalent of gold) to facilitate the exchange of commodities by issuing bits of paper—like our cheques and banknotes—based on collateral security, as indeed, it has been practised by the Chaldeans, Babylonians (and, afterwards, by the Italians—Lombards) five or six thousand years ago. But mankind could not exist for 48 hours without the products of human labour, and it is the value of this labour which gives it its price and determines the cost of living. Ricardo has pointed out long ago that the real value of a thing is the quantity of labour required to produce it.

(2) Gold, being the chosen medium of circulation, acts as a convenient measure of exchange between one commodity and another (Adam Smith likens it to the benefit derived from roads), and affects, according as it appreciates or depreciates, the price of commodities only in relation to itself. It causes no competition between commodities, and therefore, can have no permanent effect on the cost of living. Money, apart from its quality as a measure of exchange, is a commodity like any other, and subject to the same laws. Just as much as you buy goods with your money, so does the merchant buy your money with his goods.

(3) The effect of the increase of the production of gold on a commodity is that it will exchange for a proportionately greater number of tokens; thus making it appear that the commodity is dearer, when in reality it is money that is cheaper. But practically, no one is better off, and, as shown in my last letter, a good few are worse off, who would greatly benefit by a converse process.

(4) The cost of labour, being originally based on the lowest margin of what it would take to maintain the labourer, and to enable him to reproduce himself, he would gain no advantage by being paid as much again in wages if it costs him as much again to live and to reproduce himself.

(5) It is only when the labourer claims and obtains from his employer, and partly at his expense, a larger share of the wealth he creates, that he is enabled to raise his standard of living, to enjoy greater comforts of life, and, instead of becoming a burden to the community, provide for a rainy day, as, indeed, the savings bank amply testify.

(6) It is the higher standard of living and the enjoyment of greater comforts of life of the labouring classes which are responsible for the high cost of living. All other causes are transitory.

(7) Not the circulation of gold, but the product of labour, creates wealth, and the more equitably this wealth is distributed the more genuine is the prosperity and the well-being of the community.

WILLIAM BROOKS AND CO., LTD.

NEW ISSUE OF PREFERENCE SHARES.

It has been decided by the board of the above company to issue the balance of 10,000 unallotted £1 preference shares. The company has a building scheme in hand, which includes the purchase of its Castlereagh-street property, which it at presents holds on a building lease, with the option of purchase. The price at which the company has the right to purchase is estimated as being at any rate £10,000 below its present value. The money raised by the issue of these 10,000 preference shares will be devoted to building purposes, and the balance of the money required will be raised by mortgage, and the probable issue of some debentures. These preference shares carry a preferential cumulative dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable quarterly in advance, and participate in any additional dividends that may be earned. The company is regularly paying an 8 per cent. dividend.

Australasia	1,968,578	£26,079,536

This value worked out at £13/4/11 per bale. During the previous season the corresponding figures were:—Number of bales, 1,804,801, valued at £24,642,643, or £13/13/1 per bale. The following comparison may be made of Australasian exports and sales:—

AUSTRALASIAN EXPORTS AND SALES.

Another feature of interest is the distribution of purchases; in other words, the ascertainment of who are our best customers. This is disclosed in the table that follows:—

Destinations.	1913-14. Bales.	p.c.
United Kingdom	437,500	22
France, Belgium, and Holland	—	—
Germany	1,283,515	65
Austria, Italy, and Switzerland, Russia, Norway, and Sweden	—	—
United States and Canada	115,936	6
Japan, China, and India	20,500	1
Local manufacturers, etc.	111,857	6
Total	1,968,578	—

During the previous season the United Kingdom took 34 per cent., France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany 58 per cent., and 5 per cent. was consumed locally.

BURMA RICE CROP.

CONDITIONS NOT SO FAVOURABLE.

It is now officially stated that the third forecast of the Burma rice crop, issued in December last, showed an expected surplus of 2,700,000 tons of cargo rice available for export. A month later, when the fourth forecast was under preparation, indications were apparent that the crop was short and was threshing out light, so the estimate was reduced to 2,535,000 tons. A month later still conditions were reported to be more favourable, and the estimate was again raised to the original figure. Now, according to advices from Rangoon, dated June 4, after a lapse of three months, the provincial estimate has been officially re-examined on the strength of recent district season and crop reports. In these reports eight Lower Burma districts have modified their estimates of acre outturn, the modifications in all districts but one taking the form of a reduction. The result is to reduce to 86 the provincial percentage estimate given as 90 per cent. of a normal acre crop in the final forecast. The deficits occur mostly in the areas serving the Bassein and the Rangoon markets, but Akyab is very much in the same boat. Acreages reported by districts also indicate that the total area under rice falls somewhat short of the figure previously estimated. The net result is that the exportable surplus of cargo rice is now placed at 2,600,000. If it be so, prices should go still higher, to the regret of those Burma merchants who sold "forward" some months ago at a comparatively low price in anticipation of a large crop and indifferent prices.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Considerable interest was again centred in the local jute market yesterday. Covering operations in woolpacks were still being actively prosecuted, but it was only occasionally that a holder was found who was willing to sell either spots or May shipment—the Itonus is due this morning—under 3/4 delivered, less discount. June shipment was offered at 3/3¼. Cablegrams from Calcutta were to the effect that altogether 2350 bales of packs were short shipped by the Hymettus. It was further reported that this was caused by a strike of weavers, and not by any inability on the part of the shipping company to deal with the cargo offering. There was again nothing doing in branbags, and the quotation was unaltered at 4/5 slings ex the Itonus, or 4/6 net to rails. There was no change in cornsacks. Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot, and Co., writing from Calcutta, under date June 12, stated that the market during the latter part of that week had slumped in an extraordinary manner. At the end of the previous week rumours were spread that short time was likely to be extended up till the end of June next year, but the opinion had grown that nothing would come of the proposal. Mills had shown the weakness of their position forward, and had been willing to accept contracts at almost any rate within reason, which might be placed before them. Australian cornsacks were lower, and some business had been done at declining rates. New Zealand sacks had received some attention, and business had been done. Woolpacks were inquired for, but sellers were few and not inclined to operate at the rates offered. Branbags up to June next year had been sold at rapidly declining rates, and buyers had withdrawn. Orebags were neglected. Hessians had collapsed. Raw jute had been weaker, and it appeared likely that the new crop would be a bumper one.

The market for manufactured metals was fairly active, and substantial sales were made to the country at full rates. Advices to hand by the English mail showed that the demand for galvanised iron was exceptionally keen, and that most mills were satisfactorily placed as far as orders were concerned. An average trade was passing in galvanised iron, but manufacturers complained that prices were not sufficiently remunerative. Prices for iron and steel products were firm. There was undoubtedly a desire on the part of Continental manufacturers to raise prices, and the latest quotations showed an advance of from 1/ to 2/ a ton. Very little value, however, was placed upon this advance, as unless the volume of business greatly increased, makers would be forced to return to the old levels.

Private cablegrams from Colombo regarding Tuesday's sale indicated that the market generally was firm at late rates. Common leaf kinds were rather weaker, but finest kinds were slightly firmer. All other descriptions were unchanged. On spot the market was dull. This was probably due to the fact that many of the samples by this week's mail were not available, and that buyers were in consequence holding off until they ascertained what value was offered by the teas to arrive. A few samples of Sumatra teas were to hand by the mail. These teas were offered in London a couple of months ago, and the importers reported that the quality was fairly good. It was stated that Sumatra could produce tea in every way equal to Java, and that the day might come when shipments from this source might have a considerable influence upon the Sydney market. Tea auctions are to be held to-day and to-morrow.

THE SUGAR CROPS.

An unusual amount of rain fell during the month of June in most of our sugar-producing areas. On the eve of crushing, dry weather and even mild frosts would have been far more acceptable to a majority of those engaged in the industry. As far, however, as the reports from the correspondents of the sugar journal reveal, there has not been any serious interruption to the progress of harvest; and in most districts the conditions are, on the whole, decidedly favourable. In the Mossman, by the middle of the month, the temperature had become much cooler, and as there had been but little rain, the growth had practically ceased. At Cairns, similar conditions have prevailed, and reports concerning the supply of cane are decidedly encouraging, though some of the growers have suffered from the ravages of grubs, rats, and other pests. On the Johnstone, the weather has been very uncertain, and it is satisfactory to note that whilst apparently the rains have done no particular harm, they have had the effect of keeping the grub pest very much in check. Crushing commenced on the Herbert River on June 11, and cane was coming in freely. On the Lower Burdekin, crushing was to have commenced on June 15, but some slight delay was occasioned through labour troubles, which apparently were not of a very serious character. Weather conditions in the Mackay district were favourable during the latter portion of May and the beginning of June, and in some instances crop estimates have been revised and increased. Latest figures available give a total of 391,000 tons of cane, as against 483,500 last season. Good reports also have been received concerning the density of the cane, and the total output of sugar has been set down at about 45,000 tons. Further south, the winter has, on the whole, been most favourable; and there have been no frosts of a damaging nature. The wet weather will, however, have a tendency to delay the harvest.

SHEFFIELD STEEL TRADE.

PERIOD OF DEPRESSION FORECASTED.

There is widespread pessimism in Sheffield with regard to the position and prospects of the steel trade, and many merchants believe that the steel industry is in for a period of severe depression. That there has been some swing of the pendulum to justify this feeling cannot be denied. The outstanding features of twelve months ago, when there was more work than means to deal with it, and when orders flowed in without seeking, are absent to-day. Business has now to be fostered and tempted, and competed for, and its volume has undergone marked contraction. Many firms having extended their resources during the boom, the changed conditions are acutely felt in some cases. The "British Trade Review" asserts that a general survey of the situation makes it clear that trade is neither bad nor depressed, and but for the comparison of the abnormal condition of last year, it would be regarded as fairly satisfactory. One gratifying feature is an absence of unemployment. There are fewer night shifts, and overtime has almost disappeared, but the cases are exceptional where capable men cannot obtain regular work.

As regards the high-grade special steels, the production of which is peculiar to Sheffield, the demand is well maintained by the uninterrupted development of new sources of trade. The expansion of the requirements of the automobile industry has received no check. The building of motor drays, vans, and waggons, necessitates a large consumption of Sheffield products, and this industry presents an almost unlimited field. The cheaper and heavier grades of steel are still suffering from the recent competition of Germany and Belgium, and the works are generally on short time, while values continue to fall. Bar iron has been in a condition of depression for quite a long period, the cause being competition from abroad and the absence of railway rolling-stock construction. Pigiron prices have not undergone any further quotable decline, and prices all round are low. The conditions are now favourable to the launching of enterprises which involve large consumption of iron and steel, and should stimulate a revival of the world's trade.

The unsatisfactory features of the trade are mainly due to a great falling-off in buying by the overseas market. Nearly every country abroad is at the present time suffering from one adverse influence or another. As regards Japan, Mexico, the United States, and South America, the trouble is political. Canadian trade is being hit by over-speculation, resulting in a bad financial condition. Russian trade, on the contrary, is inclined to boom, and this country is now Sheffield's best market, but the business is done by a limited number of firms. Sales of garden, farm, and excavating tools have established a further record this season, despite a loss of trade in sickles, hooks, scythes, and matchets with Mexico and South America.

In cutlery and plate, business is on a somewhat restricted level compared with last year. Canadian and Australian buying is unsatisfactory. Mechanical methods for making cutlery are receiving a great amount of attention, and the craftsmen are at last realising that the coming of the machine into the industry cannot be prevented.

RUBBER SUPPLIES.

It is worthy of note that the visible supply of Para and Peruvian rubber on June 1 was the lowest for several years. Since 1911 the figures for this date have been as follows:—

	Visible supply. Tons.
June 1, 1911	10,060
June 1, 1912	6,880
June 1, 1913	6,350
June 1, 1914	4,920

With the exception of America, where the stocks were 230 tons more than those of the previous year, all countries have reduced their holdings of Para rubber. The "Financial Times" states that in England the deliveries during the eleven months ending May 31 have exceeded the landings by 1430 tons, while Continental deliveries have exceeded the imports by 220 tons. America, on the other hand, has landed 820 tons in excess of deliveries.

TO-DAY'S HOMEBUSH OFFERINGS.

The number of sheep and of cattle listed for to-day's sales is as follows:—

Sheep (including lambs)	25,279
Cattle (including calves)	2,780

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday totalled 188 bales.

EXPORT TRADE.

By advices to hand from London, dated June 3, Australian salted pelts showed a firm tone, and prices had advanced. Supplies were small, and there was no prospect of any weakening of the market. Basils were also in strong demand, and prices had advanced /1 to /1½ all round. Very optimistic reports were current concerning the prospects of the trade.

On the other hand, leather was dull, and though prices were firm there was not a satisfactory volume of business passing, and heavy-weights especially were neglected. Similarly, salted hides were depressed, demand by no means equalling supply, and as a consequence prices receded /½ to /¾ per lb. The market in this line had been very adversely affected by heavy falls on River Plate hides.

The second series of public sales for the current year was held on May 6 and 7, when 2642 bales of Australian and New Zealand skins were sold. Prices were generally lower. The market closed weak. Messrs. Rocke and Sons conclude their report by quoting Australian and Tasmanian selected winter skins at 2/ to 2/6 per lb nominal, with proportional values for other grades.

BREADSTUFFS.

PRICES UNCHANGED.

There was again no change in the local wheat market yesterday. There was a fairly active demand for parcels, and several sales were reported at from 3/10 to 3/10½ a bushel alongside. Farmers' lots were worth about 3/5 at country stations. The oversea markets were cabled as steady and unchanged.

Flour moved out in average quantities at £9 a ton. Bran and pollard were unchanged at £5/5/ a ton.

ARRIVALS BY RAIL.

Wheat and Flour.—The receipts of wheat and flour by rail at Darling Harbour and the suburban goods yards for the week ended July 7 are as follow:—

	Wheat.	Flour.
Week ended July 7	13,622	1,165
A week ago	16,479	1,150
A year ago	11,154	780

The total arrivals to date for the statistical year, which commenced on December 1, compare with those of the corresponding period of the previous three years as follows:—

	Wheat.	Flour.
1913-14	555,932	30,354
1912-13	384,834	28,700
1911-12	330,644	25,679

Comparison of Prices.—The mean prices now ruling for wheat and products compare with those of a year ago and two years ago as follows:—

	Yesterday.	Last Year.	2 years ago.
Wheat, per bushel	£0 3 9½	£0 3 6½	£0 4 1½
Flour, per ton	9 0 0	8 15 0	10 0 0
Bran, per ton	5 5 0	4 10 0	5 10 0
Pollard, per ton	4 10 0	5 10 0	6 10 0

In the case of flour, bran, and pollard, the prices given are association prices.

In the case of wheat the price is the average given by shippers.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 3218 tons of wheat and 273 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

SILVER.

LONDON, July 7.

Bar silver was quoted to-day at 25 15-16d per ounce standard.

THE WOOL SALES.

OPENING OF THE FOURTH SERIES.

LONDON, July 7.

The fourth series of wool sales opened to-day. Very few merinos were offered, but there was a good selection of crossbreds, which were from par to 7½ per cent. dearer.

LONDON, July 8.

At the wool sales yesterday, Buxton, Ronald, and Co., Ducres and Co., and Thomas and Cook offered 8403 bales, including 7782 bales from New Zealand and 207 bales from the Cape.

There was a large attendance, and fine crossbreds were from 5 per cent. to 7½ per cent. higher than the April closing rates. Medium sorts were from par to 5 per cent. higher. Poorer sorts remained at par. Medium and low descriptions were ½d lower.

The Americans are operating freely on fine and medium crossbreds, and it is expected that merinos will show a 5 per cent. advance.

Dalgety and Company, Limited, has received the following cable message from its London office, dated Tuesday:—

The fourth series of home wool sales has opened with a large attendance of buyers and animated competition. There was a poor selection generally, and practically no merinos were submitted in the opening catalogues.

As compared with the closing rates of the third series, prices for greasy fine crossbreds were 5 to 7½ per cent. higher, and for medium crossbreds par to 5 per cent. higher. Coarse crossbreds were unchanged, except that shabby descriptions were in buyers' favour.

Messages were also received by the Australian Mercantile, Land, and Finance Company, Ltd., W. G. Deuchar, Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Ltd., Pastoral Finance Association, Ltd., Gibbs, Bright, and Co., John Sanderson, and Co., Winchcombe, Carson, Ltd., New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company, Ltd., Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Hill, Clark, and Co., Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Ltd., and Co-operative Wool and Produce Company, Ltd.

WHEAT.

The wheat market is steady and quiet.

The cargo of Victorian grain by the barque Fahrwohl, sailed April 11 with 27,354 bags, has been sold at 35/4 a quarter of 480lb c.i.f.

Liverpool futures are quoted thus:—July 6/11⅞, October 6/9⅞, December 6/10 a cental.

Chicago futures are quoted thus:—July 79c to 80½c, September 78⅞c to 79⅜c a bushel.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

There were no changes in the prices that ruled the dairy section of Sussex-street on Wednesday. Trade in most lines was brisk, eggs especially being in strong demand.

New-laid eggs sold well, most agents having cleared their floors by 11 a.m., and the trade in River, South Coast, and Railway lots was equally good. In fact, it may be said that case-eggs sold better than the new-laid article. Consequent upon this healthy tone, the prices of all lines were firm at late rates, though whether Thursday's market will reach the same level is a matter of speculation. Prices for case eggs were 1/4 to 1/5, a rise of 1d on Tuesday's rates, though this latter figure was only for highest grade lots.

Cheese was unaltered, and indications were that it was likely to remain so for some considerable time to come. Though Queensland cheese, which is selling at /8 f.o.b. Brisbane, was stated to be coming in fairly freely, it was mostly in the hands of large retail houses. Agents in Sussex-street could not very well handle it profitably at less than /9, at which figure local cheese was available, consequently, the price for the local line was unaffected. On the other hand, the large retailers were not operating freely in "the street," which had a rather depressing effect on trade; but as supplies are visibly lessening daily, agents were not disposed to make much effort to meet the retailers.

Quotations were:—

RAILWAY MARKET.

Very little business was transacted at the railway forage and grain sales yesterday morning, owing to the exceedingly small quantity of produce placed in position for sale.

Only one lot of wheaten chaff was sold, this bringing 4/9 per cwt, whilst oaten chaff realised 4/4 (top price), with others ranging from 2/6 to 4/3.

A splendid quality of lucerne hay was present, and a good demand reigned for same, several lots commanding very high prices. One consignment of excellent lucerne from C. Mogg, of Mudgee, realised 7/6 per cwt (the highest price commanded by lucerne hay this season), whilst another parcel from Smith, of Mudgee, brought 6/9 at public auction. Below this lots realised from 2/10 to 6/8.

Potatoes were present in fair quantity, and prices were practically on a level with those of yesterday, 4/6 being top price paid for parcels ex Llangothlin, whilst others brought from 2/ to 4/4. One truck of pumpkins was sold, and realised 2/3 per cwt.

Consignments placed in position for sale:—Hay, straw, chaff 23, grain 8, potatoes 23, pumpkins 1.

Produce manifested to arrive:—Hay, straw, chaff 101, grain 24, potatoes 27.

Wheaten Chaff.—S. and K., Burrumbuttock (607), 4/9 per cwt.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The following are the wholesale prices for fruit at the Western Market:—Apples, eating 1/6 to 8/6, cooking 1/6 to 7/; lemons, Victorian 6/ to 9/; mandarins, N.S.W. 5/ to 10/, Queensland 10/ to 13/; oranges, Mildura 9/ to 11/, N.S.W. 5/ to 8/; passionfruit, Victorian 7/ to 15/, N.S.W. 5/ to 15/; pineapples, 6/ to 9/.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

At the vegetable market yesterday morning a good supply was on hand, but only a moderate demand reigned; consequently prices, on the whole, were slightly lower than those of Monday last.

Quotations were:—

Beetroot, /9 to 1/3 per dozen bunches; cabbages, /6 to 4/ per dozen; carrots, 1/ to 1/8 per dozen bunches; cauliflowers, /6 to 4/; celery, 1/ to 3/6; cucumbers, 1/6 to 2/6 per half-case; eschalots, 1/ to 1/6; French beans, 3/ to 5/ a bushel; herbs, 1/ to 1/6; lettuce, 1/ to 2/ a dozen; melons, jam, 1/ to 1/4 a dozen; mint, 1/ to 1/6; onions, brown 10/ per cwt; ditto, white 6/, Spanish 10/, Silverskins 16/, pickling 7/; parsley, 1/6 to 2/; parsnips, 1/6 to 2/ per dozen bunches; peas, 3/ to 5/6 per bushel; potatoes, 4/ to 7/; Tasmanian: Brownells 7/, Bismarcks 6/6, Carmens 8/, Circulars 7/, Pinkeyes 7/, Redskins 7/6, up-to-dates 6/6 per cwt; Manhattans, 6/; Snowflakes, 6/; sweet potatoes, 10/; pumpkins, local, 1/ to 6/; Queensland, 4/6 to 5/ per dozen; rhubarb, 1/6 to 3/6 per dozen bunches; Tasmanian Swedes, 2/6 to 3/6 per cwt; ditto, local 6/; tomatoes, 2/ to 4/ per half-case; vegetable marrows, 4/ per dozen; watercress, 2/ to 3/ per dozen; white turnips, /9 to 1/; spinach, /9 to 1/ per dozen.

CALF SALES.

There were 440 calves offered for sale in the City Yards on Wednesday. They were mostly small, and the quality generally was only fair. Competition was active for all descriptions, and values were firm at late rates.

Quotations:—

Odd yearlings to £4, odd vealers to £3/5/, best bobbies to 35/, good 24/ to 28/, medium 18/ to 22/, prime light 12/ to 16/, others from 7/.

These sheep were exhibited at the recent Sydney sheep show, and were greatly admired for their all-round qualities. They are extra heavy and prime, and carry splendid skins.—Advt.

MINING.

LONDON VALUES BETTER.

GOOD BUSINESS IN BARRIERS AND TIN STOCKS.

LOCAL MARKET BRISKER.

There was a decided improvement in the volume of business recorded yesterday morning, and, what was more cheering still, was that it was mostly a "bull" market, especially in the case of silver and tin stocks.

A further advance in the price of lead was a factor in this result. Moreover, the "middle" quotations of the London Stock Exchange on Tuesday indicated a better feeling generally for Australian stocks. The following stocks improved to the extent of the amounts stated:—B.H. Norths, /6; B.H. Block 10, /3; B.H. South (paid), 5/; Amalgamated Zinc, /3; Mount Lyells, /6; Zinc (ord.), /3; Zinc (pref.), /3; Golden Horseshoes, /6; Associated Gold Mines, /3; Lake View and Oroya and Bullfinch Proprietary, /3 each; and Gwalias, /6. Steady rates were maintained by British (old), Briseis, Great Cobars, Mount Morgans, Hampdens, Northerns, and Boulder Perseverance. The only stocks quoted a shade easier were Broken Hill Proprietary, Mount Elliotts, and Chaffers, so that London was undoubtedly brighter.

The local market responded, especially as telegrams from Adelaide and Melbourne show that more buoyant conditions prevailed in the Stock Exchanges of those cities. Tin propositions took the lead consequent on a firm Melbourne market. Katoo Deebook sold strongly at 25/9 and 25/7½, call paid 1/; Tongkah Harbour opened a shade easy at 35/3, but soon recovered to 35/9, whilst Tongkah Compound sold at 56/9, as against 57/ on six weeks' terms the previous day. This gave the keynote to the market, and business on solid lines was subsequently booked in Carpathia (con.), Malaya Tin, and Vegetable Creek, but Wild Cherry failed to maintain the previous day's rate. The movement was a most singular one, because it was in face of the fact, as disclosed by private cables, that the price of metallic had fallen £2 in London on Tuesday. The quasi-official cable message was, however, absolutely silent on the subject of tin values.

The solid character of the demand for Barriers was shown by the fact that in the sales booked buyers had to spring from 53/6 to 53/9 for B.H. Norths, from £8/12/6 to £8/14/3 for B.H. Souths (contg.), from 36/ to 36/6 for B.H. Proprietary, and from 11/10½ to 12/3 for B.H. Junction North; whilst there was a sympathetic strengthening of the offers for B.H. Souths (paid), British (old), and Amalgamated Zinc. The declaration by the latter of a dividend of 1/ per share was the cause of the firmer call for the shares. This dividend means a distribution of £25,000, and will bring the total paid to the shareholders up to £500,000. New Burragorang again commanded solid support at prices on the upgrade.

Copper stocks were again forced into the background. The only sale booked was in Mount Morgans, but held a strong position, buyers having to pay an advance of 1/6. Both Hampdens and Mount Lyells were also in firm demand, but sellers quoted wide. Inquiries were also made for Mammoth Copper, Wallaroo and Moonta, and Mount Cuthbert, with sellers undeclared at both morning and noon calls. There was very little activity in gold stocks. Hawkins' Hill Reward sold on the easy side, on terms, but Black Range West were unobtainable at an advanced price.

Though the volume of business transacted in the afternoon was not quite so large as in the morning, nevertheless it was very good, and served to make a day's record that has not been equalled for months past. The demand for Eastern tin stocks eased off considerably. The same was the case with the offers of buyers, but sellers did not appear disposed to operate below the top rates of the day. "Short selling" did not appear to have started, the "bears" possibly being afraid of the metal market. Tin has the reputation of making big jumps forward as well as backwards, and that makes them frightened.

Judging by a continued forward movement in Carpathias (con.), and the fact that sales on "prompt" terms were booked at 12/6 and 13/, whilst "seller's risk" was also stipulated in some cases, seems to indicate that a "squeeze" is starting. Vegetable Creek, after starting at 3/6, and selling freely up to 3/8, came back to the original starting point.

Business on solid lines was again done in Barriers and New Burragorangs, whilst the gold division was represented by transactions in Black Range, West and Bullfinch Proprietary.

MINING NOTES.

According to our Bathurst correspondent, further promising-looking formations carrying molybdenite have been brought to light at Mount Tennyson, near Gemalla, on the western railway line. The new developments are said to be near Wade's original find, which was inspected and reported upon by a representative of the "Sydney Morning Herald" some weeks ago.

The smelting operations of the Cadia copper mine for the week ended July 4 are officially recorded as follows:—Ore treated for the week 781 tons gross weight, 673 net weight; copper matte produced 58.7 tons, containing 22.38 tons of copper, 23oz gold, and 234oz silver."

During June, the Commodore Gold Mine, Western Australia, crushed 690 tons for bullion valued at £875, and cyanided 390 tons of sand for gold worth £145, or a total of £1020. The slimes produced totalled 300 tons of an assay value of 10/6 per ton. The total expenditure was £1064.

GOLD YIELDS.

The gold yield recorded in this State for the month of June was 17,032oz crude, equal to 13,835oz fine, valued at £58,767, as compared with 14,642oz crude, equal to 12,342oz fine, valued at £52,424 for the same month in 1913.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

The gold returns for June show an increase of 526oz, or £2233 in avlue, as compared with those of June of last year.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The gold yield for June was 45,258oz gross, or 42,552oz fine, valued at £180,748. Compared with the return for the same month last year there was a decrease of 1753oz fine.

AMALGAMATED ZINC.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED, £500,000.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The following is the Amalgamated Zinc (Debavays, Ltd., return for the four weeks ended June 27:—Tailings treated 41,501 tons, zinc concentrates produced 12,142 tons, lead concentrates produced 163 tons, estimated income on working account from all sources £33,458, estimated profit on working account (taking spelter at £22 per ton) £8733, estimated income from investments (less all Melbourne and London charges) £1200, estimated net profit (spelter at £22) £9933, estimated net profit (with spelter at £21) £8291.

The company has declared a dividend of 1/ per share, payable on August 12. This will absorb £25,000, and will bring the amount of dividends paid up to £500,000—equal to the authorised capital of the company.

WEST AUSTRALIAN MINES.

SOME JUNE GOLD YIELDS.

KALGOORLIE, Wednesday.

South Kalgurli, 9359 tons, gold £10,882. Expenditure £9863.

Mararoa, 2600 tons, gold £4851.

Kalgurli, 10,530 tons, gold £21,564. Expenditure £12,268.

Associated, 10,500 tons, gold £11,888. Expenditure £11,317.

Lake View and Star, 17,723 tons, gold £20,646. Expenditure £17,110.

Mountain Queen, 3582 tons, gold £2674. Expenditure £2463.

AMALGAMATED HILL END.

The managing director reports for the month of June:—

Star of Peace Veins.—The tributors, Williams and party, are under-hand stoping principally on the footwall vein, and have crushed 31 tons for 45oz of gold. The company tried the Star of Peace veins further south between Nos. 1 and 2 crosscuts, crushing 16 tons for 4oz gold, which is not payable.

Star of Peace Blow.—Continued the rise on the footwall side, and a crushing of 12 tons yielded 12oz 10dwt, which is payable, although there is little gold showing in the rise at present.

Mica Vein.—The stope is now 80ft long, most of the gold coming from the north end, with the best gold in the centre, almost immediately above where the vein was first struck and the rich patch obtained. The last 5 tons crushed yielded only 19oz 3dwt, which is hardly payable, as the vein does not average 2in.

A crosscut has been put out west from the main level, cutting a vein 4in to 5in thick, carrying very little gold. We are now cutting a chamber 200ft north of the lower tunnel, preparatory to sinking the main shaft on the Star of Peace veins.

So much prospecting has now been done at the lower tunnel, and generally the results have been so disappointing, that the directors, on the advice of the mine manager, have decided to confine mining operations to the sinking of the new shaft, and the further opening up of the mica vein and the Star of Peace blow, and letting other parts of the mine to tributors.

Application was made during the month for exemption from labour conditions on the ground of the surplus labour the company has from time to time employed during the last two years; but as it was found impossible for this or any other gold mine in the State to comply with the clause 114, which should be known as the fool section of the N.S.W. Mining Act, the application was withdrawn, and another for partial suspension has been substituted.

Towards the end of the month two boys, playing a little distance from the mine, found a sugar bag containing 60 gold specimens. Unquestionably the stones had been taken from the mica vein. The specimens were handed over to the police, but so far no one has seen fit to claim ownership.

LIBERALISM.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

ELECTORAL ABUSES.

AMENDED LAW NECESSARY.

At the Manchester Unity Hall yesterday the sixth annual conference of the Liberal Association of New South Wales was commenced. The president, Mr. C. G. Wade, presided over a record attendance of delegates from all over the State. The delegates were welcomed by the president, who expressed the hope that the conference would be productive of good results.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Wade, who was received with enthusiasm, expressed his appreciation of the large attendance, despite the fact that the conference was held under disadvantageous conditions. The date had been fixed some months ago, in the hope of a clear field, to discuss all questions affecting the association But, unfortunately, they were now in the throes of the opening of the State Parliament, while the Federal elections were upon them. They would thus be unable to have the same freedom they previously enjoyed. Still, it was decided to be unwise to dispense with the conference; rather to keep it alive and moving, and hold the conference as arranged. (Applause.) This would call to Sydney many country delegates, and dislocate their Federal campaign. The association was very grateful for those who answered this double call on their activities.

ELECTORAL ABUSES.

"Last year," continued the president, "the organisation was active and energetic, and filled with strong anticipations of success at the State campaign. Victory was not with us. But the results were as surprising to the victors as to the vanquished. (Applause.) I do not want to find excuses for our failure in last December; all I want is to use the experience of the past as a useful lesson for the future. We Liberals have sufficient sportsmanlike spirit to take defeat, and attack the next campaign with the same heart and determination as ever. (Applause.) We have learned many lessons, bitter lessons sometimes, from the last campaign. We must guard against the abuses possible under the existing system. Our failure may have been due to incomplete organisation, the superior engineering qualities of our opponents. The Liberal party is in Opposition in the State, and in power in the Commonwealth, with the prospect of coming back for three years. (Applause.) The association is one body working in the two spheres. (Applause.)

"The time is appropriate to deal with certain aspects of the organisation in which loopholes exist for abuses, so that our work may be more effective than in the past. We may have organisation as complete as ever, and all the enthusiasm that can be desired, but unless we have a clean electoral system our efforts will be largely wasted. (Applause.) Nobody can meet all the disabilities unless there is some assistance given by a reasonable electoral law. Under the existing Federal system opportunities are created for abuses, which may lead to results in members being returned entirely out of accord with the verdict of the honestly qualified voters. There is always the difficulty that men and women may enrol without qualifications, or people with the qualification may enrol more than once. Unless the law lays down some safeguard to check these abuses it only requires a short step to the scandalous abuses which have scandalised public life in the United States. In Willoughby a list of 200 names was sent to the police for investigation and report, and 70 were disqualified, yet they did vote."

CLEAN ELECTORAL SYSTEM.

Looking at the facts as they were, they had to admit that abuses could exist, and they did exist, and as long as they continued they could not have a clean electoral system or safeguard the public against being defrauded at the ballot boxes. It was incumbent upon them while making these facts known, to take all reasonable steps which they could to procure checks and safeguards with regard to the voter. The organisation could do what it liked; it might make its greatest efforts, but without the assistance and reliance which could be placed on a clean roll their efforts would be nugatory." (Cheers.)

LIBERAL CLUBS.

Coming to the question of Liberal activity and the winning of membership, Mr. Wade outlined what was being done with regard to the establishment of Liberal clubs. He pointed out that it was useless to remain apathetic after an election until the next one arrived, and then endeavour to concentrate their election activities between the dates of an election. To check that apathy he pointed out that Liberal clubs had been established in three centres, one at Parramatta, another at Tamworth, and a third at Darlinghurst. At those places all classes of the community could meet and rub shoulders and discuss matters of mutual interest. He earnestly recommended all the delegates when they returned to their home centres to set to work to establish such clubs.

MAKING SELECTIONS.

The important question of the selection of Liberal candidates was next touched upon. Dealing with it, Mr. Wade said: "I have to say, with reluctance and with a sense of sorrow, that our system of selection, although on paper it is almost ideal, giving effect to the great principle of democracy, that the people themselves should make the choice of their Parliamentary candidates; yet, in practice, the results have worked out in many cases unfavourably to the system, and has led to disaster to the local electorates. (Cheers.) Owing, no doubt, to the fact that we are apt to sleep for a great part of the year, and endeavour to concentrate in a short period of time the efforts that should be extended over three years, there is a wild rush and scurry on the eve of the elections, and the various candidates use their best endeavours to increase the league's strength, and by a very simple process the evil is established of packing the leagues by the candidates concerned. The result is sharp practice and the engendering of ill-feeling before selection takes place, and when the elections come up there is an amount of soreness and ill-feeling which I regret to say at the last election had not been healed by polling day. This is traceable to the system of rushing in members at the last moment to strengthen the leagues for the purpose of selection. We do not get a clear reflex of local opinion, and often we have persons enrolled who are not Liberals, and, worst of all, we have the cry raised afterwards of partisanship against the successful candidate. The question has been inquired into by a committee appointed by the council. They have examined the system in operation, and as a result of their inquiries conference would be asked to discuss certain motions submitted by the council. In the first place, the council was not prepared to recommend the abolition of local selection. It realises that there are dangers attendant upon it, and that abuses have crept in, and suggests the raising of the number of members qualified to vote to 600. It also suggests that members qualified to vote should be members of a branch at least three months prior to the date of the election, and that, as far as practicable, all selections should be made three months prior to the expiration of Parliament. Other suggestions are also made, and I hope that they will be fully discussed, and that something better than the present system will be evolved, than the selection of candidates by a mere fraction of Liberals. The suggested modifications are in the direction of length of membership and increase of numbers, but the matter is in your own hands to safeguard us from the disputes of the last campaign."

TRUE DEMOCRATS.

"There will come up the question of the association. You will recollect that the association came into being 10 years ago, chiefly through the initiative of Sir Joseph Carruthers. It was then the Liberal and Reform Association, and protested against the extravagance of the Ministry then in power. When the Liberals left office, having completed the work of reform, the old title of Liberal was adopted. We are not ashamed of it. (Applause.) In the name of Liberalism have been fought all the battles for the blessings which have been won throughout the English-speaking world. (Applause.) There is a prejudice existing that the Liberals represent the big capitalists, and are hostile as a body to the people in the lower ranks of society. The young voter is told that here is a Labour Party representing higher wages and less work; with the alternative of the party which represents the trusts alone. It is hard to fight against this. Many people fight shy from our party, thinking it is too narrow. In the future there will be a readjustment of the parties. We are passing into an atmosphere of change, and gradually approaching the time when there will be a readjustment of the parties, and an alliance of the advanced Liberals and the moderates of Labour thought as against the wild schemes of socialism and revolution.

THE LINE OF CLEAVAGE.

"In process of time there will be the great dividing line. We should all be prepared for the new developments, and make our ranks wide and sympathetic, and open to all peoples of democratic views to join our ranks. It might be wise to extend the sphere of operations by adopting some term that is wider and may give that attraction to the great body of voters and enlist them on our side. (Applause.) The two suggestions are that the association shall be called the 'Liberal Democratic Association,' or the 'Association of the Democratic Party.' There is an institution called the 'Liberal Democratic Association,' and it is not desirable to be confused with them. My own views are that a more embracing term might suit the future adjustment of parties, though it might be well not to change the name during the course of the present Federal campaign, as it would lead to confusion. As for the present Federal campaign, every member here is sure to work as strongly for our Federal friends as they did for us at the State elections." (Applause.)

IMMIGRATION.

Mr. Wade then dealt with the necessity for immigration and the promise of the Prime Minister, Mr. Cook, to develop immigration on the widest and most active lines. He cited the case of Canada, where unbounded prosperity had followed a vigorous policy of immigration. Mr. Cook would in a few days put forward a policy which would appeal to the imagination of the great body of the people and stand the test of all hostile comment or criticism. (Applause.) At the next State conference a policy would be outlined to meet new developments and satisfy the new requirements of the State. After the experience of Labour rule there should be a reaction and a return to sane politics, and a replacement in power of the Liberal party, which stood for fairness, freedom, and progress. (Loud applause.)

The president read a letter from Sir Joseph Carruthers wishing success to the conference, urging the adoption of a bold and progressive policy of development. No party could afford to adopt a timid policy.

A vote of thanks to the president was carried with enthusiasm on the motion of Mr. E. E. Collins (Wagga), seconded by Mr. J. Sherman, of Moss Vale. The latter referred to the necessity for amalgamating the Farmers and Liberal forces.

GUARDING COUNTRY INTERESTS.

Replying to a vote of thanks and to certain remarks made by the seconder of the motion to the indefiniteness of the Liberal programme, Mr. Wade said: "I must protest to the statement that our policy in respect of country interests, railway duplication, and stock trains is not known. I would suggest that it would be a desirable thing for every country branch to be furnished with a copy of my policy speech, which was delivered last December. It is set down in clear terms, and any voter can see what was done in the past, and our intentions for the future. Our policy in regard to railway duplication and land settlement generally is clearly set out, and it is a complete answer to the charge of neglect which is levelled against us by our opponents. We have a policy, it is no use saying we have not. It is clear and definite, and can be seen in the planks of our platform and in the speech delivered only a few months ago. Our platform, I can say, has been modified and extended to meet the wants of a growing population and changing times.

"This gives me a chance," continued Mr. Wade, "to remove from the mind of anyone any doubt as to the work which we have done in the past. As to country interests, we spent in replenishing rolling stock an average of a million a year for three years. When the Labour party boasts of our neglect, all that they have done over an average of three years is to spend a few thousand pounds per annum more than we spent on that object. We are told that duplication was neglected by us. As soon as we realised that the existing railway system could not carry the traffic, we put duplication upon a new footing, and raised a special loan to be used for duplication alone. Those are the facts as they stand. They speak for themselves, and I hope that it will end in a way the complaints with regard to neglect of country interests."

SELECTING CANDIDATES.

On behalf of the council, Mr. Innes-Noad moved the adoption of the following report:—(1) The committee are not prepared to recommend the abolition of the system of local selection. (2) In order to provide against the possible abuse of local selection by packing the branches, the constitution should be amended to provide for—(a) Raising the minimum number of members qualified to vote for selection to 600. (b) That members qualified to vote for selection shall have been members three months prior to the date fixed for selection. (3) As far as practicable, all selections shall be made at least three months prior to the expiring of the existing Parliament.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Jessop, and provoked a long discussion. The suggestions were strongly criticised by various country members, particularly on the ground of the difficulty of securing the necessary membership. It was also suggested by different speakers that any large increase in membership would be unduly increasing the power of the executive.

It was finally agreed that the members of branches qualified to vote in electorates in the county of Cumberland should be 600, and that no increase should be made in the case of country electorates, their effective voting strength being allowed to remain at 300. The other clauses in the report were agreed to.

MURRUMBIDGEE SELECTION.

Mr. M'Kinney, of the Darlington Point branch, moved,—"That when a candidate has been selected by a duly-constituted electorate conference, the central executive should not reject him without first referring the matter back to the said conference."

He said that the motion was the outcome of the executive's action in regard to the Murrumbidgee electorate. He said that they considered that in the matter the executive had exceeded its powers, and the result was a general weakening of Liberalism throughout the electorate.

Mr. Culley, of the same branch, seconded the motion, and contended that the action of the executive was unconstitutional, and that before anything was done a man representing the executive should have been sent down to make inquiries and report upon the matter.

The vice-president, Mr. Garland, said it was quite possible the executive had made a mistake in its action. The position was that they probably acted unconstitutionally, but they were acting in conjunction with the Farmers and Settlers' Association in the selection of certain candidates. The Murrumbidgee electorate was one of the electorates affected, and it was a case in which the Liberal Association had to yield or to give instead of take.

The motion was withdrawn.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

From Baan Baa came a proposal, "that legislation be enacted rendering it unlawful for any person to hold a seat in Parliament who is pledged in such a manner that his oath as a member of Parliament may be brought into conflict with such pledge to any party or organisation." Mr. J. E. A. Florance submitted the motion, and acknowledged the virtue of a definite pledge to the electors on specific questions. But it was against constitutional ideals and the oath of members for any representative to be bound to support measures that they personally do not believe in. Some delegates thought the proposal idealistic and impracticable, others condemned the Labour caucus pledges, and emphasised the fact that the Liberal members were free to vote as conscience dictate. Finally, on the suggestion of Mr. Garland, the conference merely affirmed that such pledges were contrary to the best interests of the State.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Four of the runners in the Kensington Steeplechase to-day, viz., Pladda, Anacrion, Wadden, and Warrawoona, are engaged in the Grand National Steeplechase. Pladda, the winner, has incurred a 7lb penalty, but it is not certain that he will run in next Saturday's big event, as Mr. H. Alan Currie, who owns him, has an interest in Flash Jack, whose chance looks much better.

Anacrion, who ran second, is like Flash Jack, in the Mill Park stable. In the Grand National he has 10st 7lb, as against 11st, the weight he carried to-day. Anacrion has not so far turned out the success in open steeplechases that his form amongst hunters indicated he would.

Warrawoona failed to stay in the Kensington Steeplechase, and as Mr. E. Manifold, who owns him, has Coradjil engaged in the Grand National Steeplechase on Saturday, he may not start Warrawoona.

After the racing at Flemington to-day, Coradjil and Guncap were the horses mostly spoken of in connection with the Grand National Steeplechase, while others freely mentioned were Flash Jack and Icon.

TROUBLE ON A BRISBANE UNREGISTERED RACECOURSE.

AN OFFICIAL ASSAULTED.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

At the meeting of the Kedron Park Jockey Club to-day at Kedron, a suburb of Brisbane, the attendance was only moderate, and the fields small, as the outcome of the recent split in "unregistered" circles, arising out of a number of disqualifications in connection with racing on other unregistered tracks. During the afternoon, a large crowd of malcontents gathered on the "outer outer," and, in addition to abusing the loyal jockeys and the club's officials, broke on to the course and assaulted the caretaker, J. Carrolin, while he was removing the starting barrier. The official was maltreated, and marked about the face. Stone throwing was also indulged in.

VICTORIA RACING CLUB.

G.N. STEEPLECHASE MEETING.

SECOND DAY.

ARQUEBUSE WINS KEILOR HURDLE RACE.

PLADDA THE KENSINGTON STEEPLECHASE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The weather was dull, threatening, and cold for the second day of the V.R.C. Grand National Steeplechase meeting to-day, but the attendance was a very good one.

The Keilor Hurdle Race, which opened proceedings, attracted nine runners, and Hypo was always favourite; while Widden was the best backed of the others. Hypo and Widden were in front a long way from home, and they looked like fighting out the finish, but after crossing the last hurdle, Arquebuse took charge, and won easily by two lengths and a half from Widden; while Hypo was a moderate third. Arquebuse ran a bad race in the Grand National Hurdle Race on Saturday, but his owner was satisfied that he had not shown his true form on that occasion. He had not a Grand National field to beat to-day.

There were 15 starters for the Gooparl Welter, and Earl's Court was favourite; while Golden Rock and Gold Gift were also well backed. Peck o' Maut was responsible for the running, but at the distance he was passed by Golden Rock, who stalled off Onega to win by half a length.

Pladda was made favourite for the Kensington Steeplechase; while Anacrion was also in good demand. There was only one fall in the race, Don Q. coming down at the bridge when in the lead. Pladda then went to the front, and won easily by four lengths from Anacrion, who found the weight rather too much for him. Pladda is in the Grand National Steeplechase, a 7lb penalty bringing his weight up to 10st 10lb.

The Steeplechasers' Flat Race was reckoned a good thing for the Maiden Steeplechase winner, Sapper, who went out at 9 to 4; the South Australian, Kulcurna, being next in demand. Sapper went to the front at the straight entrance, but failed to see out the race, and Rosevale, taking command after passing the distance, won a good race by a neck from Rogue's March, who finished well on the rails under punishment.

There were only eight runners for the Braybrook Handicap. Marculfus opened a strong favourite, and eventually went out at 6 to 4. Sylvanmore was next in demand, and there was a lot of money for Jullundur. Our Fred made the pace, but Sylvanmore passed him at the distance, and won by a length and a half from Marculfus, who just beat Our Fred for second place. Sylvanmore is engaged in the Caulfield Cup at 8st 1lb, and the Melbourne Cup at 7st 13lb.

The day's racing concluded with the Amateur Flat Race. The favourites were Wishing Cap and Lord Grey, and they ran first and second, Lord Grey winning easily by a length. His owner, Mr. E. A. Connolly, backed him well, and no doubt got back the most of his Grand National Hurdle Race losses on him.

The details of the racing are appended:—

KEILOR HURDLE RACE, a handicap sweepstakes of 2 sovs each, with 250 sovs added, second horse to receive 50, and the third 25 sovs out of the stake.—2m.

Mr. E. Solomon's br g Arquebuse, by Pistol (imp.)—Birchen, aged, 11st 12lb (H. Campbell) ... 1
Mr. P. Phillips' blk g Widden, aged, 11st 5lb (A. Carter) ... 2
Mr. W. Moffatt's br g Hypo, aged, 11st 1lb (D. Coleman) ... 3

Other starters: Sandrift, 11st 9lb (Hawkins); Yandilla King, 10st 7lb (Cameron); Diabolo, 10st 3lb (Woods); Nimmie, 10st 1lb (Edwards); Andricula, 9st 7lb (O'Neill); Ralmara, 9st 11lb, inc. 11lb over (F. Burn).

Betting: 7 to 2 v Hypo, 5 to 1 v Widden, 7 to 1 v Ralmara, 8 to 1 each v Diabolo, Arquebuse, Nimmie, and Yandilla King.

Ralmara jumped the first hurdle from Hypo, but, passing the stand, the latter took command from Ralmara, Andricula, and Widden. This was the order along the back of the course, where Widden joined Hypo, and they carried on the running together six lengths in front of Andricula and Arquebuse. Widden led into the straight from Hypo and Arquebuse, but, after landing over the last hurdle, the latter took charge, and beat Widden by two and a half lengths, with Hypo five lengths off third; then came Ralmara and Sandrift, with Yandilla King last. Diabolo lost his rider. Time, 3m 52½s.

GOOPARL WELTER. A handicap sweepstakes of 2 sovs each, with 200 sovs added, second horse to receive 40, and the third 20 sovs out of the stake. 7f.

Mr. C. Wheeler's b g Golden Rock, by Gold Reef—Edith Cureton, 3yrs, 8st 4lb (E. Barker) ... 1
Mr. "S. A. Rawdon's" ch m Onega, 4yrs, 8st 4lb (W. Smart) ... 2
Mr. N. Falkiner's ch c Golden Goblet, 3yrs, 8st 2lb (G. Lambert) ... 3

Other starters: Kwasind, 10st 7lb (Lewis); Peck O' Maut, 10st 3lb (Andrews); Earl's Court, 9st 11lb (Fisher); Chiron's Faith, 9st 9lb (J. Campbell); Maltravers, all. 5lb, car. 9st 2lb (Hayes); Black Pan, 9st 5lb (O'Reilly); Sconser, 9st (Cooper); Gold Gift, 9st 1lb (Kelly); Belleville, 8st 8lb (Foulsham); Tip Top, 8st 6lb (R. Smart); Lady Langulac, 8st 4lb (G. Harrison); Lady Mooltan, 8st 2lb (Turner).

Betting: 9 to 4 v Earl's Court, 6 to 1 each v Golden Rock and Gold Gift, 10 to 1 v Onega, 12 to 1 each v Tip Top, Lady Mooltan, and Belleville, 20 to 1 v Golden Goblet.

Sconser was quickest away, but was immediately passed by Peck O' Maut, who showed the way to Sconser, Golden Goblet, Golden Rock, and Onega to the turn. Peck O' Maut came into the straight, attended by Golden Rock, Golden Goblet, and Onega; but, before reaching the distance, Golden Rock ran to the front, and, stalling off Onega in the run home, beat him by half a length, with a length between second and third. Lady Mooltan, Lady Langulac, and Gold Gift were next, and Kwasind last. Time, 1m 31s.

KENSINGTON STEEPLECHASE, a handicap steeplechase of 2 sovs each, with 300 sovs added, second horse to receive 60 and the third 30 sovs out of the stakes. About 2m.

Mr. H. Alan Currie's b g Pladda, by Donald—Dewdrop, aged, 10st 7lb (S. Neary) ... 1
Mr. H. Miller's b g Anacrion, 6yrs, 11st (T. Lambert) ... 2
Mr. T. Lambert's b m Trantbolt, 6yrs, 9st 9lb (L. Hagerty) ... 3

Other starters: Wadden, 10st 12lb (Woodburn); W.T.S., 10st 5lb (Gray); Fosterton, 10st 2lb (Hawkins); Wassaca, 10st 2lb (Bird); Don Q., 10st 2lb (Moore); Dan the Ranger, 10st (Agnew); Warrawoona, 9st 11lb (Edwards); Southerly, 9st 5lb, inc. 2lb over (Connolly); The Manager, 9st 3lb (Leahy).

Betting: 3 to 1 v Pladda, 9 to 2 v Anacrion, 7 to 1 v Don Q., 8 to 1 each v Fosterton, Warrawoona, and Wassaca, 15 to 1 each v Southerly and Trantbolt.

Warrawoona made the running, from Don Q., Anacrion, and Pladda, to the bridge, where Pladda ran to the front, and was not afterwards headed, winning easily by four lengths from Anacrion, who beat Trantbolt by 15 lengths; then came Warrawoona, W.T.S., and Fosterton, with Wassaca last. Don Q. fell. Time, 4m 12½s.

STEEPLECHASERS' FLAT RACE, a handicap sweepstakes of 2 sovs each, with 200 sovs added, second horse to receive 40, and the third 20 sovs out of the stake.—2m.

Messrs. T. Hull and J. Nicol's blk h Rosevale, by Warpaint—Miss Marion, aged, 10st 7lb (J. Edwards) ... 1
Mr. H. Miller's b g Rogue's March, aged, 10st 9lb (W. V. Cooke) ... 2
Mr. R. McMicking's b g Sapper, 6yrs, 9st 7lb (A. Hawkins) ... 3

Other starters: The Miser, 11st 3lb (Cairns); Kulcurna, 10st 12lb (Hale); V.M.R., 10st (Agnew); Drumance, 9st 12lb (F. Burn); Blank Cartridge, 9st (Mortimer); Terga, 9st (Amson); Hawthorne, 9st (Boag); Statecraft, 9st 4lb, inc. 4lb over (J. Burns); Bardolph, 9st (G. Thomas).

Betting: 9 to 4 v Sapper, 9 to 2 v Kulcurna, 6 to 1 v Rogue's March, 7 to 1 v The Miser, 12 to 1 v Blank Cartridge, 15 to 1 v Rosevale.

When they had settled down, Statecraft led past the stand from Rosevale, Hawthorne, Bardolph, and Sapper. Statecraft was well in front along the river side, with Rosevale, Bardolph, Hawthorne, and Blank Cartridge following. At the back of the course, Rosevale took the lead from Hawthorne, Statecraft, and Sapper. Rosevale was first into the straight, from Sapper, Hawthorne, and Rogue's March. At the distance Sapper and Rosevale were together, but, at the half distance, Rosevale was in the lead, and had to hold his own against a vigorous finish by Rogue's March, who was beaten by a neck, with Sapper four lengths off, third; then came Kulcurna, The Miser, and Terga, with Blank Cartridge last. Time, 3m 45s.

BRAYBROOK HANDICAP, a sweepstakes of 3 sovs each, with 300 sovs added, second to receive 60, and third 30 sovs, out of the stake. 1¼m.

Mr. J. Morrissey's b or blk g Sylvanmore, by Sylvanito—Biddy Moriarity, 4yrs, 9st 5lb (J. Reagans) ... 1
Mr. K. S. Macleod's br c Marculfus, 3yrs, 8st 3lb (G. Lambert) ... 2
Mr. V. Castle's b g Our Fred, 5yrs, 6st 10lb, inc. 3lb over (J. O'Reilly) ... 3

Other starters: Hamburg Belle, 8st 5lb (Accola); Golden Point, 7st 10lb (Cooper); Jullunder, all. 5lb, car. 7st 5lb (Hull); Coronatus, all. 3lb, car. 6st 7lb (Davis); Brazil, 6st 7lb (Renny).

Betting: 6 to 4 v Marculfus, 7 to 2 v Sylvanmore, 5 to 1 v Jullundur, 8 to 1 v Hamburg Belle, 15 to 1 v Our Fred.

As they ran along the riverside Our Fred went out for a lead, and was six lengths in front of Brazil, Sylvanmore, and Coronatus, passing the bridge. Our Fred was still out in front at the back of the course, when Sylvanmore was running next, then came Marculfus and Brazil. Our Fred led round the turn and into the straight from Sylvanmore, but the latter passed him at the distance, and won by a length and a half from Marculfus, who beat Our Fred by a neck for second place; then came Coronatus and Jullundur, with Brazil last. Time, 2m 39¼s.

AMATEUR FLAT RACE, a handicap sweepstakes of 2 sovs each, with 200 sovs added, second horse to receive 40, and the third 20 sovs, out of the stake; for amateur riders. 1½m.

Mr. A. E. Connelly's g g Lord Grey, by Friar Tuck (imp.)—Lady in Grey, 5 or 6 yrs, 10st 8lb (Mr. B. Price) ... 1
Messrs. J. Mills and P. T. Heywood's ch c Wishing Cap, 3yrs, all. 7lb, car. 10st 2lb (Mr. C. Morton) ... 2
Mr. A. M'Cracken's b g Tardy, 5yrs, 10st 9lb (Mr. A. L. M'Cracken) ... 3

Other starters: Abbey Craig, 10st 5lb (Mr. J. Montgomery); Boulogne, 9st 7lb (Mr. S. Quinn); Avenger, 9st 8lb (Mr. E. Reid); Problematic, 9st (Mr. W. Everest); Discard, 9st (Mr. M. Dean); Stephanos, 9st 8lb, inc. 8lb over (Mr. G. Watkins); Wyneth, 9st 3lb, inc. 3lb over (Mr. G. Faulkiner).

Betting: 7 to 4 v Wishing Cap, 5 to 2 v Lord Grey, 5 to 1 v Abbey Craig, 10 to 1 each v Problematic and Boulogne, 15 to 1 each v Avenger and Tardy.

Wyneth led to the hedge from Problematic and Avenger, and this was the order to the back of the course. Coming round the turn, Abbey Craig and Tardy were together, just in front of Wishing Cap and Lord Grey. Abbey Craig was first into the straight, but he dropped out before the distance was reached, leaving Lord Grey in command, and he beat Wishing Cap by a length, with Tardy three lengths off third; then came Avenger, Boulogne, Abbey Craig, and Problematic. Time, 2m 15¼s.

VICTORIA PARK RACING CLUB.

SMALL FIELDS.

There was a fair attendance at yesterday's pony and galloway meeting held at the Victoria Park racecourse. The card showed 171 entries for the seven races, but liberal scratchings reduced the number to 44. Seven ponies and half a dozen jockeys from Victoria took part in the meeting.

The Victoria Park Handicap was won easily by Battleship. Details:—

Flying Handicap of 80 sovs, second 7, and third 3 from the prize, 6f.—H. Miller's blk g Cashier, by Merv (imp.)—Olive, 4 years, 7st 9lb, inc. 2lb over (R. Henderson), 1; H. WINTER MEETING.

SECOND DAY.

BLACK PRINCE WINS WINTER HANDICAP.

TAMWORTH, Wednesday.

The Tamworth Jockey Club's winter meeting was concluded to-day. Results:—

Flying Handicap, 6f.—R. S. White's br m Lucille, 5yrs, 9st (Woods), 1; Jno. Borthwick's br m Plantain, 5yrs, 8st 12lb (Maher), 2; H. Berry's b c Voladri, 6yrs, 8st 8lb (Winters), 3. Other starters: Ayr Girl, 8st 12lb; Valda, 7st 3lb. Betting: 5 to 4 v Voladri, 2 to 1 v Ayr Girl, 5 to 1 v Plantain, 5 to 1 v Lucille, 10 to 1 v Valda. Won by half a length, a head between second and third. Time, 1m 15½s.

Moonbi Handicap, 6f.—J. L. Cushan's ch m Lochladis, 5yrs, 7st 11lb (Read), 1; A. Hooke's br m Bundera, 4yrs, 7st 7lb (Brooks), 2; J. H. Prince's b m Comblee, 3yrs, 8st 8lb (Woods), 3. Other starters: Lonou, 9st; Equipage, 8st 10lb; Queen Rice, 8st 6lb; Sir Charge, 8st 6lb; Stealster, 7st 12lb; My Mimer, 7st 8lb; Merry Devil, 7st; Silver Step, 7st 10lb; Metz, 7st. Betting: 2 to 1 v Comblee, 4 to 1 v Equipage, 6 to 1 each v Queen Rice and Sir Charge, 8 to 1 v Lonou, 20 to 1 v Lochladis. Lochladis ran home an easy winner by four lengths from Bundera, who beat Comblee by a length. Time, 1m 16½s.

Winter Handicap, 1m 1f.—H. R. Munro's blk g Black Prince, aged, 8st 9lb (Maher), 1; Britten Bros.' br g Holy Smoke, 3yrs, 8st 2lb (Woods), 2; H. Berry's b g Voladri, 6yrs, 8st 5lb (Winters), 3. Other starter: Mater. Betting: Even money on Holy Smoke, 7 to 4 v Black Prince, 6 to 1 v Voladri, 10 to 1 v Mater. Holy Smoke took up the running when the barrier was released, and led Black Prince and Voladri, with Mater bringing up the rear. Holy Smoke continued in the van past the six furlongs post from Black Prince and Voladri, with Mater still at the tail end. The same order was maintained past the half-mile post, but at the turn Black Prince closed on the favourite, and although the latter battled on gamely, the old horse was too good, and won by a neck, with Voladri two lengths away third. Time, 1m 59s.

Welter Handicap, 7f.—A. Gilmore's Iriwilbin, aged, 9st (Thompson), 1; H. G. H. Read's Renkerna, 5yrs, 9st 12lb (Garrity), 2; N. Read's Ruelax, 3yrs, 8st (Quigley), 3. FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

ARRIVAL OF NEW ZEALANDERS.

The New Zealand Rugby Union team arrived in Sydney yesterday morning.

The visitors are a heavy, free-moving team, eleven of whom were members of the New Zealand team that won all its games in America last season, and scored 610 points to 6.

Mr. R. M. Isaacs, the manager, said that all the players are in good condition, and are thoroughly representative of New Zealand Rugby.

Roberts, the captain, is one of the trickiest three-quarters ever produced in the Dominion; Lynch is a heavy and speedy wing, who has a phenomenal scoring record. At five-eighths Black is very speedy and tricky, and the rest of the backs are quite up to New Zealand's best standard. The forwards are a good combination, and should do exceedingly well.

Mr. J. R. Henderson presided at the official reception at the Rugby Union rooms, and said he was pleased to welcome the New Zealanders, who were regarded everywhere as the leading exponents of the game. The visit of the All Blacks to England had brought about a revival in Rugby there, and it was expected that the Union game would come into its own again here.

Mr. C. G. Wade, M.L.A., who was introduced as an ex-representative player, both of England and New South Wales, also welcomed the visitors. He was glad to see that the old spirit of playing for the love of the game was still dominant. Mr. H. Y. Braddon also spoke.

Mr. R. M. Isaacs (manager) and Mr. "Dick" Roberts (captain of the visiting team) responded.

MANLY CLUB ON TOUR.

Arrangements have been completed for the members of the first grade Rugby Union team to visit the North-Western Union for a 10-days' tour. The party will consist of 20 players, and a manager (Mr. Frank O'Grady). The team will leave Sydney on Friday, and will play the North-Western Union at Inverell on Saturday. On Wednesday a match will be played at Tingha against Tingha and Bundarra combined, and a return match at Inverell will be played on Saturday, the 18th inst.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

The N.S.W. F.A., at its monthly council meeting, awarded the first League game played at Campsie on May 9 to Canterbury. Granville has now appealed to a special general meeting to be held on the 20th inst.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP.

The draw for the second round into which the South Coast representatives have been placed is:—Holroyd v Newtown, or Canterbury, Y.C.M.A. v Lithgow Thistle, Royal Navy v Corrimal, Balmain v Scarborough or Life Savers, Granville and Sydney, byes.

PLAYER'S RECORD.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

Dowling, of the West Adelaide Rover Club, who established a record by playing in 100 consecutive league games of football, was presented with a gift by the club on Saturday.

"THE LOST ART OF WHEELING THE SCRUM."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Now that the New Zealanders are here once more with the old seven pack system, the question arises, "Is 'wheeling' a lost art in Australian football?" Since the introduction of our present eight pack system how many teams have tried to perfect this art—one of, if not the, most effective features of forward play? In the former system there is one lock man who controls the whole pack; he can retain possession of the ball once it has been won, and wheel at will. In the latter the wheel rests mainly with both outside front-row men, both second-row and the lock man, and unless these players work thoroughly in unison the result is ineffective. The best exhibitions of wheeling with the eight pack, in fact, one might say the only one, were given us by the English team of 1899, the whole of whose attack practically emanated from that source. As a method of attack the wheel is ideal; if properly effective the ball comes out while the wheel is in motion, the half-backs are thoroughly protected, and the forwards being on the move in the direction of attack, are able to get free and support their backs. As a method of defence it is really the only sound one—the wheel to the nearest boundary with the whole pack coming away in a bunch with the ball at toe.

It will, no doubt, be found that New Zealand will "wheel" or "screw" frequently, and the only way to check it is for the back row winger at once to throw himself against the feet of the opposing pack, and the weight behind will cause it to collapse. This must be done without hesitation, and before the ball has a chance to get clear. I know how hard it is to train an eight pack to wheel effectively, and when changes in the personnel of the team are being constantly made it is hopeless. I trust, however, that our representatives on Saturday will show that they have received due coaching in this effective, but, alas, now nearly lost art. I am, etc., C. H. SHORTLAND.

CYCLING.

EASTERN SUBURBS CLUB.

The Eastern Suburbs Club will hold a test race behind pace on Saturday, July 18, to aid the selectors in picking a team to represent the club in the inter-club premiership contests.

The following are the handicaps for the half-mile race on home trainers, to be held at the club rooms this evening:—J. P. O'Farrell, scr; R. A. Wagschall, 1s; E. F. Byron, A. E. Stewart, A. E. Clark, 2s; H. M. C. Adams, 3s; H. W. Wilthew, 4s; C. Ebsworth, E. S. Skinner, S. Light, 5s; N. Amiee, H. Cosgrove, H. Neasby, P. Worth, A. Barter, W. Bryce, R. G. Manning, 6s; T. W. Wilson, A. H. Hising, W. Halloway, 7s; A. Batchelor, R. Batchelor, 8s; P. E. Wootten, H. Gordon, 8s; W. Flynn, 9s; R. Wilthew, 10s.

Post entries will be received.

NEWTOWN CLUB.

At a meeting of the Newtown Club on Tuesday evening the following were elected members:—D. Charlesworth, T. Benstead, H. N. M'Farlane, W. R. Quartly, C. L. Smith, J. C. Lewry, and C. Dunphy.

A run will be held in conjunction with the City Club to Yarra on July 19. A programme of sports and a football match will be held on arrival.

A 20 miles' road race will be held over the Bunnerong-road course on Saturday, July 18. Entries will close 11th inst.

ENFIELD-BURWOOD CLUB.

The Enfield-Burwood Club will hold a week-end test race, starting from Ireland's, at 9.15 a.m.

INTERCLUB CYCLING ASSOCIATION.

A road race for members of the Interclub Cycling Association will be held over the Canterbury-road course on Saturday afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock.

SOUTH SYDNEY CLUB.

At a special meeting of the South Sydney Club on Tuesday evening it was unanimously decided not to affiliate the club with the League of New South Wales Wheelmen.

The following road fixtures were arranged:—

August 1, Parramatta to Penrith.
August 15, Parramatta to Windsor.
August 29, Parramatta to Penrith.
September 12, Ashfield to Campbelltown.

These events will be open to members of the Inter-club Cycling Association of New South Wales. The prize list for the first race to Penrith will be announced next week.

The club's headquarters have been removed to 161 Walker-street, Redfern.

I.C.C.A. ADMINISTRATION.

The Inter-club Cycling Association council meets at Binnie's-buildings, George-street, this evening, at 7.30.

CENTRAL CUMBERLAND CLUB.

The Central Cumberland Cycling Club will hold a 10 miles members' handicap at Parramatta on Saturday afternoon. The handicaps are as follows:—S. Patterson, E. C. Cowell, scr.; F. C. Doody, 30s; W. Hillsdon, 40s; C. H. Tunbridge, 1m 10s; W. C. Collins, C. N. Jenkins, J. Smith, 1m 20s; G. D. A. Coventry, R. Patterson, W. Young, 1m 30s; T. G. Jones, 1m 40s; J. Keppie, 1m 50s; W. A. Davis, 2m; C. H. Higgs, 2m 10s; J. N. Doody, 2m 20s; D. Graham, 2m 30s; R. C. Parkes, K. Wall, A. Eyles, 2m 40s; L. Banks, W. S. Smith, 2m 50s; S. Woolland, 3m; C. Alexander, 3m 20s; A. Lewis, 3m 40s; J. Small, 4m; A. A. Carter, S. Beevors, 4m 30s.

MANLY CLUB.

The Manly Bicycle Club will hold a 20-mile road race over the Brookvale-Narrabeen course on Saturday.

FEDERAL COUNCIL MEETING.

MOTION RESCINDED.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The drastic step taken by the delegates of the various States and New Zealand to the Australasian Federal Cycling Council in deciding to recognise the Inter-club Cycling Association as the governing body of cycle racing in Victoria, brought matters to a crisis. But, owing to the meeting breaking up in disorder through the conference being held at the rooms of the Melbourne Bicycle Club, one of the bodies constituting the League of Victorian Wheelmen, the business was not completed, and having taken legal advice, it was necessary to again call a meeting of the Federal Cycling Council as it originally stood.

The delegates met to-day, when, after some discussion, it was decided to rescind the motion and reopen the whole question. The delegates from the Inter-club Cycling Association were admitted, and Harry Allen, the president, explained the position from the association's point of view. After a protracted discussion, the conference agreed to recognise as the Victorian governing body, what practically will be the ruling committee composed of eight representatives each from the Inter-club Cycling Association and League of Victorian Wheelmen. The League's delegate to the conference thought that his council would agree to that arrangement, and representatives of the I.C.C.A., while in favour of the proposition personally, would not altogether commit themselves, but would lay the whole matter before the board of management to-morrow. The council elected E. R. Larkin, M.L.A. (N.S.W.) as chairman for the ensuing term, and H. M. Mackay (N.S.W.) secretary; and fixed the second Monday in July, 1917, as the date for the next triennial conference.

BILLIARDS.

STATE AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

The draw for the New South Wales amateur championship took place yesterday. The four best players were drawn in opposition to each other in the preliminary round, which consists of four heats and a bye, secured by Mr. G. Bell. The preliminary heats are 1000 up, with 500 for each session. All the games take place at night at Heiron and Smith's Hall, Castlereagh-street, commencing on July 20, with bonzoline balls. The draw is as follows:—

First Round.

First heat, July 20 and 21: G. B. Shaller (holder) v H. A. Rumball. Second heat, July 22-23: J. A. Bottomley v E. H. Griffith. Third heat, July 24 and 27: J. R. Hooper v A. G. Fay.

Semi-finals.

First heat, July 28 and 29: Winner of the Bottomley Griffith heat v winner of second heat. Second heat, July 30 and 31: Winner of first heat v G. Bell.

The final takes place on August 3 and 4.

WALTER LINDRUM'S MOVEMENTS.

Walter Lindrum, the champion boy billiardist of Australia, will play exhibition matches at the Olympia Rooms, Woollahra, this evening, at Tattersall's Club on Friday evening, and at City Tattersall's Club probably on Saturday evening.

TATTERSALL'S CLUB TOURNAMENT.

Last night's game resulted:—W. Kelso (rec. 90) beat J. T. Buchanan (rec. 100) by 61.

To-night's games are:—P. Glenister (rec. 115) v Lindsay (rec. 90), Zeno (rec. 60) v E. Stanton (rec. 130).

CITY TATTERSALL'S CLUB TOURNAMENT.

The following games were decided last night:—G. Davis (rec. 100) beat A. Price (rec. 110) by 58. "Mordialloc" (rec. 70) beat R. Foster (rec. 115) by 61.

The games for to-night are:—W. Johnson (rec. 70) v E. J. Jago (rec. 90); A. Herman (rec. 70) v J. Burton (rec. 80).

MARKERS' TOURNAMENT.

The above was continued last night at the parlours of Heiron and Smith, Ltd. A. Connor (rec. 240) beat A. Phillips (rec. 250) by 71; H. Strudwick (rec. 225) beat G. Lee (rec. 170) by 57.

The games for to-day in the third round are:—3 p.m., A. J. Smith (rec. 225) v G. Durham (rec. 255); 3 p.m., H. Kent (rec. 270) v W. Ellson (rec. 295); 7.30 p.m., T. Donnelly (rec. 285) v —; 8 p.m., A. E. Wood (rec. 145) v J. Whyowski (rec. 275).

FRED LINDRUM v TOM REECE.

The match between Fred Lindrum, champion of Australia, and Tom Reece, the well-known English exponent of the art, 18,000 up, was continued yesterday afternoon at Billiards, Ltd.'s, room, Brickfield-hill.

Both men played well during the afternoon session, Reece compiling breaks of 225, 215, 95, and 89, and Lindrum 194, 168, 80, 74, and 61. The Englishman did most of his scoring by means of nursery cannons, which he executed in his inimitable style, though at times he got his points through the aid of splendid all-round play. Lindrum obtained his breaks by means of open play. The scores at the end of the session were:—

Lindrum (in play)	3595
Reece	3568

In the evening Reece played a better game than his opponent, again scoring well with nursery cannons, his principal breaks being 207, 123, 113, 86, and 62, while Lindrum compiled breaks of 66, 59, 52, and 50. He relied mainly on open play, though he registered the 52 break principally through the aid of a fine series of nursery cannons. The scores at the conclusion of the evening session were:—

Reece (in play)	4501
Lindrum	4090

The match will be continued till the 18th inst.

NATIONAL CLUB TOURAMENT.

Results of last night's games were as follow:—D. Lawson (rec. 135) beat A. Carrick (rec. 100) by 22.

F. Rothwell (rec. 125) beat C. Lewis (rec. 120) by 9.

To-night's games:—W. Logan (rec. 150) v R. Brockey (rec. 105); W. Noake (rec. 115) v D. Hart (rec. 50).

BOXING.

TO-DAY'S STADIUM MATINEE.

An unusually large house is expected at the Stadium matinee to-day, when both Milburn Saylor and Joe Shugrue, the two boxers who are to meet on Saturday night, will make an appearance. Both are to give displays of training and boxing. This will be Saylor's first appearance in the ring since he broke down, and he was forced to go to the mountains to recuperate. He is now thoroughly recovered, and back to his best form. Shugrue has been in splendid condition ever since his first contest here, when he knocked out Herb M'Coy in the 15th round of a most exciting contest. He has never slackened off in his training, and has been doing wonderful work in his training camp at North Bondi. These two are the best of the American lightweights now in Australia, and this contest between them will probably be the precursor of a match between Saylor and Alf Lewis.

FEDERAL CAMPAIGN.

PRIME MINISTER AT MASCOT.

The Prime Minister addressed a large gathering of electors in support of the candidature of the Rev. S. D. Yarrington at the Mascot School of Arts last night.

The Mayor (Alderman T. H. Hicks) presided, and was supported by Mr. Geo. Moss, president, and Mr. A. Annabel, secretary of the Mascot Liberal League. Mr. Cook's speech was at times punctuated by interruptions from a small group of Labourites, but his return fire proved most popular even with the friends of the interjectors.

The Prime Minister said that he hoped to enlist their sympathies and their votes for Mr. Yarrington. The Liberal party was fortunate in securing such a candidate. The propaganda on which they were engaged was in no way antagonistic to the working man of Australia. The story had been circulated that he was out to smash unionism. He would despise himself if that were true.

Mr. Yarrington, who was well received, briefly stated his policy, and asked for a clean fight.

A vote of confidence in the candidate and the Liberal party was carried.

MISS MAUD ALLAN INDISPOSED.

Miss Maud Allen met with a slight mishap on Tuesday night, which has necessitated her closing the Palace Theatre until Saturday night. In the meantime, she is compelled to rest. In the "Vision of Salome," at the point where she reels to embrace the head, her foot slipped on the stage floor, which caused her to fall on her right knee, and for the moment put out the cartilage. After a night of suffering, she consulted Sir Alexander MacCormick, who advised that, though the injury was quite trivial, it was imperative that Miss Allan should not attempt to dance for a few days.

FROM THE ISLANDS.

The Union Company's steamer Tofua, from Samoa, Tonga, and Fiji, was off the Heads at 1.30 this morning.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE ALEXANDER WATSON RECITALS.

In his recital at St. James's Hall on Tuesday night Mr. Alexander Watson departed from his customary rule by giving portions of Shakespeare's "Macbeth," and devoting the second half of the evening to selections from Kipling, instead of giving the tragedy in its entirety. The Kipling items were included in the programme in response to many requests. Mr. Watson gave all the principal scenes from "Macbeth," and in this way the necessary sequence was preserved. The rendering held the audience spell-bound. The scenes included the murder, the death of Macbeth, and the scene with the drunken porter. During the second part of the evening Mr. Watson gave several Kipling numbers, including "The Bell Buoy," "Lichtenberg," "If—," "The Hump," and Mr. W. Jacobs' "The Rule of Three."

Mr. A. Watson gave a successful matinee recital at the Concordia Hall yesterday. The first half of the programme was occupied by excerpts from Shakespeare, beginning with the famous scene before Agincourt, in which Henry V. rebukes his cousin Westmoreland for wishing for more men, exulting that the glory of the day will be shared only by "we few, we happy few, we band of brothers." Finely delivered as the long and exacting speech was, Mr. Watson was no less happy in his delightful rendering of the Dogberry scenes from "Much Ado," in which the various characters moved almost visibly before a background of laughter. A series of poems by Calverley, Longfellow, Noyes, Russell Lowell, and James Payn, including a stirring declamation of Tennyson's "The Revenge," completed an enjoyable programme.

HAROLD BAUER.

Mr. Harold Bauer's seventh recital is announced to take place in the Concordia Hall this evening, the Town Hall not being available. His programme will include Schumann's "Faschingsschwank," Beethoven's Sonata in C minor, op. 111., Brahm's Rhapsody in G minor, and Debussy's "Children's Corner" suite.

"A TALE OF OLD JAPAN."

"Tale of Old Japan" was ably interpreted last evening by the Mosman Musical Society in their final concert for the season at the Warringa Hall, Neutral Bay. The cantata delighted the audience, which was of such dimensions that the hall was scarcely adequate. A large orchestra, well controlled and directed by Mr. A. H. Norman, and led by Mr. W. J. Grieves, supported, and was supported by a chorus of male and female voices, in which, for once, the latter were, if anything, the stronger and more pleasing of the two. Of the principals, especial praise must be given to Miss Dorrie Ward (mezzo) and the baritone, Mr. John Greene. Miss Emily Hutchinson-Cooper, who fulfilled the part of the soprano, displayed a voice of pleasurable quality. The second half of the programme included selections from "Ernani," by Miles. Hutchinson-Cooper, Dorrie Ward, and Messrs. H. Saxon, Albert French, John Greene, L. Herford, E. Herford, and M. Wellington, and selections from "Un Ballo in Maschera," by Mr. John Greene and others, supported by the chorus. The "Oberon" overture and Gounod's "Hymne a Sainte Cecile" were also rendered by the orchestra.

Unequalled and Invincible for Coughs and Colds: Woods' Great Peppermint Cure. 1/6.—Advt.

POLO.

DUDLEY CUP CARNIVAL.

BEATEN TEAMS MATCHES.

The opening rounds of the Adrian Knox Cup, for the teams defeated in the first two rounds of the Dudley Cup, were contested at Kensington Racecourse yesterday. An extremely cold southerly wind made matters unpleasant, and interfered with the attendance, which was much smaller than on previous days. The playing area benefited considerably, as the drying wind set the surface well, although it was a trifle bumpy in places. The slippery ground on the previous days had been responsible for numerous falls, and unfortunately some of the spills resulted in several players being unable to play for the rest of the games. W. P. Lawler, who had three ribs broken on Saturday, is compelled to stand out of the Glen Innes team, his place being taken to-day by J. Sinclair. The accident that befel Eric Mackellar in the Harden-Scone match resulted in him receiving slight concussion of the brain, and Clive Mackay was called upon to fill the vacant place in the northern team. Although Duncan Robertson, of Narrandera, played for the major portion of the game against Harden with a bad injury to his ribs, he will be a spectator for the rest of the carnival, and the southern men have secured Jas. Perry, of Narromine, to make up the four. A very ugly fall occurred on Tuesday in the last match, when the pony ridden by V. S. Allen, of Cooma, rolled right over, landing on top of her rider, who for the moment was completely out of sight under his mount. A bad accident was feared but when the pony struggled clear, Allen bounced up like a ball, and was the first of the two to regain his feet. It was a wonderful escape, and the manner in which Allen played afterwards was a tribute to the hardiness of the man from Snowy River. The Muswellbrook A team have also been unfortunate, as since their game against Cooma, the skipper of the team, Harold White, has been confined to his bed by a bad attack of lumbago; and it is doubtful if he will be able to play against Harden in the semi-final to-day. If such prove to be the case, it practically extinguishes Muswellbrook's chance of winning the Cup; as the loss of their clever captain will be irreparable. It is hoped on all sides that Harold White will be able to take his place on the field, as it is generally conceded that the Hunter River team will take a lot of beating.

The handicappers did their work well, and very close contests resulted. Glen Innes (scratch) tried conclusions with Sydney B. (4 goals), but did not secure the lead until the sixth period. Sydney B. did not play up to the form that they displayed against Muswellbrook B.; and the score against them would have been much larger but for the goal-hitting of the Glen Innes team being lamentably misdirected. One goal only separated the teams at the close. Warren (2 goals), then played Mindaribba (10 goals), and a most exciting contest was witnessed. Warren drew level in the fourth period, and looked like winning easily, but Mindaribba played up splendidly, and prevented any further score. The teams being level at the final bell, an extra period was played, and E. S. Kater hit a goal for Warren, giving his side a win. On paper, Muswellbrook B. (1 goal), and Scone (3 goals), looked like providing a close game, but Muswellbrook B always had the better of it, and won comfortably. Their victory was due to fine combined work and the generalship of their veteran skipper, E. R. White.

GLEN INNES v SYDNEY B.

Glen Innes: H. F. White (back), A. M. White (3), J. F. White, captain (2), J. Sinclair (1).

Sydney B: A. W. Turnbull, captain (back), H. C. Home (3), J. L. Merivale (2), R. O. Middleton (1).

Umpires: Messrs. Rowley Munro and Norman Nivison.

The final scores were:—Glen Innes (scratch), 6 goals 22 behinds; Sydney B (4 goals start), 5 goals 7 behinds.

Interesting play was witnessed in the first period, the first score coming from the mallet of Fred White, who executed a fine run down the field, and put through the posts. Sydney were not long in opening their account, as Home secured at half-way, and, with a couple of perfectly-executed nearsiders, made a splendid opening, the ball travelling within a yard of the posts. From the ensuing rush, Sydney should have scored; but after some ineffectual attempts Archie White saved by hitting well down the field. Sydney came again, and this time Middleton raised the red flag. Glen Innes did the great part of the attacking throughout the second period, and had much the better of the second period, but were very lax in their striking when near goal, and no further score was registered until the third period was entered upon; then good work was rewarded, Archie White with an easy chance scoring. Glen Innes kept the ball in Sydney's territory for the whole of the period; but could do no more than a total of behinds. A splendid piece of play by Fred White opened the fourth period, and [illegible] worked into scoring position, but Home sent it into touch with a clever backhander. In the fifth period play by Glen Innes became rather monotonous, until Archie White scored from the ruck, and brought the score up to four goals. In the fifth period Glen Innes drew level, Sinclair hitting a goal after the ball had bounded from the posts from a shot from Fred White. Twice in this period good combination [illegible] came in contact with the posts, and several other misdirected hits went for behinds. Sydney had done practically nothing for four periods; but in the sixth they sparkled up and played in much better style. A good run by Merivale gave Home a chance, but his shot hit the posts and rebounded. Glen Innes then put in a combined effort, and Fred White and Sinclair clinched the effort with a fine goal, placing his side in the lead. The last period was very desultory, and the final bell rang on a disappointing game, with the scores Glen Innes (scratch), 6 goals 22 behinds; Sydney (4 goals), 5 goals 7 behinds.

WARREN v MINDARIBBA.

Warren: F. C. Kater (back), E. D. Kater, captain (3), E. S. Kater (2), R. R. Agnew (1).

Mindaribba: C. H. Granville, captain (back), W. H. Mackay (3), J. J. Mackay (2), S. B. Capper (1).

Umpires: Messrs. H. W. Stevenson and G. C. Mack.

The game finished: Warren (2 goals) 11 goals 16 behinds; Mindaribba (10 goals) 10 goals 12 behinds.

Warren opened with dashing play, and in the first two periods they reduced the handicap by half. Two more goals in the third period made it appear certain for the western men, and in the fourth they drew level. Mindaribba were playing well, but were handicapped owing to H. Mackay having ricked his arm early in the game, and their team was, therefore, practically equal to his opponents. Warren made desperate attempts to gain the lead, but met with determined defence, W. H. Mackay being particularly sound. The final bell rang with the scores still level, and an extra period had to be played. Warren attacked vigorously, and E. D. Kater almost scored. The Mackay brothers then worked past halfway, but F. C. Kater drove them back, and Agnew had a shot for goal, which missed by a few inches. A ruck was formed in front of goal, and a backhander by a Warren player would have scored but for striking a pony. W. H. Mackay then cleared his line, but Warren returned to the charge, and E. S. Kater won the game for his side with a fine drive. The final scores were: Warren (2 goals), 11 goals 16 behinds; Mindaribba (10 goals) 10 goals 12 behinds.

SCONE v MUSWELLBROOK B.

Scone: H. M. Crosby (back), Arthur Davies, captain (3), Jack Davies (2), Clive Mackay (1).

Muswellbrook B.—E. R. White, captain (back), Roy Bell (3), Max White (2), Ned White (1).

Umpires: Messrs. A. M. and J. F. White.

The concluding scores were:—Muswellbrook B (1 goal), 9 goals 11 behinds; Scone (3 goals), 5 goals 4 behinds.

Muswellbrook were the first to score, Roy Bell putting in a nice run and forwarding to Max White, who backhanded right to the front of the goal, and E. R. White tapped it through. Scone were not long in equalling the score, some good play by Jack Davies sending them goalwards, and from the ruck Crosby scored. Muswellbrook B showed good form, and the goal scored by them in the second period was brought about by clever play on the part of Max White, who made a good opening for Roy Bell, and the latter had no difficulty in landing the goal. Play sparkled in the third period, Muswellbrook still in the ascendant. Roy Bell wiped off Scone's handicap with a splendid run, hitting through the posts, and then Reg. White put them in the lead after a brilliant run, which culminated in a goal. Scone defended well in the fourth period, but a lengthy drive by Ned White eluded the [illegible] and raised the flag. Scone made a couple of attacks, but Reg. White had too much pace.

The best play of the match was seen in the fifth period, Ned White making some dashing runs. Roy Bell, whose hitting was exceptionally sure throughout, sent Muswellbrook on the attack with a clever nearsider, and made a fine opening for Reg. White, but the latter's shot struck the posts. Arthur Davies secured, and, hitting splendidly, travelled right down the ground, and Crosby, joining in, scored with a lofty hit. Scone were now only two goals behind, but for the rest of the game they were outplayed, the Muswellbrook's combination being perfect. A high drive by Max White placed well for his brother, but the latter's backhander had hardly enough power behind it, and stopped short of goal. Scone transferred play to centre, but another splendid piece of combined work gave Muswellbrook a further lead. After the ball had passed from player to player, with a well-directed shot by Reg. White to Ned White, and he sent the ball through. Scone and Muswellbrook were attacking for the greater portion of the last period, and Reg. and Ned White each hit goals, making the final scores: Muswellbrook B (1 goal), 9 goals 11 behinds; Scone (3 goals), 5 goals 4 behinds.

MOREE v NARRANDERA.

Moree.—Rowley Munro, captain (back), T. S. Murray (3), A. F. Keen (2), F. T. Glennie (1).

Narrandera.—A. W. Austin, captain (back), H. E. Bullivant (3), J. Perry (2), S. Robertson (1).

Umpires: Messrs. Frank Shepherd and G. C. Mack.

The game finished: Narrandera (scr.), 10 goals 11 behinds: Moree (5 goals), 9 goals 6 behinds.

From the throw-in Narrandera dashed goalwards, and, after a couple of attempts had been blocked, Bullivant scored with a neat shot. Narrandera kept a persistent attack, and some powerful drives went very close to scoring. Moree were defending soundly, but could make no headway in attack. In the second period Moree played up surprisingly well, and had much the better of matters. Murray was prominent with a fine run, but when looking dangerous he missed the ball. Coming again, he passed nicely to Keen, who hit a goal. A little later Keen did likewise for Murray, forwarding him the ball to a good position, and the latter put through. The feature of some splendid play in the third period, his powerful drives continually sending Narrandera back, and on one occasion a long shot by him was only reached by Austin just at the posts. Moree's hitting was much superior to any of their previous games, and they worked to goal, but Robertson drove them back to centre.

Give-and-take play ensued in Narrandera territory, and then Keen shot out of the ruck and scored, giving his side a commanding lead. [illegible] of the dash they displayed against [illegible] in the fourth period they were at the [illegible] lone-hand effort by Robertson ended [illegible] goal, and then Perry made a dashing run [illegible] well supported by Robertson, who [illegible]. Narrandera continued to attack, and some [illegible] followed, Rowley Munro frequently [illegible] with well-timed shots; but eventually [illegible] put the ball between the posts. In the next two periods Narrandera played [illegible], and gradually wore Moree down. [illegible] game was entered upon with [illegible] goal in the lead, but a penalty [illegible] free hit resulted in a goal [illegible] away from the throw-in, and [illegible] another goal amid tremendous excitement [illegible] score:—Narrandera (scratch) 10 goals 11 behinds; Moree (5 goals), 9 goals 6 behinds.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME.

The Dudley Cup semi-finals will be played to-day: Harden will meet Muswellbrook, and Sydney A will oppose Narromine.

GOVERNOR'S POWERS.

AN IMPERIAL OPINION.

THE CRISIS IN TASMANIA.

HOBART, Wednesday.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has given his opinion on the action of the Governor in imposing conditions when granting a dissolution to the Labour Government.

In course of his reply to the address from the House of Assembly, Mr. Harcourt said:—"I have given my most careful consideration to the course of events which led up to the present action of this address. I recognise that a difficult position has existed for some time in Tasmania owing to the practical equality of parties in the House of Assembly, but I am of opinion that your action in the matter was not in accordance with constitutional practice. The grounds on which I have come to this conclusion are as follow:—The observance of the principles of responsible government requires that a Governor must be clothed with Ministerial responsibility for all acts in relation to public affairs to which he is a party. As head of the Executive he cannot therefore perform any act except on the advice of his Ministers, and for performing it on such advice no political responsibility attaches to him personally.

"The question whether or not a dissolution should be granted is a purely internal affair, and is thus regulated by the same rule. A Governor, therefore, cannot dissolve the Legislature except on the advice of his Ministers. There have, of course, been not a few cases in which Governors have rejected the advice tendered to them by their Ministers that the Legislature should be dissolved; these, however, do not stand on a different constitutional footing from any other case in which a Governor may feel himself unable to accept the advice of his Ministers. In all such cases the Ministers either acquiesce in the Governor's action, or [illegible] to leave the Governor to find Ministers who will accept the responsibility.

"A Governor may feel it incumbent on him to consider with special care requests for dissolutions, but constitutionally he has no special powers in such matters. It follows, therefore, that he is no more entitled to impose on an incoming Ministry as a condition of admitting them to office that they shall advise a dissolution of the Legislature than that they should render any other specific advice."

A SUCCESSFUL BALL.

GIRL HOSTESSES.

Thirty-five girls gave a dance at the Palais de Luxe last night, and the guests found the ball one of the best of the season. The decorations were the same as on the previous evening, and the dancing was to the up-to-date variety. A pretty effect was given by the parti-coloured lights thrown over the dancers, while ballroom lights were lowered. The night was fine, but so very cold that wraps were in great demand by sitters-out, but the nip in the wind made dancing all the more pleasant. The following were the hostesses:—Misses Marjory Alison, Marjory Bowker, Joy Bayly, Mollie Bethune, Stephanie Barton, Enid Clibborn, May Campbell, Ina Cornish, Barbara Cowper, Una de Burgh, Gwen Davis, Violet Davenport, Helen Faithfull, Cherie Gordon, Gladys Gould, Midge Giles, Edith Hobbs, Judith Jenkins, Dora Jopp, Helen Knox, Maud Lyall Leake, Dorothy Luscombe, Walwyn Laidley, Elwin McCarthy, Muriel Mills, Ruth Moore, [illegible] McDonald, Helen Merewether, Marjory Merewether, Marjory Mort, Kathleen Osborne, Valentine Osborne, Helen Pockley, Lorna Robinson, Elma Rutledge.

The members of the committee were distinguished by carrying bouquets of violets. Mrs. R. Verney had a beautiful gown of mauve and shot taffeta, draped over silk of a lighter shade of pink, the bodice finished with diamante trimming, and sleeves of Limerick lace. Mrs. Eric Riddiford (N.Z.) wore mauve silk, with a three-tiered tunic of black lace, edged with tiny ruchings of white silk, the V-shaped bodice of white tulle. Miss Alison wore light blue satin broche, with ninon and [illegible], bodice finished with a large pink rose. Mrs. H. Merewether was in white satin, with ninon drapings. Mrs. [illegible] had a sapphire blue brocaded [illegible] beaded net tunic, corsage [illegible] of crystal beaded net and lace. Miss Enid Bayly wore mist-grey ninon over silk [illegible]. Mrs. Herbert Marks had a black velvet gown, with a jetted velvet and white lace bodice. Miss Falk was in deep pink taffetas, with a tunic of pleated chiffon and trimming of the same shade [illegible]. Mrs. Geoffrey Fairfax wore [illegible] velvet, floral brocade, with short draped tunic, finished with a black velvet, bodice of white shadow lace. Miss Davenport was in pale pink [illegible]. Miss M'Morran (a debutante of the [illegible]) wore a pretty frock of pink, with [illegible] at the edge of the ninon tunic. Miss Stewart, gold satin covered with [illegible] lace; Miss Walwyn Laidley in yellow [illegible]. Miss Wilkins (Melbourne) wore pale pink brocade with white shadow lace on the bodice. Miss Helen Knox had a white satin [illegible] with flounces of black shadow lace. [illegible] deep cream satin, made with draped skirt and finished with [illegible] lace. Miss Kathleen Osborne wore pink satin, trimmed with lace. Miss [illegible] was in white satin, veiled with pink ninon, finished with touches of cerise. Miss [illegible] Davenport had a gown in gold shades, red satin veiled in dark blue ninon, and finished with gold embroidery. Miss Martin wore very pale lime green. Miss Wilkinson's sapphire blue brocade was veiled with a crystal net and lace bodice.

Others present were:—Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Leake, Dr. and Mrs. A. Moseley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Macarthur, Miss Dibbs, Miss [illegible] Gordon, Miss Rose Milne, Miss Laidley, Miss Langtree, Miss Joan Garland, Miss Huxtable, Misses Morton, Miss Remington, Messrs. J. Bell, R. Synnot, [illegible] Davenport, Dr. W. Fairfax, Captain d'Apice, and Dr. Verge.

TALLOW.

LONDON, July 8, 1.30 p.m.

At to-day's tallow sales 1465 casks were offered, and 845 sold. Prices:—Mutton, fine 35/, medium 32/; beef, fine 33/3, medium 31/.

CIVIC PENSIONS.

The introduction of a pension scheme for the benefit of the City Council employees was urged by Alderman [illegible] at yesterday's meeting of the finance committee of the council. Alderman [illegible] stated that provision for the evening of life should be made for those who had given the greater part of their years in the service of the council. The Town Clerk mentioned that an effort had previously been made with a view to inaugurating a superannuation scheme, but that the Government would not give the council the necessary power. It was decided to refer the matter to the Town Clerk for report.

A WOMAN ROBBED.

Mrs. May Jones arrived in Sydney on June 25 from Tasmania, and went straight to see some friends at Cliff Terrace, Coogee. She arrived there at about [illegible] leaving her children outside [illegible] returned some time later and discovered her handbag, containing £78 in notes, was missing.

A tall man came along and asked [illegible]. He said he was a detective. [illegible] She told him of her loss, and he said he would report the matter. She came to the Central Police Station on July 7 as she would [illegible] result of the inquiries. [illegible] the last she saw of him.

THE EDISON
DICTATING MACHINE.

This machine is first assistant to the executive who has a big pile of correspondence to work off each morning.

Just as you open and read a letter the idea for the reply invariably comes at once, and the Edison Dictating Machine is at your elbow waiting for you to speak into it.

There's no need to call your typist—in fact, she need not be able to write shorthand. Descriptive booklet sent on request.

MACHINERY.

THE EDISON STORAGE BATTERY.

Before the advent of the Edison Storage Battery the one weak spot in the Electric Waggon was the Heavy Lead Battery.

That weak spot ceased to exist with the advent of the Edison Storage Battery, because it overcomes all the defects of the lead-acid combination.

There are no acids to destroy, no lead to crumble, the weight is one-half for the same output, and the capacity, instead of falling off, increases with use, due to the better contact of active materials and the conductors.

Full particulars will be sent on request.

AN ELECTRIC MOTOR DRIVER
in charge of the plant of a Manufacturing Establishment or Mine has an easy job, because he is paid, not so much for what he does, as for what he KNOWS. Our Electric Dynamo and Motor Course will qualify you to occupy such a position. Further details and a free copy of our 48-page Booklet free on request. Call or write to-day. Don't put it off, or you will forget all about it, and so perhaps lose the chance of securing a good position.

MOTOR DRIVING TUITION, 30s, license and proficiency from 6 to 12 days. We don't waste your time, but make you drive and change gears first lesson. Our cars are the latest models. You obtain your license on a gate change. We give thorough instruction in running repairs, working of engine, etc. It's to your interests to see us before taking up this profession, so call in and have a talk. We don't charge extra for use of car for license. Expert mechanics are working on premises, and their work is open for inspection of pupils. Our price is reasonable; cars modern; deal the fairest, and tuition the best. Day, Evening, Saturday Afternoon Classes. Wednesday, 7.30 p.m., Free Demonstrative Lecture. Public invited.
RAILWAY GARAGE,
Quay-street, off George-street, near Orchard's.

MOTOR DRIVING as a Profession stands above most other occupations. 100 Cars or thereabouts are sold in Sydney weekly. Drivers must be had at all costs. Why not you take it up? 300 Students have been trained in this school since January this year. Many of these hold the best positions in the Fire Brigades, Police, Ambulance, Tramway, and Lorry Drivers for many city firms. More licenses are obtained at the Traffic Offices each week by my pupils than any other similar business in Sydney. 42 licenses issued in May to students from this school. Nine out of 10 students received their license first try, Friday last, June 28th. These are facts, and will stand verifying. Students are taught on (six) modern cars, each operating differently, viz., gate-change, Panhard, Quadrant, etc. If you wish to become competent to hold a position you must have experience on many makes of cars, and understand the mechanism of each make. You are trained in 10 to 20 days to be thoroughly competent. There are no failures—your license or money refunded. This school is fitted with electricity for fitting, turning, and general engineering, thus giving the student a much greater chance of mastering the motor of to-day. Course, £1 10s for car and services.

THE CITY MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY, LIMITED.
ESTABLISHED 1879.
HEAD OFFICE: INTERSECTION OF HUNTER, BLIGH, AND CASTLEREAGH STREETS, SYDNEY.
INVESTED FUNDS AND ANNUAL INCOME, £845,000 STERLING.

The Society offers a Permanent Position to an able NEW BUSINESS-GETTER, to push its Whole Life Policy Business in the City.

The City Mutual issues the most liberal policy of any office in the British Empire. The bonuses paid on Whole Life Policies for £1000 during the past four years have been respectively £14, £17/10/, £20, and £25: figures that need no decorative language.

The Society's Affairs were investigated last year by two independent Actuaries, Professor Moors, F.I.A., of the Sydney University, and Mr. T. W. Bremner, F.F.A., and 8 months were occupied in the investigation.

Their certificate was to the effect that not only in their opinion would these magnificent bonuses be maintained in the future, but that there was ample ground for anticipating vastly enhanced figures.

A live worker should easily write annually £100,000 worth of new business, and with the liberal encouragement which the management is prepared to allow, should earn for himself at the least a net income of over £300 per annum.

"ARNOTT'S SHREDDED WHEATMEAL BISCUITS FOR YOU."

—Says the Grocer. Ask YOUR Grocer about these dainty dessert confections.

BAKED BY ARNOTT'S—SURE TO BE GOOD.

Darling little crisp Biscuits, with a flavour—Oh! so delicate.

THEY MUST BE ARNOTT'S.

"SUCCESS" STOVES SAVE WORK.

Instal a "Success" Stove—make sure it IS a "Success." It will save you 25 per cent. of fuel and incidentally a great amount of work in connection with chopping wood and getting coal. The fire burns so steadily that you have very little trouble keeping it going; moreover, it cooks evenly and thoroughly.

The "Success" No. 1 is built for smaller households, and, owing to its scientific construction, gives a splendid heat to both oven and boiling surface. The price is 37/6, or, with special firebox for wood fuel, 40/.

It would be wise to examine this stove in our showrooms, or write for free Illustrated Catalogue.

LIPTON'S TEA

—yields a beautiful rich, copper-coloured infusion—not a green-tinted, watery mixture.
Its flavour is obtained by the scientific blending of Mr. H. C. Till, one of the world's greatest tea experts, who controls Lipton's Australasian business.
Lipton's possesses the rich, delicious tea flavour that every-one likes.

FREE—A ¼lb. OF LIPTON'S TEA.

Send 3d in stamps, and we will post you one quarter pound sample of our 1/3, 1/6, 1/9, or 2/ tea.
State which grade you prefer.
STOCKED BY ANTHONY HORDERN AND SONS, LASSETTER'S, and OTHER GROCERS.

TEETH TREATED TENDERLY

TEETH. TEETH.

Many people fear to visit the Dentist, because of a former experience at the hands of a rough or unskilful operator. Gentleness in all my treatments is one of my special characteristics. My own individual method of extraction is absolutely painless. I will forfeit £5 if my guarantee of thorough painlessness is not fulfilled. Every effort is made to save valuable teeth, which are often ruthlessly sacrificed. In Fillings, aided by my new apparatus—the only one in Sydney—I achieve splendid results, effective, and really painless. This permits me to drill tender teeth to prepare them for Filling, causing you the semblance of pain. And, moreover, my Fillings are as lasting as they are satisfactory. I guarantee them for five years—not a verbal guarantee, but a written one—fully entitling you to its benefits if at any time my work should need revision. And this also applies to Plate Work. I treat the teeth of even the youngest children with sympathetic care and attention—correcting defects and training the teeth to ensure adult perfection.

SKINS TANNED, DYED, AND MADE UP.

GOOD, SOUND TEETH CAN MAKE YOU HAPPY.

They can give you that "pleased" feeling that comes with good health—and if good teeth mean anything they mean good health—the power to eat and enjoy the food that nourishes and builds up the body.

Don't worry along eating your food on "one side," and putting up with constant toothache torture. Let the "National" Dentists attend to your teeth troubles. We do not extract unless it is absolutely necessary, and where your teeth are broken and decayed beyond repair, we can give you a Set of perfectly natural-looking Artificial Teeth, fitted to

AN UNBREAKABLE PLATE,

FROM ONE GUINEA.

These Plates are our own speciality—they've revolutionised Dentistry—we've fitted hundreds of patients with "National" plates—they're positively UNBREAKABLE—throw them with force on the floor—even stand on them and they will not break. We give a guarantee with each Set, covering Plate repairs for the lifetime of the patient.

If you are troubled with your teeth—will you let us look your case over and prescribe for you? There is no charge for that, and it puts your under no obligation. Slip in TO-DAY. Our Consultation Hours are daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., except Saturday, and then 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. (Only).

SHI-NOLEUM.

Makes the day set by for Polishing your Linoleums and Furniture a very easy one. It gives a bright, lasting, finish in half the usual time.

TRY A TIN TO-DAY.

LOOK AT THE NAME.

POLISH YOUR FURNITURE WITH SHI-NOLEUM.

Shi-Noleum is most effective for brightening up your polished Furniture, Leather goods of all kinds, and Linoleums.

It is economical also, and a great time-saver. Just a little Shi-Noleum applied once a week with a soft cloth, lightly rubbed over with a dry cloth, gives most satisfactory results. A gentle rub over occasionally renews the "sheen."

Obtainable at all stores and grocers. Beware of imitations.

Try Shi-Noleum at our expense. Sample tin on request, post free, from Paget Manufacturing Co., Ltd., 109 Regent-street, Sydney.

MARK FOY'S, LIMITED,

EXACTLY AS ADVERTISED.

TO KEEP A STORE JUST RIGHT IS A BRANCH OF THE SCIENCES, AND TO HAVE EVERYTHING EXACTLY AS "ADVERTISED" IS A BIG PART OF THAT BRANCH. "WHAT I LIKE ABOUT YOUR ADVERTISING STATEMENTS," SAID ONE THE OTHER DAY, "IS THE ACCURATE WAY YOU GIVE WEIGHTS AND SIZES."

TO THAT

WE WOULD FAIN ADD

THAT, IF YOU READ OF OTHER ARTICLES ADVERTISED BY OTHER HOUSES, AND APPARENTLY AS CHEAP, PLEASE HAVE THEM MEASURED, FOR A LITTLE CARELESSNESS (OR UNDUE OPTIMISM) WITH THE YARD MEASURE MAKES A MIGHTY DIFFERENCE IN THE VALUES. TRIED AND TRUE BY WEIGHT AND MEASURE HAS ALWAYS BEEN THE FOY WAY OF CONDUCTING THEIR BUSINESS.
